'NATION WITHOUT RANCOR'

Johnson Striving To Halt Paralysis, Build Up Accord

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday night he wants to "achieve a broad national consensus" to wipe out obstruction and paralysis and help create "a nation without rancor and a world without fear."

In a speech prepared for commencement exercises at the University of Texas, the chief executive called for a "knowledge explosion" to help build the Great Society he has talked of often in recent weeks.

'LIBERTY, PEACE'

Johnson said that everywhere in the land, people want liberty, peace, justice and "education for their children and an improving life for their families."

Asserting that "this is the real voice of America," he said one of the great tasks of political leadership is to amplify this voice so it is heard.

In the key passage of his address, he continued:

"I am going to try to do this. I intend to try and achieve a broad national consensus which can end obstruction and paralysis and liberate the energies of the nation for the work of the future."

Johnson, who has said he wants to be a "president of all the people," elaborated on this theme and he pictured this way the fruits of the national consensus he envisions: "I want a happy nation, not a harassed people—men with pride in their ancestry and hope for their posterity — but humble before their God and concerned always with the wants and needs of their fellow human beings."

Johnson interrupted a work-and-relaxation holiday weekend at his ranch home in Johnson City, 65 miles west of this state capital, to blueprint president-goals at the campus of the Texas Longhorns.

The President, a 1930 graduate of Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos, was honored with a doctor of laws degree. And Mrs. Johnson, who holds two bachelor degrees from Texas, was awarded a doctor of letters degree.

In these cases, the doctorates were honorary in more than the usual sense. Whereas many universities are free with these degrees at commencement time, Texas has bestowed them only twice before in this century —to John Nance Garner, then vice president, in 1935, and to former university President Robert E. Vinson in 1923.

In his text, Johnson said, "The future is rushing upon us." And he noted forecasts that the national population will expand from 190 million to 400 million in the next 50 years.

"The only way we can hope to deal with the population explosion is with the knowledge explosion," he said. "For we are at a turning point in the history of our nation. One road leads to the Great Society, where man's spirit finds fulfillment in the works of his mind. The other road leads to a legacy of despair and degradation where man's hopes are overwhelmed by change he cannot control"

Johnson said that "only by opening the truths of knowledge to all our people can we free them for a future of greatness."

DR. LEO SZILARD
. . . Famed Physicist

Death Takes U.S. Pioneer Of A-Bomb

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Famed nuclear physicist Leo Szilard—who helped the United States become an atomic power, and then later campaigned for peace—died Saturday at his La Jolla home. He was 66.

Death was attributed to an apparent heart attack.

Dr. Szilard was one of the men who helped convince Albert Einstein in 1939 that he should talk to President Franklin D. Roosevelt about atomic weapons.

Einstein wrote FDR—and the United States started work on its first A-bomb.

FERMI'S AID

In 1942, with Enrico Fermi, Szilard brought about history's first chain reaction—in a laboratory at the University of Chicago. Fermi and Szilard worked out the method of arranging graphite and uranium to make possible a self-sustaining nuclear reactor.

In later years Dr. Szilard was a tireless campaigner in the search for peace.

Szilard, who hoped the bomb would not be used, tried to write Russia's Premier Stalin in 1947 asking settlement of international differences.

The State Department denied him permission, but Szilard later had the letter published in a bulletin for atomic scientists.

The biophysicist came to La Jolla last month from Chicago to accept a post with the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Two Senators List Support For Cloture

Rights Backers Nine Votes Shy Of Getting 'Gag'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the marathon Senate struggle to pass the civil rights bill gained support Saturday of two more senators in their drive to limit debate and force voting.

Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., in separate interviews said they would vote to impose cloture, the Senate's term for limiting debate, if this is necessary to bring action.

TOTAL OF 58

This brought to 58 the number of senators who have told The Associated Press they would support debate limitation.

The list of 39 Democrats and 19 Republicans still is nine short of the 67—or two-thirds required to limit debate if all 100 senators are present and voting.

Another 26 senators—24 Democrats and two Republicans — are listed as firmly opposed to what Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and others fighting the rights measure call "the gag rule."

But the bill's backers are hopeful they can win over enough of the 16 undecided or unpleged members so they can halt talk next month on the measure which has been under discussion in the Senate since March 9.

Monroney said he wanted to be certain that the Senate would get a chance to vote on amendments and the different sections of the complete measure before he decided about limiting debate.

This assurance has been given, he said, by both Democratic and Republican leaders who introduced a compromise package of amendments last week that redraft the bill passed in February by the house.

Californians Face Crucial Vote Decision

Goldwater Win To Almost Insure Nomination Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California Republicans vote Tuesday in a presidential primary expected to set the course for the GOP in 1964 and perhaps for years to come.

It is a two-man contest between Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, hero of the Republican conservative wing, and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who is appealing to liberals and moderates in the party. The prize is 86 national convention votes. Write-in votes for other candidates cannot be counted.

MOST DELEGATES

Victory for Goldwater, who has collected most of the national convention delegates chosen so far, would almost insure his nomination at the Republican convention in July.

By winning in California, Rockefeller would make himself a formidable candidate, at last, but the victory would not insure his nomination. Despite his election twice in the pivotal state of New York, he is considered "too liberal" by many Republicans. His divorce and remarriage also are still regarded as a serious political handicap, offensive to many women voters.

Sees Envoys, Thai Premier At Bangkok

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with the U.S. ambassadors to Thailand and Laos on Saturday, and then called on Thai Premier Thanom Kittikachorn for a one-hour conference at the premier's private residence.

There was speculation that a prime topic was the possibility American troops would be sent to Thailand—as in 1962 when pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces stood near Thailand's 600-mile border with Laos.

Rusk met for three hours with the U.S. ambassadors at the U.S. embassy here.

"We batted the ball back and forth," an American official said.

EXPANDED ACTION

Rusk will meet with top-level U.S. diplomatic and military authorities in Honolulu Monday and Tuesday for a survey of immediate issues posed by Communist offensives and a long-range look at the problems of trying to restore peace and stability in Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia. Expanded armed action by the United States is among the possibilities to be considered.

Secrecy dramatized conferences of Rusk and Thai and American officials Saturday in Bangkok, the capital of pro-Western Thailand and headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

An American source said the strife in Laos and neighboring Thailand's reaction formed the chief topic. The situation in South Viet Nam, where the United States is helping in a war against Communist guerrillas, also was discussed.

Officials in Rusk's party indicated details of the discussions were not likely to be released until after the Honolulu meeting.

That meeting, called by President Johnson, is expected to draw up recommendations of what the United States should do in Laos and South Viet Nam to stop Communist aggression and convince Asian friends it means business.

Rusk flew to Bangkok from New Delhi, India, where he attended funeral rites for Prime Minister Nehru. Robert Manning, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, who is with Rusk, told newsmen the secretary thought it a good opportunity to stop here for talks with the Thais, who are among the best friends Washington has in Asia.

Welcome Rains Come To Area; Farmers Glad

A slow rain settled over Northeast Louisiana Saturday and as a Monroe farmer, Fred Huenefeld Jr., said "It couldn't have come at a better time."

Huenefeld, who grows the area's three major crops —cotton, corn and soybeans —as well as having pasture land, said the rain would give these crops the needed kick.

Showers began about 1 a.m. Saturday and became steadier in the Twin Cities about mid-afternoon. FAA at Selman Field recorded .8 inches of rain by 9 p. m. Temperatures remained cool with a high Saturday of 83 degrees and a low of 62.

RAIN

"The rain hit just perfect on corn which is knee-high to shoulder-high," Huenefeld said "About 90 per cent of the cotton is already planted and it will get a good kick from the rain."

He said many farmers are just planting soybeans or already have them in the ground. The rain will get them up, he said. Pastures were needing moisture too, he added.

Huenefeld noted that a dry spell about this time last year caused many farmers to lose their corn crops.

The cloudy skies and showers covering most of the mid-south are forecast to continue through today. Highs will be 78-82. Night readings will drop to 58-62.

While the Twin Cities and area were enjoying mild temperatures, Thermal and Imperial, Calif., were baking under 100 degree weather as the nation's hot spot and Pellston, Mich., shivered in the nation's low of 28 degrees.

Winds over the area will be 8-16 miles per hour today.

Three Demos Deadlocked In Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Three candidates were locked in a nip-and-tuck battle for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina Saturday night after record voting in party primaries.

The Democratic nomination usually is tantamount to election. Gov. Terry Sanford is not running for another term.

The lead switched several times in the early count between Dan K. Moore, 58-year-old corporation lawyer and former judge, and L. Richardson Preyer, 45-year-old former federal judge.

FORMER PROFESSOR

I. Beverly Lake, 57, former law professor, ran third almost from the outset among the six candidates seeking the nomination.

With 1,186 of the state's 2,164 precincts reporting, Moore had 137,687 votes, Preyer had 137,079 and Lake, 100,889. Among the other candidates, Kidd Brewer had 4,094; Bruce Burleson, 1,513, and Raymond Stansbury, 1,174.

In the Republican primary, with three candidates seeking nomination for governor, 361 precincts had reported. They gave Robert L. Gavin 10,156 votes, State Sen. Charles W. Strong 1,728 and State Rep. Donald Badgely 404.

In congressional primaries, Rep. Ralph Scott of the Fifth District easily beat back challenger Frank Freeman of Dobson for the democratic nomination for his fifth term. He will face Republican W. A. (Nab) Armfield in the November election.

Other contests for the Democratic nomination to Congress included the Fourth District race, where Rep. Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, was heavily contested by R. Mayne Albright, a Raleigh attorney. Cooley sought his 16th term.

New Son Born To Rockefellers

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller became parents Saturday of a baby boy and the Republican presidential hopeful quickly announced mother and baby were doing "wonderfully."

The governor was in The New York Hospital when the 7 pound, 10 ounce child was born to his wife — the former Margaretta (Happy) Fitler Murphy.

Rockefeller has taken a break in his intensive California campaigning for the Republican nomination for the presidency to be at his wife's side.

Dr. Charles M. McLane delivered the child. The governor said the infant, as yet unnamed, was "a bit over 20 inches long."

VACUUM PERSISTS

Indians Postpone Choosing Leader

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Quarreling politicians who spent their careers in the shadow of Prime Minister Nehru searched for a new leader Saturday, but the power vacuum persisted in a succession struggle full of danger for mourning India.

The high command of the ruling Congress party assembled for the first time to select the man to carry on Nehru's fight against poverty, illiteracy and racial disunity plaguing 470 million people.

CLOSED SESSION

But the choice of a new prime minister, fateful in the East-West struggle for influence in this part of the world, was put off. A 30-minute closed meeting brought an announcement of another session Sunday to try to settle the bitter rivalry and agree on a unanimous selection.

The brief conference of the party's 18-member working committee nevertheless produced a resolution pledging the Congress party to hold India on the paths of neutralism and socialism on which Nehru led the nation since it became independent in 1947.

Informants said, however, the party leadership moved no closer to choosing Nehru's heir from among the chief contenders: Acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda, Lal Bahadur, minister without portfolio, ex-Finance Minister Morarji Desai and Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

U.S. Conference Set For Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What may be the biggest U.S. policy conference ever assembled outside continental America opens in Honolulu Monday to debate anti-Communist strategy in Southeast Asia.

Though it may well not draft new policies for President Johnson's decision, it will at least grapple with some very major questions. Among them:

—How much longer can the United States live with the cumbersome Geneva peace-keeping accords for neutral Laos while they are repeatedly violated by the other side? What new or modified system might be imposed?

SCHOOL DROPOUTS

Educators Seeking More Trade Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plea for increased emphasis on vocational-type education in the nation's schools and colleges was made Saturday in a report issued by the American Council on Education.

"Unless far more and far better education in the semi-professional, technical, and skilled levels is soon made available to greater numbers of citizens, the national economy and social structure will suffer irreparable harm," the report said.

Grant Venn, author of the 185-page study, "Man, Education, and Work," said the nation's educational system is geared to the 20 per cent of students who complete college.

The other 80 per cent — the high school dropouts, the high school graduates who don't go to the college, and those who enter college but don't finish—have bleak prospects because they are "entering a labor market whose jobs require constantly higher levels of education and skill development," he said.

Venn, former president of Western State College of Colorado, said educators must take a leading role in providing a solution to the paradox of a nation with between four and five million persons unemployed, and yet with job openings for some four million skilled workers.

Venn was particularly critical of American junior colleges, with the exception of those in California.

Most junior colleges, he said, are concentrating on serving as the first two years of a four-year college program, for these reasons:

The relatively greater expense of occupational curricula, the difficulty of recruiting competent teachers, a lack of understanding on the part of students and parents, and the greater prestige and status of a liberal arts program.

CONVERTS 200 STUDENTS

Boy's Christ Vision Stirs Minor Revival

CAMPBELL'S CREEK, W.Va. (AP) — A boy preacher who claims to have seen a vision of Jesus Christ has stirred up a minor revival among residents of this southern West Virginia area.

Two school teachers and 200 students have been converted by Spencer Campbell Jr., 16.

A Methodist minister who has observed the boy says he is having quite an influence on the local religious community.

The hallways of Dupont High School in the Campbell's Creek area were abuzz with religious discussion as the semester closed this spring because of the "little country fellow that God has seen fit to use."

Campbell's influence in the high school has been as striking as his power in the pulpit.

Prayer meetings were held in a nearby Presbyterian church during the lunch hour on school days. Some of the majorettes asked to be let out of the band "because they didn't feel right about their uniforms," Campbell said.

"And we almost had a prayer meeting in class one day," he said. "The teacher left the room and one girl got up and started testifying."

Campbell said in an interview that he has had visions of Christ on several occasions.

He described one:

"A strange thing happened to me. I had my sermon prepared and my Scripture chosen."

Campbell said he heard a friend in the choir sing a certain passage, and that triggered it.

"I grabbed the sides of the pulpit, I grew numb, I couldn't even move. I saw Christ open the back door of the church and walk in.

"There was a very bright light coming from his face. I couldn't see his face because of the light, but I could see his robes and his hands, and the blood dripping out of his wounds.

"I told the congregation what I was seeing, and some of them saw it too."

Goldwater Raps 'Old Arms'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, climaxing his campaign in California's presidential primary, charged Saturday night that Democratic politicians are sending American airmen into battle in South Viet Nam in "old and inadequate equipment."

Goldwater leveled the charge in an address prepared for a Memorial Day rally in a sprawling amusement area at Buena Park. Earlier in the day Goldwater had told another crowd that he felt the GOP vote in California was swinging to his favor.

"When will this, the mightiest nation on earth, stop sacrificing the lives of its men to the whims of its politicians?" the Republican senator asked in his last major campaign address.

Goldwater pointed to the published letters of Capt. Edwin Shank, who died in the battle against Communist guerillas in South Viet Nam.

"Capt. Shank, in painful detail, told of the ancient aircraft with which he and his fellow pilots were forced to fight and in which they died, and still die," Goldwater said.

"Is it our military leaders who have sent our fliers into battle with such old and inadequate equipment?" he asked. "No, the politicians have done it.

"I charge that the death of men like Capt. Shank, sent to die in obsolete planes, must lie heavily upon the conscience of the defensive foreign policy planners who have directed the failure in Viet Nam so far," Goldwater said.

Officially, the senator said, the State Department says, "we are using obsolete equipment in Viet Nam because of the Geneva conventions which were supposed to bring peace to that area."

"What peace?" he asked. "And what respect has the enemy shown to those conventions?

"How many more Capt. Shanks will have to die before we call a halt to the policies of failure and defeat?"

Earlier, addressing a crowd of 2,500 people in the Southern California community of Ontario, Goldwater had said:

"In the last two days I think the tide in this state has definitely turned toward me."

The senator said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller picked up California's strength after his win in the Oregon primary but now "our grassroots enthusiasm is beginning to break through and be obvious to everyone in this state.

"I do not say that we have it won, I say we have a ways to go," Goldwater added.

He took another slap at the California alliance between Rockefeller and the backers of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

"I'm very flattered and honored for my opposition to think it would take two of them to beat one of me," he said.

Goldwater told Californians again that if Rockefeller "by some unfortunate quirk of fate became president" he would face—and submit to—pressure that would drain off defense contracts from the state's aerospace industry.

He said the Johnson administration, by failing to develop a supersonic transport, has cost California 50,000 jobs.

He said this is a debt Californians owe Johnson, and he linked Rockefeller with the Democratic president.

"Don't pay it off by supporting his stand-in, his philosophical proxy, in this California primary," Goldwater said.

The rally at Buena Park, was the climax of the Arizona senator's long, hard-fought struggle with Rockefeller for California's 86 convention votes.

He was to fly back to Washington to see his daughter, Peggy, 19, graduate from Mt. Vernon Junior College. Goldwater will give the commencement address there Monday.

He plans to return to Los Angeles on Monday evening for an airport rally and news conference. Then he will await the voters' judgment on Tuesday before flying back to Washington election night.

Zuckert Makes Reply

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert praised Saturday the U.S. fighting men in South Viet Nam but ruled out any hope of quick victory there—regardless of the weapons used.

In indirect answer to criticisms that U.S. forces fighting Red guerrillas are handicapped by old airplanes, Zuckert said in a Memorial Day talk at Arlington National Cemetery:

"Sophisticated weapons systems are not the answer in a country where friend and foe are as intermingled as the healthy and cancerous corpuscles in a diseased bloodstream.

"The techniques for success in Viet Nam are not quick victory in a classic battle against the enemy's assembled forces. Success lies in continuing to aid the forces on the side of democracy to rid themselves of a subtle and elusive enemy.

This is a long and hard job, which calls for a massive, determined effort to resist and crush terrorism and injustice."

Before speaking in the cemetery amphitheater, Zuckert represented the absent President Johnson in laying a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknowns.

In a letter asking Zucker to represent him, Johnson wrote:

"Those of us who stand as their heirs and the inheritors of that freedom, bought at such great cost, now dedicate ourselves to face the challenges which demand of us the same qualities of strength, high courage and love of country that characterized our fallen heroes."

Zuckert said U.S. soldiers are dying in Viet Nam because "no great nation today can afford to overlook outright aggression.

"The numbers may not be large, measured against the wars of history, but each death represents a deep tragedy for those who loved and knew them and a sacrifice that touches us all," he added.

Teacher Killed Despite Patrol

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman school teacher was raped, brutally beaten and stabbed seven times Saturday in a slaying that further horrified a Brooklyn neighborhood that has its own mobile anticrime patrol.

The killing of slender, attractive Charlotte Lipsik, 38, occurred only about eight blocks from the headquarters of the citizen radio-car patrol force. The patrol leader, Rabbi Samuel Schrage, calls his 100-man force the "Maccabees," after the followers of a Jewish patriot of Biblical days.

The organization was formed during the past week after a series of muggings, beatings and the rape of a rabbi's wife in Brooklyn's Crown Heights section.

The Maccabees, who normally patrol the area in four radio-equipped cars from dusk to dawn, say their action is based on inadequate police protection, and they shun the tag, "vigilantes."

Friday night, because it was the Jewish Sabbath, only two cars were in use, and they were manned by Gentiles. Jews, who make up a large portion of Crown Heights, are forbidden to ride on the Sabbath.

The savage attack on Miss Lipsik occurred in the self-service elevator of her apartment building.

Asst. Chief Police Inspector James Knott said the woman was knifed once in the forehead, twice in the neck and four times in the abdomen. Her nose and jaw had been broken, an attempt had been made at strangulation and a medical examintion showed she had been raped, Knott said.

Nobody reported hearing any screams, though she apparently tried desperately to fight off her assailant.

Two young men returning from a movie—as had Miss Lipsik—opened the elevator door and discovered the woman lying on her back, still breathing. Her print dress was disarrayed, and her handbag contents were scattered. She died in a hospital less than three hours later.

Knott said one motive apparently was robbery, since no money was found in her purse.

He declined to say whether the death weapon or fingerprints had been found.

"Our problem is that we need more police," Rabbi Schrage said. "The police commissioner's problem is that he doesn't have enough police."

The rabbi and other community leaders are scheduled to confer Monday with Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy.

Both beginners and tailoring classes will be taught.

IN WEST MONROE

Boys Club Sets Summer Activity

Summer activities at the West Monroe Boys Club will get under way Monday, announced Director Lloyd Williams. Plans call for the program to be from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"We have almost every type of sport a boy could ask for," said Williams. "There are daily baseball and softball games, as well as arts and crafts classes. The game room, gymnasium and playground will be open all day."

The boys will be transported to Swayze pool for swimming each day at 1 p.m., Williams continued. In addition to the lifeguards on duty there, an adult from the club goes along in charge of the boys. "We hope to be able to develop an organized swimming program this summer," Williams explained.

Boys who wish to go swimming must bring a note from their parents each day giving them permission to go to the pool on that day, the club director said.

Plans for new facilities to be added this summer include playground equipment, which is already being built, Williams stated.

The club is expecting to enroll its 1000th member early this week, Williams said. The club is divided into four groups, with corresponding annual dues. They are midgets, ages 7-9, 25 cents; juniors, 10-12, 50 cents; intermediates, 13-15, 75 cents and seniors, 16-18, $1.

Boys attending the club should bring a sack lunch, and the club has cold drinks, Williams said.

Two bus runs will deliver the boys back and forth from the Boys Club. Williams said that a study was made to determine the best way to transport the youngsters.

He listed the schedule as follows: 7:55 a.m., Highland School; 8:05 a.m., Kiroli School; 8:20 a.m., Claiborne School; 8:40 a.m., Lenwil School; and 8:50 a.m., Ransom School.

The buses will return the boys, beginning about 4:30 p.m. daily, stopping in the reverse order.

Walter Knotts Is Winner Of Geology Award

Walter S. Knotts, senior from Wisner, has been awarded the John H. McCarter Jr. Geology Scholarship at Northeast Louisiana State College. The award, to an outstanding geology major selected by the Department of Geology faculty, carries a study grant of $100.

Knotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Knotts of Wisner and a graduate of Sicily Island High School, plans to use the award for geology camp studies at the University of Tennessee this summer.

McCarter, organizer and first chairman of the geology department at Northeast State, established the scholarship in 1958 when he resigned to open offices in Monroe as a consulting geologist.

French Reverse Position On Laos

By United Press International

France reversed its position Saturday and said it would not attend the consultations on the Laos crisis in Vientiane proposed by Britain and favored by the United States to ease the Communist-provoked crisis which threatens to engulf Southeast Asia.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, in a note delivered to Laotian Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, maintained that the "only practical method" of bringing the interested parties together was to convene a new 14-nation Geneva conference.

Red China, North Viet Nam and Cambodia already have signified they would not attend the Vientiane consultations. Peking was pushing for a full-scale Geneva conference on Laos, too.

The United States is anxious to avoid such a conference because in fear the Communists would use the occasion as a pretext for debating the entire Indochina question.

The French reversal dealt a heavy blow to urgent Anglo-American efforts to restore peace to Laos.

Soviet Russia was reported to have turned down an appeal from Britain aimed at easing the Laotian crisis.

Soviet Russia Saturday was reported to have turned a deaf ear to an appeal from Britain aimed at easing the Communist-provoked crisis in Laos which threatens to engulf Southeast Asia.

The report came from London as Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew into Bangkok for urgent talks with American and Thai officials on the deteriorating situation in the neighboring strife-torn kingdom of Laos.

Rusk will go to Honolulu for a meeting of top U.S. foreign policy and defense officials on Monday and Tuesday that will range over both political and military aspects of Southeast Asian affairs.

In London, the Foreign Office announced that Britain called Friday on the Soviet Union to join in an appeal to the pro-Communist Laotians and their foreign backers to stop aggression in Laos "at once."

Britain also proposed that Russia join her in a "decisive condemnation" of the Communist attacks and warned that the Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese must bear responsibility for threatening the breakdown of peace in Southeast Asia.

Britain and Russia are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference which settled the Indochina war and guaranteed the neutrality of Laos. The British move followed consultations in London with U.S. presidential envoy William E. Bundy on steps to restore the situation in Laos.

While there was no official Soviet reply to the British proposals, the initial reaction was said to have amounted to a flat rejection by the Kremlin.

Britain at the same time continued efforts to bring about consultations in the Laotian administrative capital of Vientiane next week of the 14 Geneva conference powers to work out an immediate cease fire in Laos.

The United States and Thailand joined other pro-Western nations in accepting the British proposals but the Communists, led by Red China, were adamantly opposed. Peking instead pushed a counter demand for a foreign ministers conference in Geneva or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, presumably to take up the entire Southeast Asia situation, and not the question of Laos alone.

Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos also made another overture toward his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Lao. Souvanna appealed to the so-called Red prince to meet with him either in Vientiane or the royal capital of Luang Prabang to discuss the crisis.

Souphanouvong is expected to reject the bid.

Memorial Day Chill, Storms Plaque Nation

By United Press International

Record chill continued in the Northeast quarter of the nation Memorial Day and severe thunderstorms plagued the southern Rockies and Southern Plains.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were posted for sections of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi through early evening.

Another night of frost was forecast for the Dakotas, upper Mississippi Valley and northern New England.

Southeast Colorado got its second day of torrential rain, closing highways, filling dry stream beds and breaking a two-year-old drought.

In less than 48 hours Lamar, Colo., measured 7.66 inches of rain, three times as much as the city had all year.

Near Gbranada, Colo., four persons were rescued from a car swept 50 feet off a highway and onto an embankment by flash flood waters 4 feet deep. Another car went off a road into a water filled ditch, injuring an occupant.

The Arkansas River swelled from a 20-foot-wide trickle to a two-blocks-wide torrent, closing U.S. 50 from Lamar to the Kansas line. Six members of an Alliance, Neb., family were stranded in their water-stalled car until rescued. Numerous farm families were rescued from flood isolated homes near Holly, Colo.

Jacksboro, Tex., had 7.39 inches of rain in 24 hours. San Antonio, Tex., had 2 inches in six hours. Fort Worth, Tex., residents used shovels to remove drifts of hail stones. The wind ripped a fishing barge loose from its moorings on Lake Lavon in north central Texas but the 12 men aboard managed to leap to safety. Lightning was so bright at Tyler, Tex., it turned off the city's phtoelectric cell-controlled street lights.

Billings, Mont., had 1.27 inches of rain; Casper, Wyo., 1.12 inches; Charleston, S.C., 1.53 inches; Denver Colo., 1.95 inches; Brunswick, Ga., 1.38 inches, and Oklahoma City 1.49 inches. The Oklahoma rains brought to a halt the state's wheat harvest.

Maxwell, N.M., raked away rubble from a Friday tornado which chopped a three-block-wide path through the town of 470 persons, killing one, injuring five, and leaving survivors without drinking water. National Guardsmen patrolled streets to prevent looting. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

A funnel cloud was spotted near Lubbock, Tex., but no damage was reported.

SOUTHPAW GOVERNOR

Georgia Moderate Tradition Slapper

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's southpaw Gov. Carl E. Sanders, a nonconformist politician, has been busily slapping traditions around with both hands since taking office two years ago.

Sanders describes himself as a "conservative progressive"—and he often gives the jitters to the more conservative and less progressive of his advisers and friends.

His latest shocker was to slam the Capitol door, figuratively, in the face of Alabama's segregationist governor, George C. Wallace.

Sanders opposed Wallace's making a speech to the House on invitation of several rural lawmakers. He said Wallace, an avowed candidate for president, should not politick in the legislature and that an incident involving demonstrations might result.

The legislators finally agreed to a compromise. They would give Wallace breakfast at a downtown hotel in exchange for his civil rights speech.

That was fine with Sanders. He said he would not attend the breakfast but would be most happy to see Wallace if he dropped by the Capitol.

Then Wallace ended the problem by canceling the visit.

Most of the speculation about why Sanders snubbed Wallace has centered on the Georgia governor's political ambitions.

Some observers, including backers of the governor, think he will run in 1966 against Sen. Richard B. Russell, formidable senior senator from Georgia.

Others speculate that Sanders, 39, is in line for an appointive post in Washington if President Johnson is relected.

The state's only Negro legislater, Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, said Sanders is the most progressive governor in the South and that he is headed for national office.

Sanders himself is noncommittal.

Of the proposed Wallace trip, Sanders mainly was concerned about being identified with the Alabama states right champion. He also feared an eruption of demonstrations by pro or anti-Wallace groups.

Sanders has never agreed with Wallace's defiance of federal courts or his independent elector campaign. While Wallace was vowing to stand in the school house doors, Sanders was campaigning on a law-and-order platform after leading in the fight that kept Georgia schools open despite integration.

The Georgia governor is on record as opposed to the civil rights bill and integration, but he has not waged a fight against either. His friends call him a racial moderate.

Another source of emnity was Wallace lending aid to former Gov. Marvin Griffin, a bitter political foe and campaign opponent of Sanders in the governor's race.

Mask Wearers Attack Cyprus Water Station

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Masked men attacked and burned a water pumping station supplying a British military base Saturday in a bold act of sabotage climaxing a week - long anti - British campaign.

The unidentified men surprised two Turkish Cypriot guards and forced them out of the water station, located about 24 miles southeast of Nicosia near the Greek Cypriot village of Makrasyka.

The fire damaged electrical installations at the station, which supplies the British sovereign base of Dhekelia where 5,000 British soldiers and their families live.

There were no casualties reported but authorities later found two unexploded bombs in the plant.

It was the second act of violence directed at the British in less than 24 hours. Friday night, a Greek Cypriot mob stormed and stoned the British-owned Harbor Club at Kyrenia on the north coast.

More Students To Bring Crisis In State Schools

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A 25 per cent enrollment jump in the next two years will bring a crisis to Louisiana colleges and universities, the Public Affairs Research Council predicted Saturday.

The council made public an advance summary of a year-survey of the problem "to alert legislators, public officials and citizens of the immediate crisis."

The fourth week of the 60-day Legislature will begin Sunday night, and the deadline for bill introductions is midnight.

In other state affairs, the research agency said Gov. John McKeithen's proposed code of ethics "should improve the image of state government, both among the people of Louisiana and across the nation."

The code, the private research group said, does nothing to "abrudge the rights of honest employes and officials. It does, however, strongly curb the use of one's official position for private gain."

Par said a Senate proposal for sound state debt management incorporates "the most advanced ideas" in issuing and managing state debt.

The immediate college issue, PAR said, is to provide adequate funds for higher education in the next two years.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Tomorrow Big Day For Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Tomorrow will be a big day at the Ouachita Parish Public Library, for on that day the summer vacation reading club begins. This is one of the most popular activities which the library sponsors and one to which the children of the Parish look forward. This year the theme of the club is "The Circus Big Top" and we know that many boys and girls are going to take part in it. Also tomorrow the summer schedules of the bookmobile go into effect. Watch the paper for the schedule for your section of the Parish.

New books continue to arrive and patrons are happy to have them. There are two collections of short stories. One is "Kiss Kiss" by Roald Dahl and the other is "The Leper and Other Stories" by Milovan Djilas. "Marooned" by Martin Caiden is a very unusual book. It concerns the adventures of an astronaut, whose retro-rockets failed him and who cannot get back to earth. The race between the American team and the Russian team to save him, makes exciting reading. For the readers of mystery stories there are three new books this week. They are "The Brass Key" by Francis Swann; "The Flying Horse" by Simon Harvester and "Policeman's Dread" by John Creasey.

There are several new books in the field of health; "Fitness for the Whole Family" by Paul White and Curtis Mitchell should be most useful: "Cooking Without a Grain of Salt" by Elma W. Bagg will be eagerly welcomed by those on a salt free diet. "How to Stop Smoking In Five Days" by J. Wayne McFarland is a book which many people need and will be glad to see. "Your Child's Speech Problems" by Charles Van Riper gives much good advice for the parent with a speech-handicapped child.

A useful new book for a specialized audience is Professional Engineers Examination Questions and Answers" compiled by William S. LaLonde. It would be very useful for a person planning to take a civil service examination in this field. Another very fine book in the engineering field is "Bridges and Men" written by Joseph Gies. This is a history of famous bridges and the men who built them. There are three new books of interest to gardeners; "For Better Gardens" by Roland A. Browne; "The American Home Garden Book and Plan Encyclopedia" published by the American Home magazine and "The Covered Garden" written by Kenneth Lemmon. "Raising Game Birds in Captivity" written by David B. Greenberg contains much useful information. James Beard is the author of a new book on the subject of cookery, which he calls "Delights and Prejudices." It contains not only discussions of food, but recipes, for it's preparation. A very unusual book is "Why did they name It . . .?" written by Hannah Campbell. The author discusses the origin of trade names in a fascinating manner.

There are two very beautiful and scholarly books about far away places and people. One is "The Iberians" by Antonio Arribas and the other is "The Nile" written by Eliot Elifsofan. The last one is one of the most beautiful books that we have ever had.

There are also several new additions to the reference collection. One is "The Boarding School Directory of the United States" should be extremely valuable to parents who are considering entering their children in boarding schools. "The NBC Handbook of Pronunciation, compiled by James Frederick Bender is a book which will be helpful to those who are concerned about their pronunciations. "The Abbreviations Dictionary" by Ralph De Sola is a very good book for writers to use. Those who read William Faulkner will be interested in "Who's Who in Faulkner" recently compiled by M. P. Ford and published by the L.S.U. Press.

Wierd Book About Crazy N.Y. Weekend

BUDDWING. By Evan Hunter. Simon and Schuster. $4.95.

It begins with a man waking up very early on a Saturday morning in Central Park, unable to remember his identity. In the crazy Manhattan weekend which follows, he finally manages to dredge up the shattering reason for his blackout.

From the start he knows his name is Sam, and from time to time he remembers odd little, irrelevant, jigsaw bits from his past life.

Sam meets a young woman named Doris, who is undergoing psychoanalysis, and finds this encounter pretty disillusioning.

He falls in with a sailor on leave, and they follow a pair of Chinese girls, Sally and Tina, into a Chinatown binge. Next he wanders into Greenwich Village. He sees a woman who reminds him of someone named Grace, which convinces him that Grace is important to him. This woman proves to be a social worker, who wants to help him recover his equilibrium.

But Sam is picked up by a hard-boiled, wealthy woman who happens to need a tall man in a blue suit for the treasure hunt she wants to win. They descend upon Harlem, and get into a high-stake crap game. Finally Sam wanders in and out of an Italian wedding reception.

This makes rather a weird odyssey, doesn't it? Would a man who realizes he is suffering from amnesia go through all these strange adventures? Perhaps not.

But if you go along with the surface happenings of the narrative, the author gradually will piece together for you the mystery of Sam's dilemma. In that respect, it is an unusual reading experience.

Kennedy Words Forceful

THE BURDEN AND THE GLORY. By John F. Kennedy. Harper. $4.95.

Of all the books by and about the late President John F. Kennedy which have deluged the market, this should prove one of the most enduring.

The Kennedy years have been characterized as years of ideas more than of actions, of words more than deeds — historians already are coming to agreement that he was struck down too soon to see many of his projects to conclusion —and this book contains some of his most characteristic words and ideas.

The volume, edited by Pulitzer Prize-winning biographer and historian Allan Nevins, with foreword by President Johnson, includes more than 50 selections from the second and third years of Kennedy's administration, including the speech which he had planned to deliver in Dallas the day he was killed.

The selections are formal and informal, ranging from State of the Union messages to news conference comments. Each has with it a brief but incisive footnote from Nevins, recalling the events which provoked or accompanied the Kennedy remarks.

Like all Presidents, Kennedy used speech-writers, and unquestionably some of the material in the speeches did not originate with the late President. But each selection contains the characteristic Kennedy phrases, as varied in makeup and mood as the man himself. He quoted de Tocqueville in one moment and observed in another that "The time to repair the roof is when the sun is shining."

Tech Professor Gives Speech On General Grant

RUSTON (Special) — John D. Winters, professor of history at Louisiana Tech, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Baton Rouge Civil War Round Table held at the City Club in Baton Rouge.

Winters' topic was "General Grant in Louisiana." His address was the first of two discussions on the Vicksburg campaign scheduled by the Round Table.

The second, "The Siege of Vicksburg," will be given in June by Edwin Bearess, research historian and director of the Vicksburg National Park.

Winters is the author of the recently published book "The Civil War in Louisiana," which won the Louisiana Literary Award as "the most distinguished book on Louisiana published in 1963."

ON-DUTY PAUL

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP) — From 10:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. five shifts a week, Paul E. Wiant is a correctional officer at London state prison. After a 15-mile drive, home, he becomes bus driver for Mechanicsburg exempted Village School District.

If some youngsters fail to appear, it's also his job to round them, up as truant officer. Mondays and Wednesdays, he's still another kind of officer, serving as policeman while Chief Cecil Rickard and the other village officer take a day of rest.

Finally, he is ambulance and hearse driver for a funeral home and works with Little League ball players. Despite all this, his wife Maybelle says; "I see about as much of Paul as most wives do their husbands."

MILLION-DOLLAR JAGUAR— NOT FOR SALE!

At the time Rome fell, another city, another great civilization was rising—half way around the world.

The center of the first Mayan Empire, Chichen Itza, lifted its great pyramids above the forests of the Yucatan Peninsula on the east coast of Mexico in the fifth century, A.D.

Deep within the largest pyramid is a chamber dominated by a throne in the shape of a red jaguar, spotted with inserts of green jade. The Mexican government refused $1,000,000 for it 30 years ago!

Far to the north stand the remains of another ancient city, Teotihuacan, which housed 250,000 people in 700 A.D.

And only 35 miles from there is a modern capital of today's world—Mexico City. Here, the tall buildings are examples of the best in modern architecture. Commerce and industry, theater and the arts, education and medicine, people and customs—all are of today's world.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important today. Send for the free 16-page booklet, "Know Mexico," Box 1900, New York 19.

BY HEMINGWAY

Backward Look

A MOVEABLE FEAST. By Ernest Hemingway. Scribner's. $4.95.

"Sketches of the Author's Life In Parish in the Twenties" is the subtitle of this book. It presents Hemingway looking back nearly four decades to his salad days, between 1921 and 1926.

It has the Hemingway touch. It was written at various times between 1957 and 1960, not long before his death.

Probably the most interesting sketches are the three that are concerned with Scott Fitzgerald. The principal one describes a motor trip the two authors made from Lyon to Paris, an utterly nonsensical journey that Hemingway tells with a fine mixture of implied affection, sympathy and a deadpay sense of the ridiculous.

The other Fitzgerald chapters reveal some intimate details about him and about his dark-starred wife Zelda.

There also are some glimpses of Gertrude Stein — who seems in this account to be a rather brothersome person — which end with a cryptic incident.

Poets, writers, and painters of the twenties appear here. Ezra Pound is caught in the inevitable boxing lesson administered by Hemingway. There is a short, acid portrait of Ford Madox Ford, and there are some favorable references to such figures as Sylvia Beach. A few of the sketches are simply mood pieces, cluttered at times with an over-concern with Parisian geography.

The final sketch is in an unusual key. The scene is not Paris, but a mountain villege in Austria, where Hemingway finished his first novel. It is almost a mountain idyll, touched with poesy and nostalgia, closing with a twinge of pathos and self-regret.

The author's first wife, Hadley, and their small son figure in some of these reminiscences, giving the reader a feeling that Hemingway looked back with gentle eyes on this part of the story.

Hemingway wrote for the ear as well as the eye, as he clearly demonstrates in these pages. Try reading some of them aloud and listen to the effect.

As the author's literary executor, Mary Hemingway was right in putting this manuscript inot the publisher's hands. The Hemingway voice comes through.

This Novel Written For Biochemists

IN VIVO. By Mildred Savage. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

The hero of Miss Savage's novel is Dr. Tom Cable, a young biochemist who has talked the officials of a small chemical company into taking a gamble on a long and expensive search for a new antibiotic.

The time is not the present, but the years just after World War II, when penicillin and streptomycin were about all that had been discovered.

The dramatic element of the narrative is the laboratory search itself. But the technical details of solutions, culture broths, gram - positive or gram-negative reactions and tests on mice, rats and dogs, plus autopsies, do not provide very thrilling material.

So naturally the author has brought in a clash of personalities. Besides Cable the "good guys" include Hale, the company president, and Caroline, the head of research. The "bad guys" include Brainard, a bully who is in charge of the plant's production, a craven departmental head named Morrissey and a smart-alec biochemist hired by Brainard.

What with the scientists' wives and some love interest for Cable, there is an element of sex in the story, too.

Miss Savage has done too much research for this novel, and has succumbed to the temptation of using all of it. In more than 600 pages she deluges the reader with great masses of explanatory material, and with long arguments among her characters — even the women — over procedures and policies of the laboratory hunt. All this detail may be fascinating to a reader who happens to be a biochemist, but for those of us who are just looking for a story, it is rather tedious going.

Pope Defends Papal Action Of Pope Pius

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI Saturday defended the work of Pope Pius XII during World War II and said he deplored "the horrible ordeals" of Jews in recent years.

Pope Paul spoke out anew for his wartime predecessor at two separate audiences.

Pope Pius has been the subject of controvery as a result of Rolf Hochhuth's play, "The Deputy," which suggested that the wartime pontiff did not speak out strongly enough against Nazi persecution of the Jews.

At one audience, for members of the Italian Association of War Prisoners, Pope Paul mentioned Pope Pius specifically and outlined what he called his "tireless work full of solicitude and worries" during the war.

Legislators Expecting Flood Of Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A flood of new bills is expected, particularly in the House, Sunday night when the Louisiana Legislature returns from a third weekend at home.

Midnight is the deadline for bill introductions. The House returns at 6 p.m. and the Senate an hour later.

A floor vote is due in the House on a resolution to ask Alabama Gov. George Wallace to speak to a joint session.

A Senate floor scrap could come over the committee assignment for the embattled teacher pay raise.

And the Senate probably will act on Gov. John McKeithen's industry inducement program and other major administration proposals.

After midnight legislators will need a two-thirds majority vote in their chamber to get emergency bills introduced. Constitutional proposals may be handed in until June 9.

The record number of bills for a session in recent legislative history is the 1,930 offered in the 1956 Legislature, first general session of Earl K. Long's third term as governor.

When that record was set, 546 bills were introduced on deadline day. Of these, 426 were in the House and 120 in the Senate.

In 1960, first general session under Jimmie H. Davis, the bill total reached 1,695. This included a record 561 for a deadline day — 422 in the House and 139 in the Senate.

The proposed Wallace speech is pegged to legislation to assure a place for him on the November presidential ballot in Louisiana.

Wallace has the unique position of carrying the unpledged electors banner in Louisiana under the donkey emblem of the national Democratic party, while the national party candidate has the popular rooster emblem of the state Democratic party.

The Democratic State Central Committee has authorized both slates of presidential electors, in a compromise between loyalist Democrats and unpledged electors advocates.

West Monroe Store Slated For Opening

One of West Monroe's newest stores is Spigel's Fashion Center, opening Monday at 2712 N. 7th St. with a complete line of ladies' ready-to-wear, sportswear, lingerie and accessories.

Tom Spigel, the shop's owner, operator, merchandiser and buyer, said Saturday the center will feature nationally - advertised brands at modest prices. He extended a "cordial invitation to all our friends to come by and shop with us."

The store, in business locally for nine years as Humphries' Fashion Center, will have its grand opening "in the near future."

Mrs. Spigel will work with Spigel in the shop's management.

Formerly with Goodfriends of Austin, Tex., and Field's in Monroe in the position of controller-manager, Spigel is a native of Dallas, Tex.

Now living in Monroe, he plans to move soon to West Monroe.

Spigel's Fashion Center will have a staff "ample to provide prompt and efficient service" of four salesladies and an alteration lady.

Bettors Book On Police Radio

DETROIT (AP)—Police of suburban Dearborn Heights were amazed Friday when they heard horse race bets being relayed via their police radio system.

They found dampness had caused a contact between the underground cable of their radio system and a telephone company cable. Telephone calls placed by horse betters thus found their way onto the police radio system.

Police traced the calls and raided a bar a few doors from the police station. Five persons were arrested for investigation of violating state gambling laws.

Old Laws Not Enforced—And It Is A Good Thing

Most people do not consider laws a subject for jest, especially if they have recently suffered the consequences for breaking one. Surely Monroyans of 1912 held their ordinances in the same sober regard, even though they may not be seen in the same light by present-day Twin Cities citizens. This story spotlights a few of the past city regulations which have "just faded away."

By FRANCES PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

Once every 10 days the assistant chief of police must inspect all loaf bread in the city for quality and uniform size, and has the power to confiscate any bread he judges unfit and to fine the seller. This is a brief summary of an ordinance taken from a copy of the Ordinances, Rules and Regulations of the City of Monroe.

If you have never encountered this police inspector despite frequent trips to the grocery store, it is because the law quoted was taken from a code book adopted by the city in 1912.

ATTORNEY HAS COPY

One of the few copies of the small, pamphlet - like ordinance book is owned by Assistant City Attorney Ford Pipes Jr. Listing ordinances adopted from 1855 up to 1912, the book was the last compiled until the present City of Monroe Code, adopted in 1958.

New ordinances were issued in separate folders upon adoption, rather than being made part of a little-at-a-time revised code book. When officials decided that this system was not suitable, Pipes and several others undertook the task of gathering all the laws into one comprehensive, up-to-date code.

Back to the bread, the assistant chief, or inspector of police as he was called then, was authorized to enter any bakery or shop to check the merchandise, also to stop any persons carrying bread for sale on the public streets.

This regulation may seem a little impractical to today's readers, but it was the law in 1912, along with many other rules that do not quite fit into the scheme of 1964 living.

HORSES FIRST

Although "horseless carriages" had been around for a while in 1912, the horses themselves still had the right-of-way on public streets. Automobiles were required to stop when signalled to do so by the driver or rider of a horse, mule or ox, and "not to proceed again until all danger is passed."

The speed laws were slightly lower then, with limits of 8 m.p.h. inside the fire district, 12 m.p.h. outside the fire district, and no more than 5 m.p.h. when turning a corner. On the bridge and its approaches, it was illegal to drive more than 4 m.p.h.

The cars may have been slow, compared to current standards, but they were to be well-illuminated, the law ruled, stating that "each vehicle must be equipped with five lamps — two large headlamps burning carbide or gas and two reserve lights burning carbide gas or oil, plus one rear light burning carbide, gas or oil."

Also, the new-fangled cars were considered as complicated machinery, thus driver's licenses were not issued to anyone under 18.

BIKE REGISTRATION

Bicycles were probably the mode of transportation for young people, and must have been quite numerous, for the code provided that they had to be registered in the same manner that automobiles are registered today. The owner was issued a yearly license plate upon payment of a $1 fee. This gave him the privilege of riding his bike on the sidewalks of the city, except for those in the fire district and those beside paved or graveled streets.

Courtesy, safety, or both were probably in the minds of the 1912 lawmakers when they ruled that bicycle riders had to dismount when meeting or passing ladies or children. Riders were exempt from this requirement, however, if the lady should "signify a willingness for the rider to pass without dismounting."

Daytime travelers on the DeSiard Street bridge could cross free, but tolls were charged from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise. Charges were 30 cents for teams of six animals, 25 cents for teams of four, 20 cents for two-animal teams, 15 cents for one, 10 cents for a man on horseback, five cents for each foot passenger and 2½ cents per head for loose stock.

LIVESTOCK TRAFFIC

The bridgekeeper had to be notified before loose livestock could be driven across the bridge, and more than 20 head were not permitted on the bridge at one time.

Nightclub-goers of 1964 would not be at home in the taverns governed under this code, for one section prohibited any "music, singing or dancing... in places where liquors are sold," and made it unlawful for the proprietor to permit such activities on his premises.

Another regulation made it against the law "for persons to lie or sleep on the counters, tables, chairs or floors or other places" in any establishment where liquor was kept or sold. This law, by the way, was picked up in the 1958 revision of the code book and is still in effect.

The 1912 police force, as described in the ordinance book, consisted of the mayor, who was also the ex-officio chief of police, and at least four officers elected by the mayor and city council. At least two policemen were required to be on duty "from 6 p.m. until 6 a.m. each day of the year."

DRINKING PROVISIONS

Officers were fired if they were found drunk on duty, but a policeman was allowed to take a drink as long as he took off his badge while he was in the bar. If he forgot to remove his star, he was suspended five days without pay on the first offense, and removed from the force on the second. Another ground for dismissal from the department was being found asleep on duty.

An ordinance which brings on a little curiosity about the customs of the times is one which rules that "all persons who shall bury a corpse in any lot not owned by the deceased or his family shall be fined a sum not exceeding $250."

Various other ordinances ruled against such things as:

Playing ball on Grand or DeSiard Streets.

Hitching animals to fire plugs within the city limits.

Cooking in front of buildings on any sidewalk or public thoroughfare.

HIDE STORAGE

Storing hides or furs within the city limits.

"Bathing" in the river in front of the city.

Building a campfire within the city limits.

Driving a wagon, buggy or other such vehicle across the courthouse square, or leading, riding or hitching animals on the square.

Persons under 15 being on the streets after 9 p.m. in the summer and after 8 p.m. in the winter.

Driving stock on Grand and DeSiard streets except "to and from regularly - established livery stables in due course of business."

Standing on sidewalks by one or more persons in such a way as to interfere with free use of the walk.

Showing or advertising any movies or other pictures of prize fighting or boxing within the city limits.

Bureaucracy Now In 'Golden Age'

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — During the summer of 1952 Harry S. Truman meditated on what would happen if Dwight D. Eisenhower replaced him in the White House.

"He'll sit here," Truman said "and he'll say, 'Do this! Do that!' And nothing will happen. Poor Ike—it won't be a bit like the Army. He'll find it very frustrating.

Richard Neustadt, the political scientist, says that as late as 1958 an Eisenhower aide told him: "The President still feels that when he's decided something, that ought to be the end of it. And when it bounces back undone or done wrong, he tends to react with shocked surprise."

Ever since government began, executives have reacted with shocked surprise at how their orders have been mutilated, or blown up far beyond their original intent, or filed and forgotten.

COMPEX

But this has to be bureaucracy's golden age.

Government has become increasingly, bewilderingly complex.

Laws and regulations have mushroomed until only the expert—as he forever reminds us—can understand their meanings.

The National Labor Relations Board decides more cases each year than all the federal courts of appeals combined. It takes 2,500 pages to list the regulations for the armed services, and 940 pages to detail the mysteries of the Agriculture Department.

Government paper work, the Hoover commission guessed a decade ago, costs $4 billion a year.

Bureaucracy has grown despite unrelenting opposition. Scarcely a day passes in which it is not denounced in Congress. Thaddeus McCloskey, R-Ill. said in the House recently, "we have seen a gradual erosion and whittling away at the free enterprise system by government via rules and regulations." McCloskey was particularly upset by a Federal Communications Commission proposal to limit radio and television commercials.

If political history repeats this fall, the Republican presidential nominee will solemnly warn that only under his inspired leadership can spreading bureaucracy be pruned and fiscal sanity restored.

The Democratic candidate will proclaim that only his inspired leadership, and his programs, can shove this nation ahead.

Both will be wrong, of course.

The choice of a president is important, especially in an atomic age. But it's easy for a candidate in full oratorial ecstasy to exaggerate what he can do.

Eisenhower could never trim back—nor could John F. Kennedy push forward—as far as he figured he could before he got the office.

Of all the presidential hopefuls, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has called for the most far-reaching remodeling of government.

"Yet, where could Goldwater trim?" asked John W. Macy Jr., chairman of the Civil Service Commission. "The Post Office, which is doing 6 per cent more business a year? The military? If anything, he might want to increase that. The Veterans Administration? Unlikely. Welfare? But the states administer this. Sell the TVA? Let's see—it has only 16,000 employes, out of 2½ million government workers."

Macy is a Democrat, so he may be prejudiced as to Goldwater's attitude.

NOT ELECTED

Modern government is conducted by persons who never held elective office and who go about their business pretty much the same no matter who is in the White House.

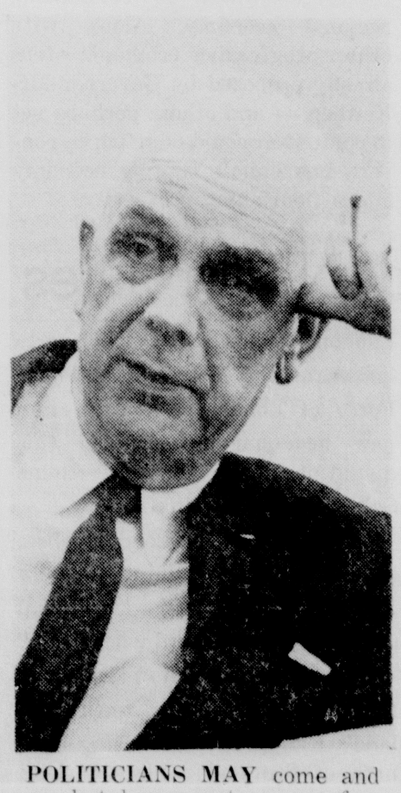
Despite the bureaucrat's collective power—defined and fortified by law—he remains shadowy and misunderstood, looked upon as a drudge or a drone, too lackluster to make a successful villain.

Nothing dismays a bureaucrat more than to be called a bureaucrat, for the word has a built-in sneer.

A dictionary definition tosses in this: "Esp., a government official confirmed in a rigid formal routine."

Macy, who helps round up the 300,000 new employes that the government hires each year, dislikes such words as civil servant or bureaucrat.

"I don't think they're descriptive of what we're doing," Macy said. "To me, a bureaucrat is a man of limited competence who sits all day doing as little as possible. Possibly he has an eye shade, maybe garters on his sleeves. Maybe he has a high stool. I haven't seen anything like that in my 25 years in government."



POLITICIANS MAY come and go, but beaurocrats go on forever. Modern, complex governments couldn't be run without their skills and knowledge. Roger W. Jones, 61, special assistant to the budget director, seen in his Washington office, has worked in U.S. government offices 31 years. Eleven years ago he was the subject of a magazine article on bureaucrats. He has won many awards for excellence in government service. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Certainly Macy isn't the eye shade, sleeve garter, high stool type. Although he has a comfortable, modern couch on which to relax during interviews, he keeps bouncing up to emphasize points, to check his memory—almost always correct—on the statistics that must be a part of any story on government.

Macy, 47, has spent nearly all his adult life as a federal worker, but he is continually bemused by government's endless variety.

The Post Office has 600,000 employes. ("Did you know that the New York Post Office alone has 30,000 workers, more than the entire postal system of Great Britain?")

The Defense Department hires more than a million civilians; other millions who work for private companies on defense contracts live on the taxpayers' money.

Around 165,000 government scientists do everything from studying plant life to forecasting the weather to planning space travel. There's a real worry in some quarters lest science become a government monopoly.

By now the difficulties in describing bureaucracy are obvious. Much of what government does simply doesn't fit preconceived notions.

Certainly Roger W. Jones, 61, a special assistant to the budget director, doesn't fit any preconceptions. Yet 11 years ago he was the subject of a magazine article titled, "This is a Bureaucrat."

Jones had planned to get a Ph.D. degree and teach, but during the depression he sought temporary refuge with the government's Central Statistical Board. His first regular job paid $2,000 a year, minus a 15 per cent economy cut.

Now, 31 years and eight grandchildren later, Jones says he is glad he found his work such a challenge that he never got around to that degree.

Like so many of his fellow government workers—a point often overlooked by critics—he is a Republican.

Jones can be almost truculent in defending the bureaucrat, and his definition is Utopian: "A career government man who knows his job, and does it with skill, dispatch and dedication."

Not everyone matches this ideal, Jones concedes. "Of course, there is deadwood, persons who have topped out and are coasting. A man may become rigid, inflexible, doesn't want to throw himself into anything that's new."

SAME EVERYWHERE

Here Jones stressed a point mentioned by everyone. All contend bureaucracy is a result of bigness, and big business can be as plagued with it as big government.

"You have the same breed of cats everywhere," Jones said. "You have bureaucracy in the Fourth Estate."

In Jones' view, government's finest hour came during the switch from Truman to Eisenhower.

Nearly everyone in the Budget Bureau had worked hard and faithfully for Roosevelt and Truman, and many Republicans believed a house-cleaning would be beneficial. But Joseph M. Dodge, the new Republican director, understood career men. No changes, he said.

So the same men who drew up Truman's budget came back 60 days later with Eisenhower's —$10 billion lighter.

Jones says the Budget Bureau is devoted not to the individual president but to the presidency as an institution. Anyone who finds his affections growing personal is urged to get out.

Louisiana Needs A Research Institute

The resolution introduced in the House at Baton Rouge to submit to the people a constitutional amendment for a $10 million bond issue to create a science-economics research institute in Louisiana should have quick and full approval of the Legislature.

Such an institute, operated under free enterprise methods but on a non-profit basis, would be a tremendous asset not only to industry but to the entire economy of Louisiana. It would be a magnet endlessly attracting outside business and industry to this state.

There would be no political aspects to the institute and, within about five years, it should become self-supporting. The money from the bond issue would be used — to the extent of about $7 million — for construction, purchase of land and equipment, and initial operation, over a period of perhaps five years.

The remaining $3 million would be available to guarantee the early cost of commercial research projects which the institute would undertake for state government departments and agencies, private enterprise business and industry within or with out the state, for universities and colleges here and elsewhere, and for local government where desired.

Such projects would be entirely on a commercial—for pay — but non-profit basis.

The institute would be comparable to the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest at Dallas—except that this center concentrates chiefly on space whereas the Louisiana institute would delve into any branch of science and economics; and to the Southwest Research Institute at Houston, and to such similar establishments as the Armour Institute, the Mellon Institute and the Stanford University Institute.

The financial burden of the bonds would not be felt at all until some time in 1966 and then only to the extent of one million or two million dollars a year.

The proposal for this institute is the result of a long period of study by the Council for a Better Louisiana (CABL), a non-profit and non-political organization of private citizens of business, industry, education and the professions. As a result of its studies, the Gulf South Research Institute recently was incorporated and chartered in the state of Louisiana. Then, the whole proposal, including the bond issue, as a state grant to Gulf South, was placed before Governor McKeithen and gained his full approval. If the bond issue is approved Gulf South will be one of the biggest assets possible for the Governor's general program of revitalizing Louisiana's prosperity. It would help the state to compete with its neighboring states—particularly Texas and Mississippi — in gaining new industry and creating opportunity for new prosperity for present industry; in creating new payrolls and increasing the volume of old payrolls.

Initially CABL called in top representatives of Louisiana State University, Tulane University, the State Labor Council, the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Louisiana Tech, and some others to determine if such an institute was needed and — if so — how it should be created. The final steering committee was made up of:

John L. Tullis, President of AMF/Beaird Company, Inc., Shreveport; Victor Bussie, President Louisiana AFL-CIO; Dean Arthur Choppin, Louisiana State University; Dean Virgil Orr, Louisiana Tech; Dr. Fred W. zurBurg, Director of Research, University of Southwestern Louisiana; Dr. Fred Cagle, Vice President Tulane University; F. Hugh Coughlin, President Council for A Better Louisiana; Vertrees Young, Chairman, Crown Zellerbach Corp., Bogalusa; Keith Lanneay, Vice-Chairman, MicropTek Instruments, Inc. Baton Rouge; Dr. George Kirby, Ethyl Corporation, Baton Rouge; Bernard Meldrum, Chrysler Corp. Space Division, New Orleans; Joe D. Smith, Jr., Alexandria Daily Town Talk, Alexandria; Judge Carlos G. Spaht, Baton Rouge; and Alex Voorhies, Director Esso Research Laboratory, Baton Rouge.

Approximately 100 persons in fields of education, business, industry, labor and the professions have been selected as original members of the Gulf South Research Institute. They will have full power in operation of the institute. A handful of state officials automatically would be ex-officio members of an Institute Council but control would rest entirely with non-political individuals.

More than 30 Louisiana fields suitable for extensive research by the Institute already have been suggested by the CABL committee. They include such things as study of commercial use of North Louisiana clay and sand, commercial use of volcanic glass in Louisiana, study of insecticides, corosion, water pollution, hydrology (commercial use of water), many forms of chemical research, water systems and especially the possibility of development of a huge electronics industry in Louisiana — a new industry which is perhaps limited only by the limits of space itself.

In its principles, this whole proposal is thoroughly sound. Its objective is to lay a foundation of a type already proven highly successful elsewhere in revitalizing regional economy. Along with other progressive economic steps already proposed by Governor McKeithen — and others perhaps yet to come — it could do much to convert Louisiana's lagging economy into a flourishing prosperity.

Scotland Yard Never Dies

England's "Scotland Yard" perhaps is the most famous police force the world has ever known. Unlike Germany's gestapo, which flashed across the world scene like a comet and then faded, Scotland Yard goes along peacefully and effectively, as the years roll into centuries.

If any organization in the world now rates along with Scotland Yard, it is the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States. Scotland Yard always gets its man and the F.B.I. always gets its "most-wanted" man, as well as many other criminals. Some notorious outlaws have surrendered voluntarily on finding their names on the F. B. I.'s most-wanted list."

Although it has moved before and is moving again, "Scotland Yard" remains Scotland Yard.

A news item announcing the London police, more formerly known as the Metropolitan Police Force of London, will move into new headquarters included this quotation from British Home Secretary Henry Brooke:

"I intend that the London police, when they move into the new building, shall take the traditional name of Scotland Yard with them."

The real Scotland Yard dates from the 10th century, when England's King Edgar gave King Kenneth of Scotland a piece of land near the palace of Westminster. It remained the property of Scottish royalty for about two centuries, and the palace built there was known as Scotland Yard.

Police officers were installed there in 1662 and remained until 1890, when they moved to new quarters. Now another move is being made but it is still Scotland Yard.

Views Of Our Readers

Backs Boost In Pay

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

While reading your editorial in the Wednesday's paper, I decided that I must write to you and tell you how I feel about certain statements that you made.

The first thing I wondered, was this, where did you receive your education? You are aware, of course, that some people choose to become educators knowing that the teaching profession will always have a limited pay scale, that they will be attacked on every hand, and will always be the basis of criticism. Yet, in spite of this, people dedicate their lives to educating you, and all others like you. This education that you receive enables you to pursue the career of your choice, and thereby make a living for you and your family.

Next, "Dear Editor", why, every time the teachers even hint that they need a pay increase, do you come out so bitterly against it? In one of your statements, you said, that you just don't believe our teachers would sink to striking for a better pay scale. I believe what you really meant was that the teachers are too dedicated to the welfare of the youth to make them suffer for their own betterment. You mean, I believe, that the teachers are the pillars of our communities, that they have the best interest of the state, the nation, and the world at heart. And knowing this, you think that our consciences would not let us strike. Yet, knowing this, you say that the teachers are jeopardizing the future of the state by asking for a pay raise. Just what do you think the present pay scale is doing to the future of the teachers in Louisiana? Believe me, Mr. Editor, I have tried for the last seven years to support my family, my community, and worthy charities on our present pay scale. I can tell you frankly and honestly, that it cannot be done. You say we should be above the act of striking to receive an adequate pay scale. What would you have us to do? We know we need it, we know we deserve it; so what is the answer?

You in your editorial indicated that, if the teachers asked for a pay raise, it would inevitably mean a tax raise. Did it ever occur to you that the teachers also pay taxes? We are not looking forward to having our meager salaries taxed because we certainly can't afford such a thing.

Mr. Editor, some of your suppositions were so thin and "far out", that I hope that the general public will take just a little time to look at the real truth of the matter. Why, may I ask, can any other department in the state, or any other profession quietly ask for and receive an adequate pay scale? But, the moment the teachers of Louisiana say that they are entitled to a raise, you, and others yell "foul." Is it because you feel that the work others are doing is harder than that of the teachers? If so, let me try to clarify that myth, I do not see my job as an easy one, and do not try to make it that way. My only aim and objective is to give the children I teach the very best education possible regardless of the extra time and work it puts on me. Do you think that the work others are doing is accomplishing more for the state than the work of the teachers? Do you think people in other departments are better citizens than the teachers in Louisiana? Let us look at the truth if you are not already too indoctrinated with the myths you have created. You expect us to prepare for our jobs with at least four years of college work, we are to do our jobs well, always exerting the best and right influence on the children, we are to be above reproach morally and on every occasion have to be constructive and zealous in our citizenship. Yet we are to stay here in Louisiana and teach for the benefit of others for at least $1000 less than our neighboring states. This is the real truth of the matter. We as teachers are not out to ruin the state, but, rather, have dedicated our lives to making it a better place to live.

I was born in Louisiana, and I care for this state of ours as much as you or anyone else. But, if the children I teach ask me what they should prepare their lives for, I shall regretfully have to tell them not to plan on being educators in Louisiana, because the people of Louisiana think so little of their teachers that they are far down the ladder behind at least 34 other states in pay scale. I can, of course, recommend that they become editors so that they can write editorials on any subject, not bothering to get the facts straight without any adverse consequences to themselves. I hope, Mr. Editor, that you will at least read this and in the future, in your paper, try to be at least fair to the teachers. Do you realize, that some of your readers will accept the things you have written, because it is the easiest route to take? But may I remind you that the easy route is not always the better one, I only hope the fine people of our state look farther than the asinine suppositions you have presented in your editorial for the real truth of the matter.

Now, Mr. Editor, if you have read this letter at all, you may promptly file it in the nearest waste basket because I'm sure that this or any other real truth of the matter will not appear in your paper.

Disgustedly yours,
MRS. BETTY V. OLDS.

One Sided Reporting

Calhoun, La.

To the Editor:

I have heard President Johnson criticize the press, but I have also listened to the television news mediator and have found that in many cases they tell the public only half the truth, which in my opinion is worse than a lie. They tell the news that favors the present administration and fail to report almost anything that's not in their favor.

Through your newspaper we have found many things that TV has failed to mention at all. They don't mention many things which our only source is through newspaper editorials such as yours, which apparently do not have any "pets."

They picked 10 o'clock Sunday morning when most people were in church or still napping to have the discussion of the foes of the Civil Rights bill.

They cut Governor Wallace off the air when he started to read the statement President Johnson made when he was in the Senate concerning his views on the Civil Rights.

They give prime time for discussions favoring certain measures and ungodly time for discussions that they do not favor. For instance they announced that Malcolm X was invited to Plaquemine parish to make a speech which in my opinion was far less important than the many things they failed to mention — such as the ten thousand dollar reward that was offered for him should he go to Plaquemine Parish.

On Thursday, May 21, at 5:30 Mrs. Johnson congratulated a man for improvements on his estate, but failed, with cameras on the scene, to give any pictures other than Mrs. Johnson.

The criticisms that are made on nationwide TV against certain parties or certain subjects and do not allow time for answering these charges, are in my opinion very unfair.

Walter Kronkite gave his personal opinion of Senator Barry Goldwater as a poor third in the Oregon primary and running behind Governor Rockefeller in the California primary. He failed to mention his victories in other primaries.

Another favorite, misleading and very effective tactic is the way they use TV tape fragments, such as interviewing maybe 30 people and choose four or five handpicked opinions to suit their taste.

Keep up the good work.

To the Editor:

Your editorial in Saturday, May 23rd's "Morning World" summed up and explained so neatly and so nicely the colossal danger inherent in Johnson's proposed "war on poverty" project. I think it would be a fine idea for whomever had the clearness and astuteness to write this sane piece of news reporting to place himself in some sort of political position, and soon, whereby we, the people, could benefit from his wisdom. It was an excellent piece and a most timely and responsible piece of writing and I fervently hope it will be read, understood and heeded. The editorial asks the questions "when will the people of the country awaken" and "when will they vote such officials out of office?" I ask these questions too. Unless done so soon we shall find ourselves in the throes of C. C. C. and other antiquated F. D. R. New Deal deals all over again. People who think Goldwater lives in the past just are not thinking straight in permitting Johnson to get away with his F. D. R.-inspired socialistic views and legislative programs. I ask a further question. Just who is living in the past but when we have to resurrect ancient, passe', and obsolete F. D. R. deals and pass them off to a too, too gullible American public in the name of modernity? Again, I ask, who is living in the past? Let's all watch out for this "war on "poverty" scheme. And thank you for caring enough to warn us.

California Vote Means Road End

FOR ALL INTENTS and purposes, the Republican Convention will take place in California on Tuesday. There is, actually, one issue before the Republicans this season: it is whether to nominate Barry Goldwater, or whether to nominate someone else — anyone else. It doesn't really matter who else, although one thing is sure, and that is that Nelson Rockefeller is not the alternative to Goldwater, no matter how the situation shapes up formally in California. Rockefeller has about as good a chance for the nomination, as I have said before and say again even after Oregon, as Tommy Manville.

I name Manville not merely because, in the public image, he is the Number One Example of the Loose Set, but because every serious political figure in America is on record, dating back to a year ago, as believing that Nelson Rockefeller's decision to take another man's wife, irrespective of the ravages of that decision on that man's children, was an act of selfishness which argues against his chances to attract a devoted national following. The point was made explicitly by former Senator Prescott Bush, a Liberal Republican, and a fervent admirer of General Eisenhower. He said a year ago that if Nelson Rockefeller were nominated by the Republican Party, he, Prescott Bush, would do what he could to persuade the electorate to vote for the Democratic alternative, whoever he was.

THE ANIMUS AGAINST Rockefeller exists on other grounds than the marriage record, though not necessarily unrelated grounds. There is that extraordinary and disturbing self - concern which even before his divorce caused Eisenhower to call him "a — egomaniac," as it is revealed in the current issue of Newsweek Magazine. Rockefeller — who chose for reasons that were never clear, to surface politically as a Republican when he decided to run for Governor of New York, managed within a few years after taking over the Executive Mansion from Big-Spender Averell Harriman to increase state expenditures by the colossal figure of 60 per cent.

Rockefeller — who as an alleged Republican told a reporter that the country has not had a leader who had given it a sense of national purpose since Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Rockefeller — who denounces everyone who supports the candidacy of Barry Goldwater as a member of the zany, fascistic Right, who denounces as lunatic, inferentially, the overwhelming majority of the regular personnel of the Republican Party, the county, city, state, and national leaders who have announced themselves as favoring Goldwater. They are, we are asked by Rockefeller to believe, non-Republicans, whereas Rockefeller, the Big Spender, the man who refused to back Nixon's candidacy even after Eisenhower had done so, refused until Nixon caved in on a number of matters affecting the national Republican program: how much can one rich egomaniac accomplish? The adjective "rich" is presumably noncontroversial. The noun "egomaniac" is contributed by General Eisenhower.

NO, ROCKEFELLER is not going to get it at San Francisco, not a chance. The question in California is: Goldwater, or someone else — other than Rockefeller. It will be: Goldwater, if the Californians decide to give him a chance to rally the Republican Party behind a set of principles which will be in genuine opposition to Lyndon Johnson's. Or it will be someone from the Republican center. Nixon, maybe. Or Scranton, possibly. Someone who would be picked by the Republican Party on the understanding that what is important, this particular election year, isn't to face the voters with a dramatic alternative to Lyndon Johnson, but to give the voters some sort of an effigy of an opposition, for whom they can vote, if inertia happens to prompt them to do so, as a vaguely Republican gesture.

Asked the reporter a week ago in California: What is to be done in South Vietnam about the supply lines of the Communists that move under cover of the forests and the jungles? Answered Goldwater, "There have been several suggestions made. I don't think we would use any of them. But defoliation of the forest by low-yield atomic weapons could well be done. When you remove the foliage you remove the cover."

SAID ROCKEFELLER every day, everywhere he went: "I do not believe that the answer to the failures of the present Administration is to be found in a reckless belligerence typified by such proposals as (Senator Goldwater's) to use nuclear weapons to clear the jungles of Vietnam."

Those who have a respect for the democratic process must hope at least that if Goldwater is beaten it is because what he stands for is rejected — not the caricature that Mr. Rockefeller in his thirst for power, has painted of him. Goldwater said last week, after surveying some of the incredible charges that had been loosed against him by his enemies, "I trust completely the standards of fair play and the common sense . . . of the people of California." Goldwater has been accused of wanting to start an atomic war with Russia, of wanting to end social security payments, of wanting to kill off the United Nations, of wanting to atomize the supply routes in South Vietnam; but it may prove that of all the allegedly reckless statements he ever made, the one about trusting to the good sense of the voters in California will prove to be the far-outest.

Cold From Draft Not Imagination

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I have been reading that there's no truth to the commonly held belief that sitting in a draft will cause a cold. But I'm sure that's not true as far as I'm concerned. What would you call me? A hypochrondriac? — Mrs. Z.

Comment: Stick to your guns, Mrs. Z. Unless there is definite scientific proof to the contrary, you have as much right to your convictions as anyone else. Besides, what right have we doctors to be so pontifical about drafts when we have so little knowledge about colds?

If you're a hypochondraic, so am I. There's no question in my mind at all that if I sit in a draft I'll come down with anything which ranges from the sniffles to a full-blown attack of old-fashioned grippe (call it a virus attack, if you like).

WHETHER I AM in a concert hall, a theater, visiting with friends, I easily detect the slightest draft wending its way up my legs. If I sit there long enough, past experience has shown that I'll be down with something in a day or two. I can brave a blizzard without any ill effects; but a teeny-bitsy draft will lay me low.

So you have come to the right one in your quest for backing about the effect of drafts on some people. It isn't your imagination; and you don't deserve the label hypochondriac because you are draft-sensitive.

Many reports say that constipation doesn't cause headaches. Don't believe them if, in your case, an empty colon brings relief.

Do you sleep better after a cup of coffee before bedtime? Forget what we say about the caffeine in coffee. It's how you react that matters; not how most react. And so with scores of other personal problems. Often you're the best judge of what's good or bad for you.

D E A R DR. STEINCROHN: Will you explain what is meant by the carotid sinus syndrome? Our doctor says my husband's fainting attack are due to his carotid sinus. —Mrs. D.

Comment: There's a nerve bundle in the region of the carotid artery in each side of the neck that we call the carotid sinus. Call it a nerve station. Impulses from it are transmitted to many important nerves. If we press on this center in a normal person we expect that his pulse will slow and his blood pressure drop slightly.

However, if the carotid sinus is hyperactive, there may be many abnormal reactions. The heartbeats may slow so much they actually stop for a few seconds. Sometimes, the effect is not so much on the pulse and blood pressure as on the cerebral circulation. The brain may not get enough blood.

HOW DOES ALL this show up in the patient? One patient may have many attacks of dizziness and unconsciousness. Another may complain of weakness, lightheadedness and nausea. What brings on these attacks in the patient who has an irritable carotid sinus?

In some patients the cause was wearing stiff collars which pressed on the carotid sinus all day. In others, a sudden turn of the head produced the pressure necessary to set off an attack. Some get symptoms by straining at stool, by coughing hard and long, or by twisting the neck in shaving. Middle-aged and elderly men have the attacks more often than women.

Proposed Ethics Code

Governor John J. McKeithen has placed before the Legislature — with his full approval — a proposed statute and constitutional amendment to establish a Code of Ethics for state officials and employees, with two new independent bodies created for judgment as to both guilt and punishment of those who may be brought before it. In doing so, the Governor is carrying out one of his major campaign pledges.

If this Code of Ethics is put into effect, it will be the first in the nation to apply to elected public officials as well as state employes and thus may become a model for the other 49 states.

While there may be some opposition to it—some efforts to "water it down"—within the Legislature, the Code is certain to have full support of its principles from virtually all non-poticial business, civic, educational and similar organizations within the state. A group of widely known and respected private citizens—each a leader in some walk of Louisiana life—drew up the proposed Code for CABL at the Governor's request in a series of meetings which began immediately after the general election for Governor, with cooperation of various state officials, including Mr. McKeithen.

The Governor looks upon establishment of this Code as one of the most important steps for his administration. Few, indeed, would disagree with that evaluation.

The Board to handle any ethics cases that arise involving elected officials, including, whoever may be Governor, would be made up of retired and former judges selected from a panel chosen by the State Supreme Court. The Commission to handle cases of state employes would include Representatives named by various organizations, such as Council for a Better Louisiana (CABL), the AFL-CIO, the State Bar Association, and the Public Affairs Research Council.

The bill to set up the Code of Ethics and authorize the necessary constitutional amendment is some 32 pages (typewritten) in length. CABL, however, had provided a shorter and more readable summary, which The World herewith publishes in full:

COUNCIL FOR A BETTER LOUISIANA

A code of ethics for elected officials and state employees is proposed by Council for a Better Louisiana. A constitutional amendment setting forth the broad outline of the code is proposed, while the detailed provisions pertaining to administration, prohibitions, and penalties are contained in a proposed statue implementing the directive of the constitutional amendment.

The Louisiana Board of Ethics for State Elected Officials would be created to administer the code for elected state officials and members of the legislature, while the Louisiana Commission on Governmental Ethics would be created to administer the code for state employees. The essential differences in the positions, powers, responsibilities, and duties of elected state officials, state employees, and appointed part-time members of certain boards and commissions would be recognized by the code by establishing special restrictions and prohibitions applicable to each group. However, the general principles of ethical conduct would apply to all.

Although two agencies are created, investigations and staff work for both agencies would be performed by the Department of State Civil Service.

PURPOSES

The purposes of the proposed code are:

1. To strengthen public confidence in the integrity of state government;

2. To offer further protection to the public and the state against conflicts of interest, use of public office for private gain, and wrongdoing by public officials and state employees;

3. To give public officials and employees a guide for their own conduct so as to enable them to follow policies that will not create conflicts of interest; and

4. To aid in attracting the best possible persons to public office and state employment by making employment with the state a matter of honor and public service.

PERSONS SUBJECT TO THE CODE

The general principles of the code of ethics would apply to all elected state officials and state employees. However, for the purposes of administering the code and prescribing restrictions and prohibitions, three different groups of persons in the service of the state are provided for:

1. Elected state officials, including members of the legislature and members of elective boards and commissions.

2. All state employees, including those in both the classified and unclassified service, and persons serving on boards and commissions whose membership is appointed and who serve full time or who receive full time compensation, employees of boards and commissions, and employees working for the state on a contract or fee basis.

3. Persons serving on boards and commissions whose membership is appointed and who serve part time and who receive part time compensation for part time service, such as per diem. The persons in this category are considered state employees, however, and except for certain special provisions comply with all provisions pertaining to state employees.

In addition, the specific provisions related to state elected officials, and state employees, the bill also would provide penalties for persons outside state government, or not covered by the code, who give or attempt to give anything of economic value to any state official or employee in order to influence their actions.

The code would not apply to local officials and local government employees, teachers, judges, or patient or inmate help in state charitable, penal, or correctional institutions.

ELECTED STATE OFFICIAL

1. ADMINISTRATION: The provisions pertaining to elected state officials, including members of the legislature and members of elected state boards and commissions, would be administered by the Louisiana Board of Ethics for Elected State Officials. The Board would be composed of three retired or former judges, one appointed by the Governor, one by the Senate, and one by the House. The appointments would be from three lists of three names each submitted by the Supreme Court of Louisiana, the Council of the Louisiana Law Institute, and the Board of Governors of the Louisiana State Bar Association. The members would be appointed for four-year terms and would receive expenses and $25 per diem.

The Board would be authorized to conduct investigations and hold hearings concerning violations of the prohibitions and restrictions pertaining to elected state officials. The Board also would receive complaints by citizens alleging violations of the code. The Board could only take official action against any official at a public hearing, which must be approved by a majority of the Board.

Investigations and staff work for the Board would be performed by the Department of State Civil Service.

The Board also would be empowered to render advisory opinions, to make recommendations, and to make reports to the Governor and the Legislature.

If the Board found an official guilty of a violation of the code, the findings would be turned over to the appropriate district attorney for action.

2. PROHIBITIONS AND RESTRICTIONS: An elected official would be prohibited from receiving compensation or anything of value from private sources for actions in his capacity as a public official or in the course of his official duties;

An elected official would be prohibited from receiving compensation or anything of value for consultations regarding the programs or operations of the official's department or agency or which draws upon official data which is not public information.

An elected official could not participate in any transaction involving the state where the official, his family, partner, or business affiliate has a substantial economic interest. His "family" for these purposes covers his spouse or child.

Any official assisting any person for compensation in any transaction with the state, except for transactions in which elected officials other than the Governor, or by an agency whose membership is made up of elected officials, would be required to disclose his interest in the transaction and identify the principals in a written statement to the Board of Ethics. Such statement would be deemed confidential unless it became relevant at a public hearing concerning charges against such official, at which time it would be made public.

All agency heads would be required to keep a record of appearances at all officials representing persons subject to the agency's jurisdiction, and would forward such record to the Board of Ethics. These records would be made public.

3. PENALTIES: If after a public hearing the Board finds that an official has violated the code, the Board may turn over this information to the appropriate district attorney for action. Violations of the restrictions outlined above would be misdemeanors, and upon court conviction an official would be subject to a fine not to exceed $2,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

Bona fide reimbursement for travel and other expenses;

Participation in public service and civic affairs and those of political parties;

Meritorious awards;

Compensation as a result of submitting the lowest sealed competitive bid, provided the official did not assist in the acceptance of the bid;

Compensations from local governments; and Campaign contributions.

In addition, the Board would be authorized to grant exemptions to any of the provisions of the code if the Board judged that such exemption would be in the public interest. The Board would have to declare this in writing, and such document would be a public record.

STATE EMPLOYEES

1. Administration: The Louisiana Commission on Government Ethics would be created to administer the code for all state employees, including members of appointed boards appointed boards and commissions. The commission would contain nine members. Seven would be appointed by the Governor from separate list of three names submitted by each of the following organizations:

Council for A Better Louisiana

Louisiana AFL-CIO.

Louisiana Civil Service League

Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, Inc

Louisiana Manufacturer's Association

Louisiana State Bar Association

Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana, Inc.

Each of these seven members would be appointed for terms concurrent with the Governor. The remaining two members would be members of the State Civil Service Commission, appointed by the Civil Service Commission, to serve one-year terms.

The Commission would be authorized to investigate and hold hearings concerning violations of the provisions of the code pertaining to state employees. The Commission also could receive and investigate complains from citizens. The Commission could take action against an employee only at a public hearing.

The Commission could order the suspension or dismissal of a state employee found in violation of the code.

The Commission also could render advisory opinions.

Investigations and normal staff work would be conducted by the Department of State Civil Service.

2. Prohibitions and Restrictions: Any employee would be barred from participating in any transaction with the state where the employee, his family, partner, or business affiliate has a substantial personal economic interest.

The code would prohibit any employee from receiving anything of value from private sources for services rendered to the state or for services rendered to others in the course of his official duties. This prohibition also would include compensation for work outside regular hours if the work were in any way related to his official duties as a state employee. This restriction would not affect private employment outside of his regular duties, or continuation in pension plans.

State employees would be prohibited from receiving gifts from any person involved in transactions with the employee's state agency.

In addition, the code prohibits state employees from using their power or authority of their office for their own private, pecuniary interest or benefit.

3. Certain Board and Commission Members: Separate restrictions and prohibitions would be set up for members of appointed boards and commissions who serve only part time or receive no compensation or only per diem. This would be done because of the peculiar status of such employees, for they are not full time state employees but only serve the government on a part time basis. These restrictions would follow the same principles as those relating to other state employees:

Such members would be prohibited from receiving compensation or anything of economic value from private sources for actions in their capacity as an official or in the course of their official duties.

The code would prohibit participation by any such member in any transaction involving his board or commission if he, his family, partner, or business affiliate has a substantial personal economic interest.

Schools Out

THE FOCAL point of the week striking closest to home was the end of the spring term of school. For some unknown reason, when the youngsters get that "school's out" feeling, there's little that parents or teachers can do to calm things down.

The general attitude on or about the last day of classes on the part of most sub-teen and teenagers is to wrap up the whole approaching vacation period into one afternoon or perhaps one day. And where is the mother or father who has not withstood the subsequent cries of "nothing to do" only days after report cards were picked up?

Of course, there's really plenty to do with the number of organized activities for youngsters about the Twin Cities and in the other towns in northeast Louisiana. There's even some work, if parents are sufficiently skilled to apply the incentive.

MENTION OF the word, "work," brings the anticipation of Labor Day, that period in the apparently remote future when school bells will ring to open the fall session — when parents can get the professional help of teachers in thrashing out at least a few of the problems which crop up in the rearing and educating of children.

Teachers' Pay

IN BATON Rouge, the House of Education Committee Wednesday of the past week stripped from the teachers' pay bill a threat to close schools, then deferred action on the $48.5 million measure which is opposed by Governor John McKeithen. The Governor's position in the matter is that any tangible raise would call for new taxes, a move which would work against one of his campaign pledges.

In Mourning

WITH MEMORIAL Day on the calendar, two deaths of internationally known persons were mourned, one in Louisiana, another in India.

CHEP MORRISON

DeLesseps S. Morrison, who achieved success in politics, diplomacy and soldiering, died last weekend in a plane crash in Mexico. Also lost in the mishap were Mr. Morrison's youngest son, John Randolph, and five other persons.

The bodies of the late New Orleans mayor and his son lay in state in his old office in Gallier Hall — the former city hall in use during Mr. Morrison's four terms in office.

The funeral was attended by Governor John McKeithen and a host of state and national dignitaries.

Prime Minister

THE DEATH of Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru caused U. S. officials to pause and watch today for a possible change in India's policies and plans.

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU

U. S. officials do not foresee sudden changes in the policies built by Nehru. But in the long run, it is believed that his goals and aims will be debated re-examined as Indian politicians maneuver to fill the leadership vacuum.

NEHRU DIED just as some diplomats were beginning to see a prospect of a meeting between him and Pakistan's president, Mohammed Ayub Khan, in an attempt to resolve their dispute over Kashmir.

Washington officials have long maintained that India and Pakistan must somehow resolve this dispute to build an effective defense of the Indian subcontinent against the threat of Chinese aggression.

Nehru's death could have a more immediate and uncertain impact on the current crisis in Laos.

India is a member of the three-nation International Control Commission for Laos and with Nehru's death, the Indian officials involved probably will mark time.

V. K. KRISHNA Menon, the controversial former Indian defense minister accused of neglecting his job after Red China attacked India's border, is expected to seek influence. His left-leaning supporters are now expected to make efforts to gain power.

ON THE other side, Deputy Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, considered Nehru's possible successor, is rated as more Western - oriented though still an avowed neutralist.

Many observers here believe that long-range Indian policies will emerge relatively unchanging because they represent a merging of different Indian views.

Eyes On California

PARTY LINES don't stop the interest in a hot contest, so it's no wonder that Democrats as well as Republicans over the country are taking a keen interest in the presidential primary slated for Tuesday in California.

ARMED WITH neutrality statements from two undeclared Republican presidential contenders, Senator Barry Goldwater denounced what he considers an unprecedented alliance out to stop his conservative presidential candidacy in California's crucial primary.

Aides said Goldwater would fire a new salvo at the forces he sees allied in a "stop Goldwater movement."

In messages released Wednesday by the Goldwater campaign organization, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton disavowed any part of such a move.

GOLDWATER, an aide said, wired Nixon and Scranton early last week that they had been represented in California as aligned with his opponents.

But the two Republicans said they are not outo stop either Goldwater or New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller in the California race next Tuesday.

Calling himself "the only serious candidate" in the California race, Goldwater said Rockefeller, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and "the rest of those who have ganged up to stop Goldwater" wouldn't stand a chance against President Johnson next November.

GOV. ROCKEFELLER

In San Diego, Goldwater said he has "never heard of anything like this in a primary where all the rest gang up on one." But he said Nixon and Scranton were not involved.

Nixon, in a statement wired to Goldwater's California organization, said "I am not supporting or opposing either of the two candidates running in the California primary."

"I BELIEVE the time has come for the supporters of all the candidates to pledge that they will unite behind the nominee selected by our convention," Nixon said.

Goldwater has hammered that theme in his California campaign.

Scranton in a letter made public by the Goldwater organization, said his "one overriding interest is for unity within the Republican party."

"Consequently, I have refused to join 'Stop Goldwater' 'Stop Rockefeller' or 'Stop anybody' movements," the Scranton letter said.

International

IN SCANNING the world's horizons our viewfinder picked up a mixture of humor, "cold war" tensions, good behavior in Atlantic City and an odd blend of golf and monoxide fumes in Indianapolis.

In Scotland, a 33-year-old housewife said she thought she had enough British women lined up to enter a protest against the British Broadcasting Company's television dramas.

"We want to keep smut out of the living room," said Mrs. Middleton, who is the mother of three young children, "It seems that nowadays nobody can put on a play that hasn't one foot in the kitchen sink and the other in a double bed."

AT BRITISH Broadcasting Corp. headquarters, a television spokesman said: "We have no comment to make on this matter."

MEANWHILE IN LAOS, — Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma has asked the Soviet Union to provide his embattled neutralist forces with ammunition for their Russian arms.

Souvanna made the request in a letter to Soviet Ambassador Sergei Affanassiev.

RUSSIAN ARMS and ammunition were provided to the neutralists in 1961 when they were allies of the Pathet Lao and were fighting together against the right-wing Laotian army.

The Soviet Union is currently withholding aid from all Laotian factions including the Pathet Lao who are under the influence of the Communist North Vietnamese and Chinese.

HOWEVER, Moscow has supported the Pathet Lao viewpoint in the propaganda side of the Laotian crisis.

SO FAR, it seems only the United States has responded favorably to his request.

Back Home

BOB BONELLO, bartender at an Atlantic City boardwalk hotel, admitted he had witnessed a "most unusual week" when 1,400 Baptist convened there during the week previous.

He knew, of course, that Baptists preach against liquor but figured that some would sample his wares before the week-long Southern Baptist Convention ended.

THEY LOOKED like jovial people and I wanted a chance to talk to some of them, but they kept walking right on by," he related. "I waited all week for a break through, but it made me mad, but when I discovered none of them was even sneaking a goddy, well, it heightened my respect for them, no kidding."

In Indiana

THERE'S A peculiar blend of petrol, noise and golf about this time of year at Indianapolis. The 500-mile Memorial Day auto race — making laps on the 2½-mile oval about our press time — was preceded earlier in the week, by the Speedway Open golf tournament. Thus the all-important golf course silence was shattered by time trials and racers ironing the bugs out of their machines.

Par may have been a paper tiger for the 55 pros who whipped it in the first round of the $70,000 tourney, but the roar came to shatter the coveted silence they demand.

Thirty-three of the fastest and possibly loudest cars in 500-mile-race history had two hours of carburetion tests around the track which cuts the golf course in half. They'll sound off in preparation for the 48th race Saturday.

LEAN AND LANKY Californian George Archer set the pace Wednesday, racing around the 6,467-yard spread with a seven-under-par 64 that included a record 29 on the incoming nine. The rookie pro had dropped out of last weekend's Memphis Open with a sore hand, and his best finish to date was fourth in the San Diego Open.

ARCHER LED the host of assaults on the 35-36-71 par. Joe Campbell, former golf and basketball star at Purdue, and Harold Catfish Kneece, Aiken, S. C., knotted in second with 65s. Doug Sanders, George Bayer and Kel Nagle held down third with 66s.

Our Soldiers Are Dying

Advisory Capacity Can Be Very Costly Role

EVERY LETTER home from Pfc. Carl Grimes, 23, of Fond du Lac, Wis., numbered the days he had left to serve in Viet Nam. He had 113 left when he was killed last May 5. He was one of 10 Americans who died when their U.S. Army transport crashed in a dry rice field in South Viet Nam. Grimes had sent this snapshot of himself in a Saigon street to his wife, Jacqueline, 20. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

THE VIET CONG terrorist who planted a bomb in a Saigon movie theater last Feb. 16 was spotted by U.S. Marine Capt. Donald Koelper, 32. He ran in to warn the audience, and was killed in the explosion. Smiling Donald Koelper loved children. This snapshot shows youngsters following him in a South Vietnamese village. Koelper was studying for a degree so he could become a history teacher. HIS THIRD "EAGLE" flight of the day, last Jan. 17 in South Viet Nam, was the last of his life for 1st Lt. Charles (Marty) Hasper of Fort Madison, Iowa. Eagle flights are designed to attract Viet Cong fire. On that flight, Hasper, 23, was killed when his helicopter was hit, burned and crashed. Here he stands beside a 'copter in which he had been hit and crashed on a similar flight Dec. 13, 1963. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

There were three men who went far away and were killed.

One was a soldier's soldier.

One loved history and wanted to be a professor.

One longed only to be home.

Following their own stars, dreaming their own dreams, 1st Lt. Charles M. Hasper, Capt. Donald E. Koelper and Pfc. Carl Grimes came along separate paths to a common destiny:

They were killed in South Viet Nam.

—In Fort Madison, Iowa, Constance Hasper, a woman with large dark eyes, talks of her husband with pride, and her eyes fall upon their 2-year-old, Tracy, who is clopping across the linoleum in miniature combat boots and a camouflage suit. She looks at the scuff marks, smiles wistfully, and says, "I thought I'd never see those black marks again. I used to tell Marty to take off his combat boots because they made marks on the linoleum."

—In Northbrook, Ill., Mrs. Rudy Koelper talks about her son, Don, and says, "We are Missouri Synod Lutherans and we are faithful in our religion. I believe it was his time. His time had come. What disturbed me mostly was why did it happen twice in our family?" Her brother, Victor Sander, was killed in combat in Germany in World War II.

—In Fond du Lac, Wis., a 20-year-old girl with red-blonde hair cradles a 7½-month old boy in her lap. She is Jacqueline Grimes. She looks at her baby with tear-tired eyes, calls him "Chris" and says, "Carl never saw Chris. He left three weeks before Chris was born."

LOVED MILITARY

First Lt. Charles (Mart Hasper was 23. He was pilot of an HU1B helicopter, called a "Huey." "He loved the military life," says his widow, Connie. "He always said he'd stay in until he was so old they'd have to drag him out by the heels. Most of all, he loved flying. He could eat, drink, sleep flying."

On Jan. 17, he went on his third mission of the day — his 369th in Viet Nam — an "eagle flight" in the Mekong delta. The idea of an eagle flight is to make the Viet Cong shoot and expose their position to follow-up Viet Nam troops. Lt. Hasper drew fire. He went down in flames.

Capt. Donald E. Koelper was 32. He was a Marine advisor to the republic of Viet Nam's 4th Marine Battalion. He was a Civil War and World War II buff. After more than six months in combat, he told James Pickerell, a writer for the Marine Corps Gazette, that he wasn't so much concerned about combat as about what might happen because of the wild Jeep drivers. Jokingly, he told Pickerell; "My only real fear is being killed in a Jeep accident."

On Feb. 16, he was in the lobby of the King-Do movie theater in Saigon when he saw a terrorist plant a bomb. Don Koelper ran into the theater, yelling, "Everyone get down. There's a bomb!" The bomb exploded and Don Koelper was killed by a piece of masonry. He was promoted to major after his death and awarded the Navy Cross.

Pfc. Carl Grimes was 23. He was in the headquarters company of an aviation battalion. When he went overseas, he thought he was going to be stationed in Hawaii. He hated Viet Nam. He had a foreboding. But he ticked off his days and wrote home: "163 more days to go." "141 more days to go."

LEFT FIVE

On May 5, he was one of 10 Americans aboard a U.S. Army Caribou transport. The pilot was so anxious to get under way from Tan Hiep to Saigon that he left five U.S. soldiers trying to hitch a ride standing on the airstrip. The transport got aloft, an engine caught fire, the plane crashed in a rice paddy. Pfc. Grimes's last letter had begun "113 more days."

As a kid, Marty Hasper didn't simply grow, he zoomed.

"He grew too fast," says his mother, Gloris Hasper of Keokuk. "And he didn't have any coordination then. I think he may have lacked self-confidence then. I remember he tried basketball because he was so tall. He tried and tried, but he couldn't do it. The day he quit basketball was the happiest day of his life."

Don Koelper was the eldest of four boys. His brothers didn't just look up to him; they loved him. So did others. Don was very popular. The girls in Northbrook High voted him "the cutest boy in high school."

"Don was very good in sports, and very good with books," says his father, Rudy, a balding, stocky man of 52, whose eyes keep watering as he talks. "When he was about 10 he started writing a daily journal about World War II. He kept writing his Uncle Victor, who was overseas, to ask him about the war and Don got the last letter Victor ever wrote. Don and his next younger brother, Del, would dig foxholes and play behind the house ,using corn cobs for hand grenades."

Carl Grimes was a whiz at track. He set the Fond du Lac record for the high hurdles at 14.3 seconds and for a time held the Central High record for the low hurdles at 19.8 seconds. In football, he was second-leading ground-gainer with 211 yards in 1958.

"Carl had to give up sports when he injured his shoulder in football at Winona State in Minnesota," says his father, Paul. "Carl changed to a business administration course and transferred to Oshkosh State." He left school when he was a junior to go into service.

Marty Hasper drove from Keokuk to Fort Madison one night and went on a blind date with Connie Rashid, a girl of Lebanese extraction.

"From the first day, I never went out with anyone else," says Connie, "and I don't think Marty did either. He used to come over here on the average of five times a week, on the old road from Keokuk. That was 25 miles one way. We went together two years before we got married, but one year of that courtship was through letters because Marty went into the service."

HAD A DATE

Don Koelper went to the beach near Pasadena, Calif., one day. He had a date who had a girl friend and that girl friend was a knockout. She was a secretary. Nancy Margerum, 20.

"I don't know exactly when it happened, but Don came home on leave for Christmas and went right back so he could be with Nancy for New Year's," recalls his mother. "They got engaged New Year's Eve. In August, it would have been eight years they'd been married."

Carl Grimes was in and out of Kresge's for a Coke. He was working 50 and 60 hours a week in the Super Value store and going to Oshkosh State and still he found time enough to stop into Kresge's. The attraction was a tall girl with blue eyes. Her name was Jackie.

"I was working as a fountain waitress," says Jackie, "and he came in every day and sat at my station. Finally, I introduced myself to him. We went together eight months and got married."

"When I asked Carl how he's met Jackie," says Paul Grimes, "He said, Dad, you don't know how many Cokes that cost me."

Marty Hasper was the kind of fellow you could pack food into, hammering it in with a mallet, and still you'd never put a pound of fat on him.

"My cooking was Lebanese-style," says Connie, "but he was used to down-in-the-country food. I think the hardest thing I learned to do was make gravy. But even so, he never got to weigh more than 150 and he was 6 foot 3."

Don Koelper had finished a year at Carthage College and decided to work for a year before going on. Then he was drafted and the day he went down to answer the call, they were asking for Marine volunteers. He volunteered. He was 20.

ALWAYS HELPING

"Even in the service, Don was always doing something to learn more and to help others," says Rudy Koelper. "He went through the Airborne, Pathfinder and Army Special Forces schools and had a month tour in the Congo and was in Germany for a month. Still and all, he was coaching football with kids during his off-time. He could speak French very well, and manage in German. When he was stationed in Washington, D.C., he went to the University of Maryland and needed six hours credit to get his degree. He was going to be a history professor."

Carl Grimes knew he'd have to go into the service, so he enlisted, figuring to get it out of the way and then start setting himself up in life. He thought his experience as an athlete might help him get a coaching job if he returned to school. That was his plan, as far as it went.

"We didn't have much time together," says Jackie Grimes. Her mementos are testimony to the paltry days they shared together — a photo album and more than 300 letters. They had had but 23 days together.

"We had six days for our honeymoon and went to Dixon, Ill., where Carl was born. Then he got a two-week leave in June and a three-day pass before he went overseas the end of August."

Marty Hasper was great for the outdoors. Because he was tall and skinny, he liked to think of himself sometimes, jokingly of course, as Gary Cooper. He loved horses, dogs, motorcycles.

"After Marty finished training, he thought he was being paid for doing nothing and that's why he was so happy when he was sent to Viet Nam," says Connie Hasper. "He wrote me, 'At long last I'm earning my pay.'"

Don Koelper wrote his wife, Nancy, almost every day, and wrote his parents once a week. The things about war and about responsibility and about serving people who needed it always emerged in his letters.

"I will not say anything about the war because I have no words to describe it. It is as dirty and filthy as anything you can imagine," he wrote, and then added, "should we for some reason stop supporting these people we would pay for our own shortsightedness at a later date—and I do this thing I'm doing here for one and one purpose only—so my sons don't have to!"

Carl Grimes, ready to leave the United States, wrote Jackie that as soon as the baby was old enough to travel she should come meet him in Hawaii. But a week later, Jackie received a telephone call from him.

"He said he was going to Viet Nam, not Hawaii," she says, forlornly. And Carl's father says "That was the one place he did not want to go. Even in basic training, he always said he didn't want to go to Viet Nam."

Marty Hasper loved the military life and brought some of it into his own home. He was a strict disciplinarian with the children, Shellie Rae, who is 3, and Tracy Wray, who is 2. When he left for Viet Nam on May 13, 1963, he wrote Connie:

"In spite of my talk, I didn't think I'd miss the kids as much as I do. I think back to the little things they did or times I spanked too hard and lost patience while I was home, and feel very bad. If I could only hold them and make them understand how much I love them and I never meant to hurt them and I don't want to be gone from them. I've never done anything harder in my life than leaving my family this time.'

TWO BOYS

Don Koelper had two boys, Donald, now 6, and Jeff, now 4. Jeff suffers from cystic fibrosis and needs special care. He sleeps in a bed outfitted with a tent and a compressor that enables him to breathe more easily. A few weeks ago, Nancy Koelper moved to Hawaii where Jeff could benefit by the climate and special treatment in a military hospital. That was the way Don and she had planned it. When Don Koelper was sent to Viet Nam, he wrote his father:

"I'm certain you know that leaving those two fellows was the hardest thing I've ever done in my life—they just couldn't understand that I wouldn't be right back. Donald added his own little brand of logic to my leaving by telling me that we should hurry and kill all the bad people over there so they could go to heaven and I could come home.

Carl Grimes left the country three weeks before Christopher was born. In his letters, he was full of questions and chatter that floods from first-time fathers, asking about size and weight and color of hair and crying and teeth. He had many photos of Chris.

"I'd take pictures of the baby every five weeks and send them to Carl," says Jackie. "'After a while, he had so many, he sent some home for me to put in an album."

The fellows who knew Marty Hasper knew him as a guy with a real dry sense of humor and a nutty way of doubling up his spaghetti-thin body into crazy positions. If he worried, he had a way of locking it in. His manner was best told by Robert Hewett, a Minneapolis Tribune correspondent, who was with Marty when his helicopter was shot down by the Viet Cong in December. No one was hurt in that crash.

Hewett wrote that Marty said: "This helicopter reconnaissance is simple — we just fly low over the suspected area until we get shot at. Then we know where the Communist guerrillas are hiding, and we clobber them."

When Marty telephoned Connie from Saigon a day or so later to say he was all right, she told him the story was in the papers and he said, "You don't mean I made the front page of the Des Moines Register? They'll really think I'm a hero now."

NO SHOOTING

Don Koelper went into the field with the Vietnamese marines. Like other Americans, he had to operate under orders not to shoot until shot at first. Month after month of combat passed, and he wrote his father:

"I've been in combat now for nearly six months and God help us if man ever lets himself forget that there are better things to do with people and machines than making use of them for war."

Carl Grimes never wanted Jackie to worry even one minute. What was he doing in Viet Nam? This-and-that, he'd say, Nothing to worry about.

Once he said something about being a control tower technician in Saigon," says Jackie. "Then he told us he was working in an office and also leading planes."

Marty Hasper had expressed his regrets about sometimes spanking Shellie and Tracy and about leaving them and wrote Connie:

"I know you understand these things and know this is the way it has to be but the kids don't and if I don't happen to get around to it, if I forget or something, explain it to them for me when they are old enough."

Don Koelper had written his father about a visit by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor and said:

"I met both McNamara and Taylor and had a chance to tell them a little of what I and my battalion are doing. I can't tell you how good I felt to have General Taylor, when it was over, put his hand on my shoulder and say, 'Take care of yourself son.' He really meant it and it sounded just as you would say it, dad."

'. . . I Remember'

'GI's General Recalls D-Day

By OMAR N. BRADLEY
General of the Army, USA,
As told to Hugh Mulligan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Standing on the bridge of the USS Augusta in the predawn darkness of June 6, 1944, with just the ghost of a moon glimmering through the overcast, I listened to the steady drone of our heavy bombers high above the clouds and watched the enemy antiaircraft stab blindly at them in the blackened night.

Suddenly the Augusta opened fire with her 8-inch turrets and, as the ship shuddered with each salvo, I plugged up my ears with cotton. Less than five miles off our bow, Omaha Beach lay blurred in the morning mist.

After months of planning and rehearsing, after long weary days of fighting through Africa and Sicily and up through the boot of Italy, our time had come. It was H-Hour on D-Day off the Normandy coast.

Already our demolition teams had gone in to blast out the underwater obstacles so ingeniously planted by Field Marshal Rommel. Already our Rangers were scaling the shingled cliffs to knock out the coastal guns. Already our airborne divisions had been dropped into the hedgerows behind the beaches, and our Sherman tanks were rolling off the LCTs and trying to "swim" ashore with the aid of the floating canvas skirts that the resourceful British had invented.

Soon the first wave of infantry would be hitting the beach. For better or for worse, Operation Overlord had run beyond the reach of its admirals and generals and was in the hands of the individual unit commanders. The biggest, most ambitious amphibious invasion in military history was irrevocably under way.

UNDIMMED

That chilly morning off the coast of Normandy left with me many memories that the intervening 20 years have not dimmed.

I remember first scanning the skies and waiting for the Luftwaffe. Why didn't it come? Goering's Stukas and Messerschmitts would never have a more congested or rewarding target. Our assault fleet stretched in an unending line across the channel. Yet throughout the daylight hours I saw no hostile planes.

I remember my surprise at the strength the enemy showed on the left side of Omaha beach, where our battle-tested 1st Division ran into the crack German 352nd Division. Our intelligence had led us to believe that their coastal defense lines would be weak, manned for the most part by mediocre troops — Poles and Russians who had defected from the Eastern Front. Instead, we learned on the eve of the invasion that the 352nd had been moved in from St. Lo on what was ostensibly a training exercise.

I remember worrying about the weather, and wondering if the decision to go ahead with the invasion after stormy seas had forced a postponement the previous day was the correct one. The waves were much stronger than we would have liked. The first of those floating tanks on which we had relied so heavily sank in the high waves. Later we learned that of the 32 tanks launched from the landing craft only five managed to get ashore.

REAL AGONY

And, as in every field engagement, I remember thinking with a heavy heart of the day's objectives in terms of the lives it would cost. For a combat commander, this is the real agony of war. Just before the invasion, I had gone down to the staging area and talked with some of the assault battalions, where the statement had been tossed around that none of them would come back, that they would all be killed on the beaches. I remember telling them that yes, there would be casualties, but that with all the firepower we were arranging we would try to keep them at a minimum.

As it turned out, General Eisenhower's decision to go ahead with the invasion was an inspired, courageous decision that undoubtedly changed the course of the war and the course of history. The high winds and heavy overcast that caused our bombers to overshoot their targets had an even more disastrous effect on the enemy.

They kept his navy patrols in port and grounded his reconnaissance flights so that the approach of our invasion fleet went undetected. The bad weather acted as a protective screen for our beach landings. Not only couldn't the Germans see us, but they couldn't believe that we would attack in such dirty weather.

If we had called off our invasion that day we would have had to wait two weeks for favorable tide conditions and available morning light. This would have meant refueling the fleet and depending on 140,000 men to keep the biggest secret of the war in Europe. Besides, two weeks later the channel was lashed by its biggest summer storm in 20 years. We would have had to wait until July and we would have had difficulty in clearing a port (Cherbourg) by Sept. 15, the last date that supplies could be landed over the beach.

By that time, of course, the Germans had developed the V-1 rocket. I sometimes wonder what would have happened had they been able to launch those buzz bombs on our troop concentrations back in England prior to the invasion.

CONFUSION

Even though our two airborne divisions, Matt Ridgway's 82nd and Maxwell Taylor's 101st, had missed their jump targets and were badly scattered, this too contributed to the confusion of the enemy. The paratroopers kept their heads and began working their way toward the beaches, cutting communications as they went. It must have been very disconcerting for the Germans to have been getting reports of some troops in so many places. They had no way of knowing then how big the invasion was or where it was really centered.

I remember talking with a sergeant and a private on Utah Beach who had been dropped almost as far up as Cherbourg. They knew they were way off the target, so they began working back toward the beach, traveling by night and hiding during the daytime. They said their worst experience was one day when our big navy guns opened up on a German gun battery. The German gun battery personnel came and jumped in the same ditch in which they were hiding.

The big thing, of course, was that Hitler never really became convinced that this was the main attack until about the time that we finally broke out of the beachhead at St. Lo. He thought that another army was getting ready to come across at Calais, and we had taken a lot of pains to get him to think so. We actually sent radio operators to eastern England to send messages back and forth. You know, people experienced in decoding say they can tell an operator by his touch, so we used the same operators they had heard in Africa. We built wooden rafts in the shape of boats so airplanes flying at high altitudes would think they were photographing an invasion fleet.

CURTAIN CALL

With tonight's showing of "Take Her, She's Mine," the curtain comes down on the 32nd season of the Little Theatre of Monroe. Any member who has missed this delightful comedy should call the box office after 2 p.m. to see if seats are still available.

Technically speaking "Take Her, She's Mine" is a difficult show. Even with the ingenuity that Lonny Fraze put into the set design, the stage crew had to cope with something like seventeen scene changes. As usual, Cliff Farnum was the steady anchor man.

Costumes had to be changed almost as often as sets and just as quickly, so it took a squad of dressers, including Elaine Fontana, Jo Brian, Jerry Brown, Marietta Borgkvist, Sally Wing, Kathy and Loretta Jones, Christine Charlton and Beverly Bartlett. Juanita McDonald made the lightning changes in Mollie's coiffure.

Walgreen's and Woolworth's came through with various props too late to receive credit in the program, but we appreciate them. Prop girls Jacque Biegenwald, Dee Doyle and Val Nichols were kept busy, not to mention Rollin Reimer and Tom Ernst on sound and lights.

Hugh Matthews celebrated his third Little Theatre acting role with Green Room tiles for all three. Lallage Feazel and Jan Evans also have new tiles. Again thanks to Norma Brandle for her elegant lettering.

We have passed the first hundred in summer memberships for "My Fair Lady" and the mail brings more every day. If it is too soon to pick a date in the July 24-August 2 run, you can still apply to Box 868 for membership at $3.75 for adults and $2.50 for students, then later order seat reservations for a specific performance. The weekend dates may fill up pretty fast, especially if people start organizing theatre parties for "My Fair Lady."

Any concern about casting "My Fair Lady" was dissipated at try-outs last Monday and Tuesday. With executive director Richard M. Clark officiating and Velma Willey at the piano, some fifty candidates treated an equal number of onlookers to an array of talent. We still don't know who the leads will be, but when the curtain rises on July 24, we will have a cast to do justice to this fabulous show.

There were so many newcomers at auditions that we may have missed a few names, but we spotted Mary Lou, Ellis and Lee Bairnsfather, Donna Barber, John Beasley, Jacque Biegenwald, Barbara Borgkvist, Sue Brooks, Murray Burfford, Julius Cahn, Marcella Carter, Myrtle Carter, Pat Clark, Mary Lou Clay, Robert Crittenden, Margaret Doyle, Barbara Easterling, Jan, Judy and Bob Evans;

Also Mary and Ivey Faulk, Lallage Feazel, Elaine Fontana, Nancy and Beryl Franklin, Pat and Lonny Fraze, Lessie Garrett, Kenneth Garrison, Shelley Goodwin, Arthur Griffith, George Hargus, Rande and Rose Herrell, Kathy Jones, Loretta Jones, Fay Jones, Bob Jones, Sandy Knobloch, Leonard Lemle, Joseph Mangum, Joe Manchen, Danny Martin, Hugh Matthews, Janet Mayeux, Barbara McCoy, Frances McHenry, Charles McLain, Doris Mitchell, Carolyn Mitchum, Bill Moore, Jerry and Garland Moore, Craig Morgan, Marge Mullens;

Also H. H. Nobes (to whom we are grateful for some gifts to wardrobe), Joyce and Harold Odom, Dan Palser, Cheryl Pardue, George Phillips, Renee Potier, Kay Pruett, Claudia Roberts, Will Rogers, Andree Robinson, Ronn Robinson, Beth and Judy Schollo, Walter Speed, Tom Spurlock, Dick Steff, Lila and Ronny Stephens, Gloria and Frank Swindle, Jeanie and Valda Taylor, Joellyn Thompson, Alice Tucker, John Vaughan, Shady Wall, Lorafay Walter, Paul Wank, Jenny Welch, Bill Wells, Sally Wing, Camille Wood and Anita Womack.

Choreographer Bob Beard has arrived in twon, all set to start work tomorrow night.

AMUSEMENTS

CARTOON VERSION of the thrilling climax of "Flipper's New Adventure" also shows Luke Halpin and his girl friend, Pamela Franklin. The sequel to M-G-M's sensationally successful "Flipper," the new Ivan Tors production, filmed in color in the Florida Keys and Bahamas, starts Friday at the Jim Theatre.

New Compressor Station Slated South Of Olla

United Gas Pipe Line Co. plans immediate construction of a main-line automatically-operated, remote-controlled compressor station and other facilities on a 77-acre tract of land about two miles south of Olla on U. S. Highway 165.

Delta Engineering Corp. of Houston, Texas has been awarded the contract for construction of the compressor station facilities, according to M. V. Cousins, vice president of United Gas Pipe Line Co.

The Olla compressor station, one of the later types of automatic remote-controlled facilities, will be located on United's 30-inch South to North Louisiana transmission artery which originates near Franklin and extends to a point near West Monroe.

Initial compressor station equipment will include a 6,700 horsepower compressor-turbine combination housed in a single building and complete with its own starting sequence panel, dry-air cooling system and shaft-driven auxiliary equipment.

The compressor station is being built to provide additional capacity (an increase of 100 million cubic feet of gas a day) through the 30-inch South to North Louisiana pipe line to meet increasing gas needs of customers in the area.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

'Quickie' Ideas Given

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

This week's Fifth District Garden Center program was brought to the T.V. and Garden Center by the Daffodil Garden Club of Wisner. Five lovely designs showing clever ideas for "Quickie" arrangments plus three daylilies for horticulture display were brought to the T.V. station by Mrs. Bob Scott, club's president and Mrs. E. V. Clayton.

Mrs. Clayton made the first design featuring blue hydrageas in a tall black, ceremic vase. Woods fern was used as a filler and background for the hydrangeas. For good balance the design was placed on two tiered round wooden bases. The hydrangea was well conditioned. In fact, after inquring about this fact it was interesting to find that Mrs. Clayton had cut the blooms the day before arranging them, placing them immediately in hot water for at least one hour, then in cool water up to the flower necks. So often we find this type bloom so hard to condition. We hear many methods. Another method is to sear the ends of the freshly cut flower, then immerse them in cool water for several hours before arranging.

The needle point holder is a good mechanic to use for woody stems, but, oasis is excellent. If a deep container is used the oasis should be stuffed to the bottom of the container. Sometimes the oasis will fall apart unless it is wrapped at the top with green florist foil. Try this sometimes when large stems are used. The stems will pierce the foil better if cut at an angle.

ORIENTAL

Mrs. Earnest Kiper made a small design in the oriental manner using a small black pottery usabata for the container. Very cleverly she rolled the small leaves of aspidestra and placed them in tiered manner for the vertical placement. The lower part of the design contained two of the rolled leaves. For filler she used the varigated (yellow and green) euonymous foliage finishing the design identically on both sides. Ideal for the coffee table.

Mrs. R. M. Hammons made two designs that she called "Quickies". One contained a manzinita branch placed on a round natural wooden tray. For a holder she used a needle cup holder. Within this line she used fresh cut daylilies in three shades of yellow, orange and bronze. She explained that daily she could replace these in the design — thus, having a fixed design on hand at all times just in case company dropped in unexpectedly. The other "quickie" contained all foiliage in a low green glass bowl. For line she used the fresh green roadside dock. Next placing the leaves of the aspidestra (furled), followed by loquat leaves for a filler around a rosette of hydrangea leaves with small buds in the center forming the focal interest. The backside of this design was finished with house leek clusters making this a lovely design (free standing) for a coffee table and creating a cool and pleasing invironment.

Mrs. Lee McMahon also used the light green dock for her vertical line placement in a speckled (brown and cream colored) footed vase. The line was filled in with deep pink snap dragons, glads and roses. Very feminie and dainty arrangement that would be suitable for the girl graduate's coke party or the guest bedroom.

Daylilies are at their peak now. We all have become enthusiasts at this time and declare we will have more of them in our yards next year. I am really speaking for myself, but, I feel I am not alone when we see so many lovely varieties. Mrs. Bob Scott, the president of the Daffodil garden club brought three beautiful blooms from her garden. One was a green - yellow color. Like most of us she was not name conscious so she couldn't tell me the name. She said, "I just love daylilies — all kinds and the names are not important." Another was small in size and a beautiful orange-pink. The third was a deep orange, medium sized. All were ideal specimens. We both agreed that daylilies give us so much for so little care.

Next week — a treat is in store. The Evergreen Garden Club of Monroe will present their top award winning designs that were displayed in their recent flower show held at the Julia Wossman Recreation Center. Mrs. D. W. Tillman is the president of this Federated Garden Club.

On The House

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

New building materials appear on the market with such frequency these days that it is almost impossible to keep track of them.

One way not to fall too hard behind in mentally cataloging new products and different applications of old ones is by attending as many public and trade exhibitions as possible. We've been doing just that in recent months, our most recent visit being to the displays of building products at the New York World's Fair.

NOTICEABLE FEATURE

An especially noticeable feature of many of the attractive room layouts at the various pavilions has been the increasing variety of uses of laminated plastic. Once used mostly as a surfacing for coffee tables, refreshment bars and countertops, this material is moving into every room in the house and, in some cases, outdoors. One of the displays we saw showed laminated plastic used on the walls and virtually all other surfaces in a boys' bedroom including a two-tiered bunk.

Other types of plastic also are playing important roles in new product developments both from a functional and decorative point of view. Acrylic color coatings are being used by a number of manufacturers. Such coatings are applied to asbestos cement panels use on curtain and interior walls. Storm windows and doors feature bonded resilient acrylic finishes to offset cracking, peeling, fading and corroding.

One company is using a plastic for its aluminum siding. Another features a finish of colored plastic blended with ceramics on a "self-cleaning" siding. The solid polyvinyl chloride siding of still another manufacturer has color al the way through.

WEATHERSEALS

There are weatherseals woven from tough polyproplene fibers, epoxy coatings for use over concrete and masonry and many surfacings that add durability, density and appearance to old-line materials.

Many large companies are offering complete room additions, custom built at the factory for assembly on the job to needed specifications. The tendency is to make it easier fro the home owner to improve his residence by dealing with a single remodeling contractor or by using do-it-yourself materials which can be installed quickly and easily.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LAND
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: We expect to have a grabage disposer installed soon. Is it necessary to use a grease trap along the disposer?

ANSWER: Your installation man will, of course, make all decisions on what can and what can not be used with the garbage disposer. Individuals problems sometimes must be handled differently than in ordinary situations. In this particular case, a grease trap is not used with a disposer. In fact if you already have a grease trap in your sink, the baffle will have to be removed to prevent food waste particles from collecting in the trap and clogging the drain system.

QUESTION: There is a wet spot in one small area of our basement, at a point where the floor and wall meet. I have been told that an epoxy-type waterproof sealant will correct the condition. How is this used?

ANSWER: Brush away all loose paint and crumbling cement from the wet section. If there are any cracks, wider them with a chisel until they are at least one-quarter inch deep. Brush a heavy coat of sealant into the crack. Mix some sand with more sealant until a putty-like consistency is consistency is reached. then pack the crack with the mixture. As a final step, apply sealant (without sand) six inches up the wall and six inches out along the floor.

Fight Pests During May

May is the month to combat certain pests. White masses which appear on buds and cause leaves to crinkle are called mildew and can be controlled with Mildex. Plant Lice Aphids can be controlled with spraying Malathion on the plants. Remember if it rains soon after spraying you will probably need to spray again. Malathion will also control Red Spiders — usually found on the under side of the leaf. Black Spot is a fungus disease. The leaves turn yellow and fall from the plant. To control Black Spot use Captain, Manzate or Zineb.

Do you Mr. or Mrs. Gardener want to build a patio? It is easy and relatively inexpensive by using brick or concrete masonry units. Be sure to make the design simple and allow space for planting between the house and patio. The easiest and most popular method is accomplished by laying the brick or blocks on a base of ordinary builders' sand. You can embed the units in mortar if strength and a perfectly even surface are your main concerns. There are four steps in constructing the family do-it-yourself patio. Firt make boundaries with stakes and string. Excavate the soil to a depth that will accomodate a two inch layer of sand and block or bricks. Allow about a one inch slope in fifteen feet for proper drainage and of course this would be away from the house. Add two inches of builders' sand. If more protection from grasses and weeds is desired, place sand on polyethylene. For the second step, set patio blocks or bricks on edge in trench dug along line established with stakes and string, two by four inch wood strips can be used. Notch a one by six inch board at each end to same thickness of blocks or board runners to level sand. Rest the notched board on the blocks along the edge of patio. If the area is too wide, use a temporary strip in the middle and level the sand in strips. Now start in a corner and lay blocks or bricks in a planned-on-paper pattern complete by sprinkling loose sand or a mortar compound over the surface sweep into cracks between blocks and sprinkle with water hose.

PRESIDENT'S MEETING

Your Home Demonstration agent must attend a conference in Baton Rouge on June 5th. So please come to the President's Planning meeting on Thursday, June 4 at 9:30 a.m. at the Agriculture building in West Monroe. You will be my guest for lunch. Remember to invite your President elect.

CARPET REPAIR

If you Mrs. Homemaker have a bare spot on your carpet caused by a burn, moths or pulled out pile, you can do something about the damage. Use carpet yarn or a coarse, harsh knitting yarn as nearly like that used in the carpet as you can get. A long darning needle or a curved upholstery needle is the only other equipment you will need.

Slip the needle under a cross wise yarn in the carpet backing. Draw the yarn part way through, leaving a loop about ¼ to ¾ of an inch long. Make several loops close together and clip them. Continue making loops and clipping them until the bare spot is filled. Then shear the new tufts even with the rest of the pile. To flatten the new pile slightly and take off the newness of the yarn, steam press lightly with a touch and lift motion using a damp cloth when the work is completed only you will know where the repair was.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

If a recipe calls for sour milk and you have none in the house, make sour milk by adding one tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar per cup of milk and let the mixture stand for five minutes. You may use fresh milk and substitute one teaspoon baking power for each ¼ teaspoon of baking soda in the recipe.

If you Mrs. Gardener want blue hydrangeas, water the plant two or three times with a solution of aluminum sulfate in five gallons of water. Drench the soil thoroughly, fertilize lightly.

A THOUGHT

Why is there never enough time to do a thing right but always time to do it over?

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Feed Plants Again Now

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

FEED PLANTS AGAIN NOW

The great spurt of spring growth is now over, and plants have settled down to slower growth. This is because they have used up their reserves stored in roots, stems and trunks.

If you wish to keep things growing, now is the time to fertilize them again. Weed flower beds thoroughly, scatter fertilizer over the soil, and then put on a good mulch to preserve moisture during summer droughts. A four-inch mulch (some people put on six inches) of pine needles will also hold down the weeds. You can water right through it, too, with no fear of erosion.

MONTHLY FEEDING

Beds of perennials and annuals will need a monthly feeding throughout the summer to do their best. Plants which produce such heavy crops of flowers as petunias, zinnias, marigolds use up the food in the soil in a hurry. Most gardeners never really get the most out of their annuals because they do not feed them enough. One can just scatter a complete fertilizer over mulches and water it in rather than taking the trouble to remove the mulch each time. A good deal of the fertilizer gets absorbed in the bottom of the mulch, but this decays some of the needles (or other material) and makes a perfect addition to the upper layer of soil each year.

STARVING PLANTS

The South is full of starving crape myrtles. It is a wonder that they ever bloom at all. When they are properly fed, these marvelous trees put on a show second to nothing else in this part of the world — not even the azaleas can beat them. Feed your trees now by the hole punching method and water them heavily with the nozzle off. Even old starving specimens that have not bloomed in years will come to life and flower. Since crape myrtles bloom on their new wood, they will flower even if they are only a foot or two high.

FLOWERING POSSIBLE

Old starving clumps of crinums can be made to flower, as we have reminded you before in the column, by feeding them heavily, Dissolve any complete fertilizer in water and pour it around the clumps. Then keep them heavily watered. It often takes as much as two weeks, but you should have flowers in that time if you have fed them enough.

FEED VITEX

The powder blue vitex is another shrub or small tree that responds like magic to fertilizer. Old tree-size specimens have beautiful trunks and bark and make the finest blue-lavender splash of color we have in our gardens in summer. Vitex will bloom, however, from the smallest little plants. In some Southern towns, the plants are kept cut down to a few feet. Each time they bloom, the shrubs are cut back fairly severly and made to flower again.

1. The contest is strictly for amateur photographers. 2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1963 are eligible.
3. Your snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Black-and-white prints from color negative type films will be accepted. Any make of camera may be used. Developing and printing may be done by a photo-finisher or the entrant. No print or enlargement more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negatives from which they are made. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages, are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.
4. To enter the contest, mail a print or prints of as many pictures as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the picture entered. (See Classes.)
5. No black-and-white prints will be returned. Do not submit negatives with your prints. Keep them until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, or prints.
6. At the close of the contest, this newspaper will award Grand Prizes to the four pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest. These four winners then will be entered by the newspaper in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with the same number of entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling approximately $32,000.
7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and-or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN—One or more youngsters to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES — Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season; occupations, hobbies, sports and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS"—Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal —landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE — Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

8. It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the Twenty-sixth Annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one or more of the four classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print, and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

IMPORTANT: If you snap a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or persons to the use of the picture for promotional purposes must be obtained.

Horoscope Forecast

SUNDAY, MAY 31 1964

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A Sunday when there may be some surface tensions in respect to traveling, wanting what is beyond your means, etc., but the aspects are excellent for thinking out a broad plan of life which can be reduced to a very satisfactory and workable level by living your own religion.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Concentrate upon the more important personal desires instead of always thinking about money. Get out to church of your choosing. Be or real service to others and know happiness.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Inspiring others by activities and actions that are exemplary is best now. Then off to the fun places that help you to relax. You are innately fine — let others see this, too.

GERMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put worries aside and think in a positive fashion so that you can accomplish what you set out to do in the future. Anxiety has a hypnotic power. Get rid of it! Have faith.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Why don't you follow your own inclinations instead of relying on that egotistical person who literally stumps your growth? Keep promises. Be as good as your word and succeed!

LEO (July 22 to August 21) This is a good free day to talk over calmly any differences you may have with associates. This holds true for customers as well. Then, the future augurs more success, fun.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) If you carry out duties and promises efficiently, you inspire others now. Live the Golden Rule and others quickly support you. Life is a happy affair, if you make it so.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Avoid that individual who keeps harping upon how much you owe him or her. This is only a way to bind you. Get out with neighbors, if necessary, and be happy, relieve pressures.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Steer clear today of somewhat boring partner with repetitious ways and think along personal, constructive lines. Planning makes future much brighter for you. Pray.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Forget work and be off to the services that help you spiritually now. Then sit down and write important letters. Advancement is but a benign way to manifest faith.

CAPRICORN December 22 to January 20) Hang on to every word that successful persons utter today and learn how to be more successful yourself. Forget pleasure, This is only transistory, temporary.

AQUARIUS January 21 to February 19) By entertaining persons of note with your fine talents this free day, they later support your aims. Bring forth that wonderful poise you possess. Be charming.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) Sincere meditation on this day set aside to worship God will bring forth fine returns in the future. Be or assistance to the sick, the needy. We all have a moral duty to our fellow man.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, this fascinating child will certainly be a product of the New Era, so-called, and you must give your offspring the chance to study under the most modern teachers, especially in the field of science and the arts. Be very understanding, since your progeny is a rugged individualist and will act only as he or she sees fit, which is good. The chart of a true genius.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS

Wall Street Has Many Attractions

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those visitors in town for the New York World's Fair and desirous of a change from its modernity might find a stroll through the Wall Street area a welcome change of pace.

In the normal office hours of a working day, there would be little difference in the general feeling of hustle and bustle, and certainly the roadways at the fair are wider and easier to navigate than some of the old-fashioned cowpath streets that thread parts of the financial area in lower Manhattan.

On a Sunday, particularly a Sunday morning, however, the contrast can be startling. The Wall Street area looks almost like a deserted city, the massive doors to its brick and stone towers tight shut, its streest virtually deserted by the taxicabs, limousines, trucks and pushcarts which fill them during the working week.

The area has some attractions that even the fair cannot match.

Following the crowds around through the miles of passageways that thread the elaborate structures of the fair, the visitor soon can understand how millions of dollars were poured into its preparations, and how millions will be spent there.

But standing in the visitors' gallery at the New York stock exchange, he can look down on one single area where almost $55 billion worth of securities changed hands in the single year of 1963, and where are traded the stocks of a good many of the companies whose exhibit buildings are features of the fair not too many subway stops away.

If tiring of the activity there, he can amble up Nassau Street to iberty for aleisurely look at the fortress-like lines of the Federal Reserve Bank, which may be in any given 24-hour period the stopping place for up to $50 billion currency, bonds and gold.

He wouldn't be able to see it, but he could understand that he, outside on the street, was walking around above perhaps a billion or at last hundreds of millions of dollars in gold, shaped into bricks and stored five levels beneath him in the underground vaults of the Fed.

Wherever he might choose to roam during his tour, he would be walking through an area of some of the most valuable real estate in the world. The area extending up to City Hall from the tip of the island is less than a quarter-section, or around 120 acres, but its value including buildings is assessed at nearly $900 million.

Or if he turned west along Wall Street from the corner of Broad, a short block would bring him to Trinity Church and its historic graveyard; skirting this to Hanover, he could find himself at the home of the nation's second largest securities auction market, the American Stock Exchange.

There is, of course, a long list of historic sites or home offices of world-known names in the world of banking and finance which he could view. Not that they match the fair for eye-catching pleasure, but they've been around longer.

Grain Futures Begin Falling

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market fell into a steady downward trend most of the time last week and finished with fairly broad losses in all commodities on the Board of Trade.

Wheat had an active flurry of buying on Monday which analysts said may have been its last for some time. It was linked with reports of unfavorable crop conditions in parts of the western Great Plains. Profit cashers raked the market the next day, though, and the pressure never actually ceased thereafter.

Rainfall over much of the Midwest about midweek contributed a good deal to the pressure on grain prices. Advices said the moisture undoubtedly was a boon to winter wheat in the north central and western Great Plains and could have improved materially the potential yield in areas where condition was deteriorating. However, traders heard reports that a large acreage of the Oklahoma Panhandle probably would not even be harvested.

At the end of the week, wheat was 7/8-2 1/8 cents a bushel lower, July old grade $1.47 7/8-3/4; corn 1-1 3/4 lower, July $1.23 1/8; oats 1/2-1 1/8 lower, July 62 3/8-3/4 cents; rye 3/4-1 3/4 lower, July $1.23-23 1/8; soybeans 1 7/8-2 3/8 lower, July $2.48 1/8-48.

Oil Industry Emphasizing Civic Roles

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oil companies are placing renewed emphasis on encouraging employes and stockholders to participate in public affairs and politics.

A formal policy on public affairs has been published by Texaco Inc. in the first 1964 edition of its employe-stockholder publication, "The Texaco Star."

The latest edition of the "Sunray DX News," employe publication of the Sunray DX Oil Co. presents a four-point formula on how individual citizens can influence the outcome of an election.

It was not until 1958 that major oil firms began to announce publicly that employes were being encouraged to participate actively in politics.

The Gulf Oil Corp. was among the first by encouraging, in 1958, its employes to participate even to the extent of running for public office.

By 1960, similar policy statements were made by such firms as Phillips, Continental, and Humble, the domestic affiliate of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

Continental adopted a policy of granting employes time off from work without loss of pay to participate in political party activities or serve as delegates to Democratic and Republican conventions.

Continental also conducted during the 1960 campaign a series of public affairs workshops designed to stimulate active participation by employes in politics.

Texaco's policy statement on public affairs was formalized by Augustus C. Long, board chairman.

"Our political freedom and competitive free enterprise system have made the United States the leader throughout the world in social and economic progress," the Texaco policy says.

"Certainly the preservation of our system is essential to the security of our nation, and to the continued prosperity of the company, its employes, and its stockholders.

"Accordingly, all citizens, both individual and corporate, need to assume the duties and privileges of citizenship, including active participation in civic and public affairs.

"Texaco, therefore, encourages all employes to exercise these duties and responsibilities in community and governmental affairs so as to preserve our American system that has given us our freedom and abundance of life. It will, of course, be for each employe to make his own free choice as to political party and candidates."

Sunray DX employes were advised now is the time to start working if they want to make their political opinions felt at election time.

"If you start now, you can exert a tremendous amount of influence on the November elections," the Sunray employes were told.

"Now is the time for you to learn what the issues are. This will help you to make up your mind between the various candidates. . .

"It is also the time to decide the role you will play in the campaign. Will you support one of the political parties or a particular candidate? Or, will you not be an active participant and just sit back and let someone else make the decisions as to what this country's future will be?"

Sunray employes then were advised:

"There are four things you can do that will have an influence on an election's outcome:

1. Talk about the candidate.
2. Call your party or candidate's headquarters and volunteer to help in your spare time.
3. Contribute and solicit money for the candidate of your choice.
4. Vote.

"The important thing is to do something."

Rise In Steel Industry Optimism Good Omen

Monroe Morning World

Sunday, May 31, 1964

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Optimism spread in the vast steel industry during the week.

It was a good omen for the economy as a whole.

Predictions were made that the usual summer slump in steel production wouldn't be as sharp as usual and that output for 1964 would be at or near a record level.

The atmosphere at the annual meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute in New York, where industry leaders aired their views, was untroubled.

This was in marked contrast to a year ago when there was apprehension over the possibility of a strike.

Thomas F. Patton, chairman of the institute and of Republic Steel Corp., third-ranking producer, expressed the opinion that production this year might match the record 117 million tons in 1955.

He noted that the picture was brightened by heavy steel demand from the automobile industry, which has its sights set on an eight-million-car year in 1964.

Some other executives weren't quite so optimistic but most of them looked for production well over the 109 million tons turned out in 1963.

The immediate outlook, with summer nearing, was described as good, which would mean added zinc for the entire economy

Some executives expect production at the summer low to hold above 70 per cent of capacity, not far below last week's 79.4 per cent rate, expected to be the spring peak.

Output during the week registered the 18th gain in 21 weeks and was the highest since the first week of last June. Mills turned 2,511,000 tons, up 8,000 tons from the previous week.

The biggest customer for steel, the automobile industry, continued to gobble up great amounts of the metal although production of cars was curtailed by the Memorial Day Holiday-shortened work week.

Assembly lines rolled out an estimated 161,190 passenger cars, down from 172,487 the previous week but far ahead of the 139,292 built a year ago.

New car sales in the middle 10 days of May set a record for the period. Dealers sold 257,088 new U.S.-made automobiles, exceeding the mid-May record of 241,300 in 1955.

A key economic indicator—new orders for machine tools—posted a good gain in April, rising to $91.2 million from $77.7 million in March and $62.2 million in April 1962.

Construction contracts in April climbed 9 per cent from a year earlier to $4,359,443,000. F. W. Dodge Corp., which gathers building statistics, said the record volume of contract awards in the last seven months "means that the current high level of construction expenditures is likely to be maintained through the balance of 1964."

The cost of living edged up one-tenth of 1 per cent in April, the Labor Department reported. This put the consumer price index at 107.8, meaning that it cost $10.78 to purchase items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period of the index.

Most of the increase was attributed to higher costs for recreation, rent and medical services.

Steels Strong Despite Mild Stock Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels were a strong feature last week as the stock market extended a mild, irregular decline through its second week.

The steels were spurred by reports that the pace of orders was so strong that the usual summer lull promises to be smaller than usual. Investors in steels also were encouraged by statements of industry leaders, gathered for the annual meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute, that 1964 may be a record year for the metal.

Trading was highlighted by a further cooling off of the "mineral-find" issues which have flown high in recent weeks on the basis of natural resource discoveries.

Other highlights included a strong but brief rally of drug stocks involved in oral contraceptives, because of hints the Roman Catholic Church might re-examine its attitude toward these products, and strength in savings-and-loan holding companies.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week took a slight loss of .31 at 820.56.

The Associated Press average last week declined to 306.0, 306.0.

Stock exchanges were closed Friday in observance of Memorial Day. Volume for the week was 17,292,511 shares compared with 23,800,207 for the full five-day week previous.

The market staged an uneven advance on Thursday, with steels and savings-and loans showing the way. Drugs were off sharply after a Wednesday rally.

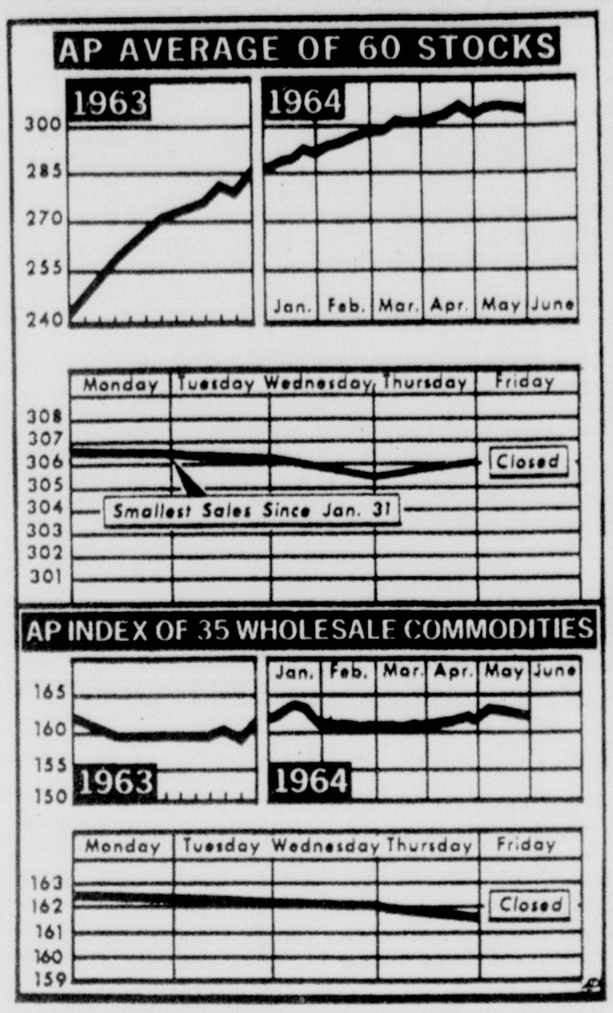
The ability of the market to rise on the eve of the holiday was interpreted by some analysts as a good omen for stronger prices in the post-Memorial Day period.

Of the 1,508 issues traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange, 721 declined and 591 advanced.

Bond prices climbed in May. Government bonds chalked up gains of as much as 1¼ points over a month ago.

Corporate bonds, measured by The Associated Press average of 60 bonds traded on the New York Stock Exchange, gained slightly more than an index point.

Corporate trading for the 4-day week on the stock exchange totaled $38,587,300, par value compared with $47,037,000 par value the week before.



FOR THE SECOND straight week The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined, closing at 306.0 from the 306.8 of a week earlier. The commodity index moved lower for the third consecutive week, closing at 161.6 from 162.5 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest loss. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Cotton Futures Turn Downward

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices of cotton futures this week were lower. Trading continued light.

At the close of trading Thursday — the market was closed thereafter because of the Memorial Day observance — active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were down $1.45-2.95 a bale for the week.

Last week the market rose $1.00-$5.35 a bale.

Profit-taking and liquidation dropped prices. Sustaining factors were limited to scattered commission house buying and short covering. For the most part, traders remained on the sidelines awaiting clarification of the cotton subsidies program.

Cotton exports totaled 126,000 bales compared with 111,000 earlier.

For the current season through May 26, exports totaled 4,745,000 bales compared with 2,891,000 for the same period a year ago.

Living Costs In Shreveport Rise .1 Per Cent

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Retail prices for living essentials purchased by moderate income families in Shreveport rose only .1 per cent in a six-month period, a research report showed Saturday.

The research division of Louisiana State University's college of businees administration compared prices in April, 1964, and October, 1963.

But the research report said when April was compared with a year ago, the Shreveport consumer price index showed an increase of 1.1 per cent.

The largest increase was in the personal care prices, which increased 43 per cent over October, 1963, and 5.2 per cent over a year ago.

The number of wells completed or gauged last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District soared to 10, while general activity remained about the same. Nineteen new locations were staked throughout the 15-parish area, according to Manager Duncan S. Cook.

Cook's weekly report showed the completions in five parishes — three each in Concordia and Union, two in Morehouse and one each in Rapides and Tensas.

Active rigs, drilling or testing, were located in seven parishes. There were 18 of them at the end of the week, with eight in LaSalle Parish. Others were in Concordia, which had three, Rapides and Tensas, two each, and Avoyelles, Morehouse and Union, one each.

The new locations were widely scattered in nine parishes and included five staked in Union Parish, three staked in each of Concordia and Catahoula Parishes, two each in LaSalle and Caldwell and one each in Grant, West Carroll, Avoyelles and Ouachita.

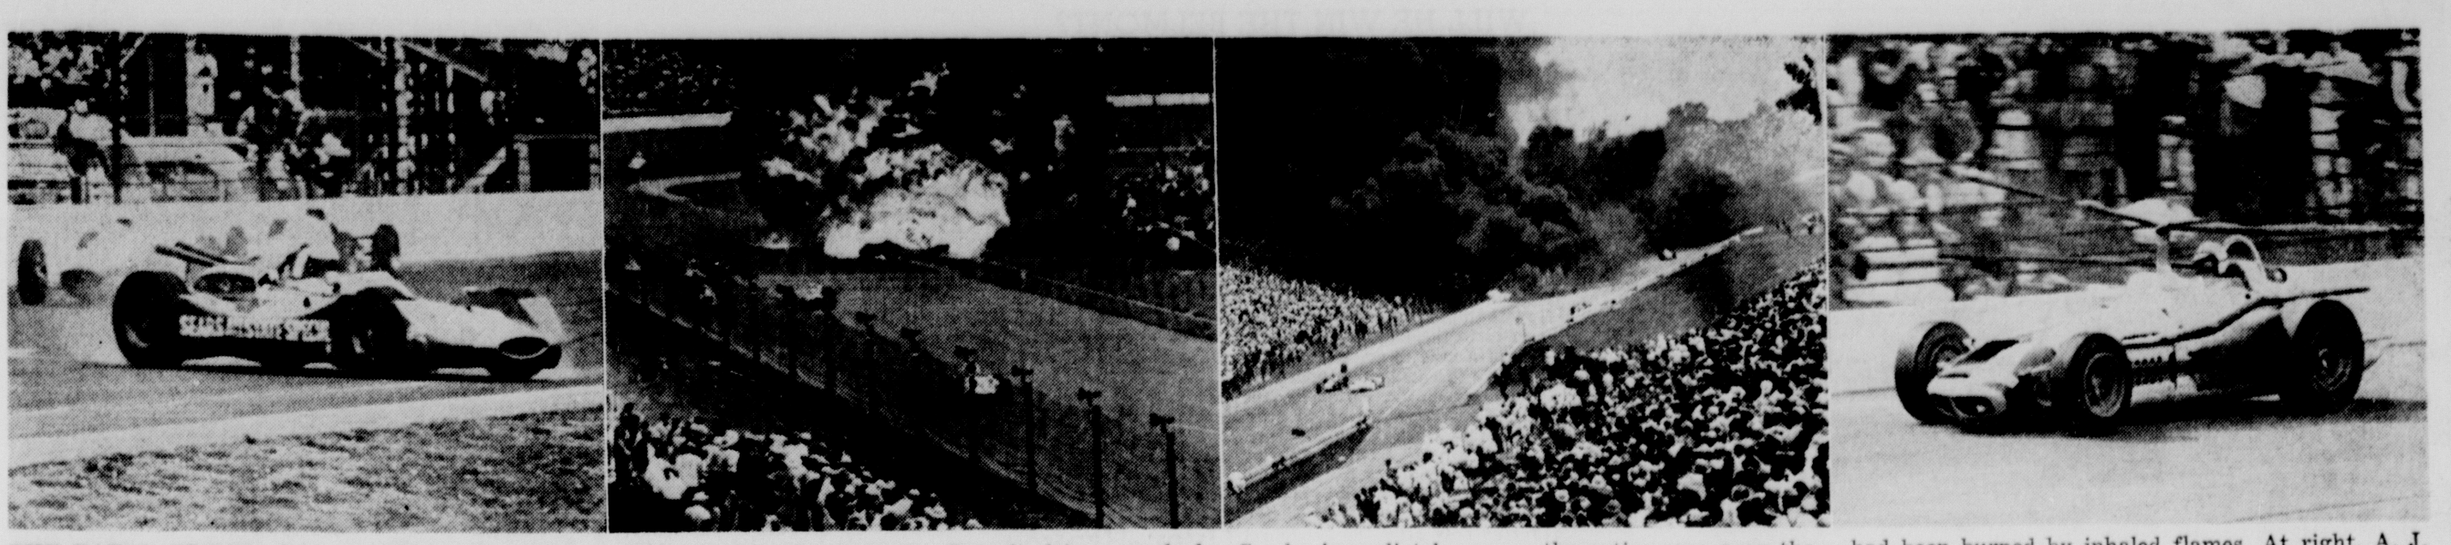
In addition to individual awards, the trumpet section was voted the most improved part of the band and the clarinet division was chosen as the outstanding section.

Special recognition was given to the bands' secretaries, Ruth Franz of Pineville and Diana Key of Hico, and to John Wood of Maplewood, band photographer.

Upon the occasion of the awards presentations, a resume of the bands' activities of the year was discussed by Director Reynolds and by Michael Spears of Farmerville, assistant director.



THE FATAL CRASH which claimed two lives during the second lap of the 500-Mile Classic at Indianapolis Saturday was triggered by this skid (left photo). The car, driven by rookie Dave MacDonald of El Monte, Calif., rammed the wall coming out of the northwest turn on the second lap of the race. Eddie Sachs, 37, a veteran Detroit driver crashed into MacDonald. A shot from the grandstands (second photo from left) reveals the explosion which occurred seconds after the two cars collided. As the fuel explodes, flames leap high into the air while cars not involved in the wreck move past the scene. Smoke immediately covers the entire area near the accident (second photo from right) and all other cars are stopped. The race had to be started over. Sachs was burned to death before he could be pulled from his car and MacDonald died two hours later in an Indianapolis hospital. Doctors said that his lungs had been burned by inhaled flames. At right, A. J. Foyt of Houston, Texas, waves to the crowds after racing over the finish line for his second Indianapolis Speedway 500-Mile victory. He also won the 1961 race. The Texan drove No. 1, a Sheraton-Thompson Watson-Offenhauser. (AP Wirephotos)

Foyt Wins 500 Race; Two Are Killed

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Texan A. J. Foyt Jr. won the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race for the second time Saturday driving to a record in a supposedly obsolete Offenhauser roadster that survived a day of frightful crashes in which two drivers died and 10 persons were hurt.

Eddie Sachs, 37, of Detroit died in his eighth attempt to win the richest auto speed event, caught in a flaming tangle that resulted when rookie David MacDonald, 26, El Monte, Calif., crashed. MacDonald, who inhaled blazing gasoline, died a few hours later.

The seven-car pile-up, on the second lap, stopped the race for the second time in 54 years, and the first time for an accident. It was restarted after an hour and 45 minutes of fire fighting and dusting down puddles of oil.

Foyt took the lead on the 55th 2½-mile lap, a little after the one-quarter mark, and never was headed in his run to a 147.350 mile-per-hour average. The old mark of 143.137 was set last year by Parnelli Jones, the victim of another fire Saturday.

The only leaders were Jim Clark of Scotland, who spun into the infield with a collapsed wheel; Bobby Marshman, whose oil tank sprang a leak; Jones and Foyt.

Remarkable Rodger Ward, no worse than fourth in the last six Memorial Day races and twice the winner, took second money, about three miles back of Foyt. He had to make five pit stops for fuel in his Kaiser Aluminum Special, the only Ford-powered car of seven starters to finish the race. Foyt stopped only twice.

There was one other finisher among the 12 rear-engine cars that unsuccessfully challenged the 19-year unbroken reign of standard front - engine Offys, similar to Foyt's Sheraton - Thompson special.

Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., was third; rookie Johnny White, Warren, Mich., fourth; Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif., fifth; and Bud Tingelstad, Dayton, Ohio, sixth.

Only 12 cars were running when Foyt finished. One of them driven by Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, spun off the track right after that.

The record of five straight 500s without a driver death ended in a roar of flame and smoke that engulfed the north end of the main straightaway before most of the cars had completed two laps around the 2½ - mile oval.

MacDonald, an expert sports car racer, hit the outside wall coming out of the northwest turn and slid several hundred feed before stopping afire. Other cars spun and tumbled in the cloud of smoke and roaring fuel.

Sachs died, trapped in his new rear - engine Halibrand Ford. MacDonald died in Indianapolis Methodist Hospital a short time later. He also had one of the new Ford engines in his streamlined Mickey Thompson creation. The fact that both spilled gallons of high octane gasoline contributed to the blaze.

Another less spectacular blaze an alcohol fire that was quickly extinguished, took Parnelli Jones' Agajanian Offenhauser, the winner last year, out of the race after he had led seven laps. That blaze erupted as Jones was pulling out of the pits after a fuel stop. He leaped out of the racer and rolled down the pit apron, escaping with burns on the left arm and right leg.

The casualty list in the second-lap pile - up, besides the dead, included rookie Ronnie Duman, 32, Dearborn, Mich., second—and third-degree burns, Johnny Rutherford, 26, Fort Worth, Tex., minor burns; Norman Hall, Hollywood, Calif., head cuts, and Bobby Unser, 30, Albuquerque, N. M., minor burns.

Unser, whose brother Jerry was killed on the Speedway in a 1959 practice run accident, drove straight through the fire without hitting anything, in the novel four-wheel - drive Ferguson-Novi.

The Lotus-Ford bid ended abruptly after a brilliant start. Clark, 1963 world road racing champion, started in the No. 1 spot on his record qualifying performance and zoomed away from the starting line like a green rocket. After the restart, Bobby Marshman took the lead in the seventh lap in another Lotus-Ford, but went out in the 39th lap with an oil leak.

Clark led seven laps but a wheel suspension failed and he ground to a halt in the infield after throwing sparks for a quarter-mile.

The first four finishers all bettered the Jones' 1963 speed record.

Ward was timed in 146.339 m.p.h.; Ruby in 144.6; and White in 142.341.

Seventh place went to Dick Rathmann, Roselle, Ill., followed by Bob Wente, St. Louis rookie, eighth; Bob Harkey, another rookie, from Charlotte, N.C., ninth; and Grim, 10th.

These last four were still running when Foyt finished, but were waved in before finishing.

Californian Dan Gurney, Clark's teammate in the other factory Lotus, was called off the track by his crew, who said there were some difficulties with an English tire being used on the Lotus-Fords. Colin Chapman of London, the builder, said he didn't want to take any chances with Gurney's life.

Clark started off the interrupted race at a tremendous pace of 154.8 miles an hour. Marshman, a second-generation race driver, also ran at tremendous speed before he began spraying oil and had to retire.

The old front-engine Offenhausers took over from then on, with Jones and Foyt leading and Ward chasing.

Foyt, a powerful young man with an engaging grin, is defending U.S. Auto Club champion and has won the only three races on the circuit this year, at Trenton, Phoenix and Indianapolis.

Ironically, Foyt's other victory in 1961 was at the expense of Sachs. Sachs had to stop to replace a wornout tire, while leading with only three laps to go. He had gone ahead, however, only because Foyt's crew failed to fill his tank on one stop and he had to make another run into the pits.

Foyt won't know how much he won until the official prize distribution at the traditional victory dinner Sunday night but it may approach $200,000. He won $21,900 in lap prizes alone —$150 for each lap he led the field.

Police estimated the crowd at 260,000.

A BURNING TIRE (left) flies toward spectators on the fourth turn at the Indianapolis Speedway during the tragic accident which left two dead. Men are running from the flames that followed the crash at the turn into the stretch on the second lap. In the wake of the crash it was announced seven cars were out of competition — and driver Eddie Sachs was fatally injured. Dave MacDonald was pronounced dead two hours late. The dramatic picture at right shows racing cars driving through flames which developed following the crash. Burning cars are in the background. (AP Wirephotos)

ONLY THING IN LIFE

Sachs Serious About Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Eddie Sachs was dead serious about only one thing in life—driving a race car.

Off the track he liked to talk, particularly into a radio microphone. Sachs was known as the clown prince of racing.

"He was a needler," one fellow driver remembered, "and he also took a lot of needling. In the kidding department, he asked no quarter and he gave none."

But Sachs didn't kid about race driving. Only last year he got in a fist fight with the winner of the Indianapolis race, Parnell Jones.

Sachs thought that the car Jones was driving was leaking oil on the track and should have been waved off.

Sachs lost control twice in last year's race. He was running fourth late in the 500 miles when he hit the inside guard rail. Restarted, he lost the left rear wheel later and crashed into the wall near the spot where he was killed Saturday.

Sachs never did have any luck at Indianapolis.

The Detroit, Mich., driver first came to the speedway in 1953, after working his way up as a driver of midgets and jalopies. He took a driver's test but spun out and was advised to get more experience before trying again.

Sachs passed the test in 1956, but he qualified in 34th place, just one spot too slow to get into the race.

In 1957, Sachs qualified in the middle of the front row, and proceeded to give one of the finest driving exhibitions ever by a rookie but a broken piston sent him to the pits after 105 laps. He was awarded 23rd place.

The next year Sachs was actually in the lead for one lap, but mechanical trouble forced him out again.

Much the same thing happened in 1960, when Sachs won the pole in qualifying. And in 1961, the pole starter again, he was in the lead for 197 laps but had to replace a tire and lost by eight seconds.

In 1962, Sachs was third, only 19.93 seconds behind the winner.

One of the most serious accidents he suffered also took place in Indianapolis, but on another speedway. Sachs was cut and had his hand crushed when his midget racer overturned in 1957.

LSU Suspends Danny LeBlanc

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Louisiana State Athletic Director Jim Corbett Saturday night confirmed that senior halfback Danny Le Blanc has been suspended from the university for unstated disciplinary reasons.

Corbett said the one-semester suspension would rule the two-year letterman out of the 1964 football season, but he would be eligible to play in 1965.

Le Blanc said he would return to LSU next January and would play the following fall.

TAKES 3 MILE AND STEEPLECHASE

Vic Zwolak's Difficult Wins Lead Villanova To IC4A Championship

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP)—Durable Vic Zwolak scored a difficult double, winning the three -mile run and the 3,000 - meter steeplechase Saturday while leading Villanova to its fifth straight IC4A track and field championship.

Zwolak, a 25-year-old ex-Marine and the Wildcat captain, won the three-mile in a meet record 13 minutes, 53 seconds, then came back less than 40 minutes later and took the testing steeplechase in 9:25.7.

It was the steeplechase, in which the Wildcats finished first second and fifth, that put Villanova out of reach of threatening Harvard.

Villanova finished with 45 points, Harvard with 26½. Other leaders in the field of 51 teams competing in bright sunlight in this 88th edition of the nation's oldest track fixture were Morgan State 20, Penn State 16, Yale 16, Manhattan 15. Penn 14 and Colgate 13.

Rolando Crux, also of Villanova soared to 16 feet, 3½ inchest in a successful defense of his pole vault title. It was a meet record, bettering his 15-7 ¾ of a year ago and an upset of LaSalle's John Uelses, who cleared 16-¾.

Cruz failed three times at 16-5 just brushing off the bar with his chest on his final try.

The only other meet record set was the 51-4¾ triple jump by Harvard's Christian Ohiri in Friday's qualifying round. The distance stood up as the winning jump.

Earl Horner picked up some of the slack left in the Villanova point production by Noel' Carroll's sub - par performance in the half mile and added nine points with a winning :20.9 in the 220 and second in the 100 at :09.8, beaten in a photo finish by Colgate's Sam Amuksun in 9.7.

Carroll, who has gone under 1:47 in a relay this spring, has been bothered by a throat infection for a week and obviously was not at his best.

The big Irishman was second to Tom Farrell of St. John's in 1:49.5. Carroll made a big try on the final turn but was about a yard back in 1:49.6.

Gary Gubner of NYU, still bothered by a long session of arm trouble, failed in his quest of a third successive double in the discus and shot. The 270-pounder won the shot at 59-5½, but was second in the discus to a 169-10 toss by Harvard's John Bakkensen.

John Bethea of Morgan State won the 120-high hurdles in :14.3 and the Morgan State relay team won its second straight mile relay in 3:10.3. John Hartnett of Princeton took the high jump at 6-6.

Wendell Mottley of Yale suffered a leg cramp just before the end of the 440-yard run but plunged head-first across the finish line in a winning 47 seconds flat.

Sacrifice Bunt Leads Phillies Over Colts, 5-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia broke a 1-1 tie on Ruben Amaro's sacrifice bunt in the seventh inning and went on to a 5-1 victory over Houston Saturday night as Chris Short hurled a six-hitter.

Tony Gonzalez opened the seventh with a walk, went to third on a single by Clay Dalrymple and came home on Amaro's bunt to first baseman Dave Roberts.

Dalrymple's hit went into short right field, and the Colts argued that Bob Lillis' throw to pitcher Don Nottebart at first caught Dalrymple. During the argument Bob Bruce was ejected from the Houston bench.

The Phillies erupted for three runs in the eighth. Richie Allen singled and scored Johnny Callison's triple. Callison continued home on Roberts' wild relay throw to third. Wes Covington then smashed his sixth homer.

MRS. CARL GALLO tries out the new reworked Charmingdale Golf Course which officially opens this Friday, June 5. The course is unofficially open now and any persons wanting to play a round are invited to do so. The Charmingdale course is located three miles south of Monroe on the Alexandria Highway (165). The caddy is Keith Shoemaker.

EVERYONE IS INVITED

Charmingdale Golf Course Has Grand Opening Friday

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

Monroe and the surrounding area will be sporting a "new look" this weekend when professional golf instructor Carl Gallo opens the doors, and fairways, of this Charmingdale Golf Course.

The beautiful, completely reworked course, which is located three miles south of Monroe's city limits on the Alexandria highway (165), will have a gala Grand Opening Friday, June 5, and all golfers — professional, amateur and begineers — are invited to attend.

Gallo, the club's manager, comes to Monroe from Shreveport where he has served as a golf instructor for the last eight years and as assistant pro under Everett Nelson who is the President of the Southeastern PGA. The Charmingdale pro and his wife, Idalia, have leased the large 3387 yard par 36 course and installed new facilities and added several features not found anywhere else in the Monroe area.

Probably the most noteworth feature of the Charmingdale Club is the fully lighted driving range which will be open until 10 o'clock every night. The range will be open to the public along with a practice putting green.

Among other features of Gallo's course are electric golf carts, trained caddies, pull carts, club rentals and club storage. The swimming pool is expected to be ready within a month, soft drinks will be sold and on the course Gallo is using 328 Tifton grass, best in the business, for the greens.

"We are trying to give the golfers of this area a top-flight golf course in which to enjoy and improve their golfing game," the energetic pro said.

"We've had a full grounds crew reworking the course for the past six weeks and it is in nearly perfect shape right now," he continued.

As an indication about the future of the Charmingdale Club, Gallo said that plans have already been laid out for the addition of nine more holes, possibly by next year, plus construction of a bigger club house.

Membership to the new club will cost $50 per year for persons living within a 30 mile radius of Monroe and $25 a year for those living outside of the 30 mile area. There will be a small monthly club fee for members and an additional charge for guests. Members are allowed to bring guests from anywhere.

The green fee for non-members is $2.50 on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays and $1.75 on week days. This entitles the golfer to an 18-hole round.

Gallo, who is extremely well known throughout north Louisiana for his work as an instructor, will continue to teach golf here. Private classes will be offered to boys and girls from eight to sixteen years and a beginners class will be taught for men and women. Anyone wanting information about the classes or membership should contact Mr. or Mrs. Gallo at the club. The telephone number is 387-0883.

Several golf tournaments are already planned this month at Charmingdale including a "get acquainted" affair within two weeks.

Gallo emphasized that any club, school, or other organization that wants to sponsor a golf tournament at Charmingdale may do so and will receive special rates.

A couple of other additional features at the course include a layout sketch of each upcoming hole to be posted at every tee, and for those big-timers who might want to meet an out of town business acquaintance at the club, there is a landing strip which will be kept in shape for anyone who wishes to use it.

The entire layout should be quite interesting to see and play on. And it is easy to find — just look for the big lighted up sign on highway 165 welcoming everyone to the Charmingdale Country Club.

Yanks Clobber Athletics Behind Ford's Pitching

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Whitey Ford fired a five-hitter for his fifth victory Saturday night as the New York Yankees whipped Kansas City 9-1.

All of the hits off Ford were singles, two coming in the third when the Athletics scored an unearned run. Ford allowed just two hits after that inning. The 35-year-old left-hander struck out seven and walked one in winning the 204th game of his career. He has one defeat this season.

The Yankees scored four runs, the last three on Clete Boyer's fourth home run, in the sixth inning, snapping a 1-1 tie and making a six-time loser of Kansas City starter Moe Drabowsky.

Singles by Hector Lopez, Tom Tresh and Elston Howard scored one run before Boyer drove over the left field fence.

Dick Stebbins Wants Chance At Bob Hayes

GRAMBLING (Special) — Loquacious Dick Stebbins of Grambling College has organized his own "beat Bob Hayes club."

The sophomore speedster told a reporter for the Modesto (Cal.) Bee that he is sure he can beat Hayes in either the 100 or the 220-yard dash when they meet.

Hayes, a breath taking marvel from Florida A&M University, is classified as "the world's fastest human." He holds world marks for both the 100-yard dash and 100-meters. Stebbins expressed dismay that he has not been able to run against Hayes this year in three meets. Hayes entered but didn't run in the Texas Southern Relays, he only ran the 220 in the Coliseum Relays, and dropped out of the California Relays at Modesto last Sunday morning.

"I sure wanted a crack at him," Stebbins lamented on leaving Modesto last Sunday morning.

Stebbins agreed that "Hayes was the world's fastest human" in 1963, but protested that the label should be earned in competition this year.

"Henry Carr beat Hayes in the 220 at Los Angeles two weeks ago, and I beat Carr in the 100-meters on the same night.

"This sprinting situation looks like a real rat-race," the splendid scooter continued. "On his record, Hayes is the man to beat, but there is a tendency to under-rate some of the other fellows."

Stebbins is the youngest of America's Olympic hopefuls.

Only 18, he established himself as a top contender for the Tokyo games the night he edged Carr and a stellar 100 meter field with a 10.2 effort.

Carr holds the world's record of 20.2 for the 220-yard dash.

Stebbins has a 9.3 century and a 20.6 clocking in the 220. He also run a leg on the spectacular Grambling 440-yard relay team that has tied the world's record twice this season.

WILL HE WIN THE BELMONT?

Roman Brother Takes Jersey Derby Race

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (AP)—Harbor View Farm's Roman Brother, ridden by Chilean jockey champion Fernando Alvarez, raced to the front with a quarter of a mile to go, and romped home a three length winner over the favored Mr. Brick in the $125,300 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park Memorial Day.

Ironically, trainer Burley Parke decided late last week to enter Roman Brother in this fifth modern renewal of the Jersey only after the Scoundrel was injured and withdrawn.

The son of Third Brother-Roman Zephr, second at Garden State last year in both the Garden State Trial and the rich Garden State Stakes for 2-year-olds, earned $81,445 for owner Louis Wolfson of Miami.

Moving from seventh to fourth after half a mile of 1⅛-miles race for 3-year - olds, Roman Brother made his big move as the field of eight was half way around the far turn. He flew past Bob Ussery aboard Mr. Brick and widened his margin through the stretch.

A 3-1 second choice of the 43,341 fans on a hot afternoon. Roman Brother returned $8.60, $3.40 and $2.60. Mr. Brick, who recently won the Withers, proved once again that he is a greater sprinter, but can't win at more than one mile. He paid $2.60 and $2.20, while the third horse, another three lengths back, Reginald N. Webster's National, returned $4.60 for show.

There was no immediate decision from Parke on whether he planned to enter Roman Brother in the Belmont Stakes in New York next Saturday.

"Let's wait a few days," he said. "There is a good chance we'll go, but I want to think it over. Off the race he ran today, he certainly deserves the chance."

Minnesota Beats Bosox, 7-3, With Five Run Sixth

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota erupted for five runs in the sixth inning, with Bernie Allen's two - run homer capping the frame, to topple Boston 7-3 in a mid-day Memorial Day game Saturday.

The explosion against young Dave Morehead enabled Camilo Pascual to coast to his seventh victory of the season against two losses.

Morehead should have been out of the sixth with only one run scoring. But Dick Stuart's low throw to the plate let Zoilo Versalles score from third on Don Mincher's easy grounder to snap a 2-2 tie.

Following that, Harmon Killebrew singled home a run, Earl Battey's sacrifice fly drove in another tally and Allen hit his fourth homer of the year.

Pascual, the first American League pitcher to notch win No. 7, was touched for six hits the first four innings, including Lu Clinton's third homer with a man on base in the fourth.

Pascual, who hadn't given a hit for four successive innings, had trouble in the ninth but got out of it without much damage. He gave up a home run to Stuart, his eighth, and a pair of singles.

Minnesota scored in the first on successive doubles by Bob Allison and Mincher and in the third on Tony Oliva's 11th homer.

Cubs In Sweep Of Doubleheader Over Braves

CHICAGO (AP) — Sterling Slaughter, with relief help from Lindy McDaniel, pitched a one-hitter — Ed Bailey's two-out single in the fourth inning—and scored the deciding run as the Chicago Cubs stopped Milwaukee 2-0 for a sweep of their doubleheader Saturday. The Cubs won the opener 4-2.

Slaughter, 22-year-old right-hander making his first major league start, was replaced by McDaniel with none out in the eighth after he issued his fifth walk to Lee Maye and threw two balls to Joe Torre.

McDaniel struck out Torre, and the Cubs got a double play when Maye was nailed trying to steal second. Ty Cline then flied out.

Bailey singled to right after Slaughter walked Hank Aaron with two out in the fourth. Aaron, however, was tagged out trying to return to second after rounding the base.

Slaughter, who earned his first decision, scored in the third after opening the inning with a walk. He was sacrificed to second and, with two out, scored on Ron Santo's single, his first hit in 18 times at bat.

The Braves' Tony Cloninger, now 3-5, held the Cubs to three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

AT THE SPEEDWAY OPEN

Bayer, Player May Win Chips

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It is big casino time Sunday for pros in the $70,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament and sound-alikes George Bayer and Gary Player—among those with a corner on the chips as they move into the final round—appeared to be playing the hottest hands.

However, hunch players kept an eye on Bob Shaw, a youngster whose name has a familiar ring in this auto racing mecca. Shaw, who is not related to racing immortal Wilbur Shaw, initiated his pro career in this tourney last year and has yet to earn that first dollar on the tour.

Bayer, a one - stroke leader with a three-round total of 205, seeks his first victory in four years as play is resumed Sunday after a day's suspension for Saturday's 48th Indianapolis 500 -mile race.

Player says he believes he can rebound from his hard-luck streak on Friday, when he muffed four easy putts and had to settle for a 54-hole four-way tie for second with Shaw, Bob Rosburg and Tommy Jacobs at 206.

"Nerves, nerves, nerves — if ever there was a tourney when I should be four strokes ahead of the field, it's this one," Player said.

Hair Inherits Big Program

With Sam Hanna

New Wildlife Director

Joe Hair Jr., who was Gov. John McKeithen's choice for wildlife director, has stepped into a big assignment, especially since the department has been operated on an improved basis for the past four years.

He succeeded L. D. Young Jr., who resigned when he learned that McKeithen wanted him to resign. It was the second term as wildlife director for Young, who served before under Robert F. Kennon.

Young, we believe, did a good job as wildlife director.

During the past four years, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, using funds from the Russell Sage Foundation at no cost to the taxpayers, bought two public hunting areas.

Many people worked together on these projects, which had the director's support.

Louisiana's deer kill continued to rise annually over the last four years. The same is true for the turkey kill.

Young also played an instrumental role in the state's fight for an improved waterfowl season. He and Richard Yancey, his assistant, presented good arguments in official circles to get a better season for the Louisiana sportsman.

This is a job that Joe Hair will have to pursue.

But the biggest thing that L. D. Young did, as wildlife director, was create good morale among the men in his department — the biologists, the game wardens, the researchers, the field men.

Young showed these men that he was interested in wildlife, interested in their behalf and it reflected in their work. This is the sign of a good department head.

And it was certainly an improvement over the four years prior when the directorship changed hands three or four times during the last Earl Long administration.

So Joe Hair has a big job ahead.

We think that Joe, who originally hails from our hometown of Winnsboro, is off on the right foot, because he doesn't plan to fire his staff people. This happened under the last Long administration and as a result Louisiana lost some of its most qualified biologists.

Joe says he'll depend heavily on Dick Yancey, a personal friend of his. If this is the case, then the wildlife department will be in good hands. Dick Yancey knows his business.

It's no secret that Joe Hair was placed in line for the directorship after he flew McKeithen throughout the governor's race. Joe Hair doesn't deny this.

But the custom in Louisiana is to change guards. For better or for worse, it happens every four years.

So let's hope that Joe Hair will jump in early and find out what the wildlife problems are all about in Louisiana, then follow the advise of his professional people. If he does this, then the conservation program of Louisiana will be in good hands for the next four years.

Local Fishing Rodeo

If you like to fish, then you should be interested in the fishing rodeo underway today at Black Bayou. It's sponsored by the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, which has sponsored a fishing contest each summer for the past few years.

But this year the club is changing up its projects, replacing the summer-long contest with the fishing rodeo this weekend at Black Bayou.

It's open to the general public, including men and women, boys and girls. And there are prizes for a lot of winners.

For instance, prizes will be awarded for the biggest bass caught, biggest bream and biggest spec. Prizes also will be presented to the second, third and fourth place winners.

Youngsters — up to 13 — will have a contest of their own too. And prizes will be awarded for winners in their divisions of bass, bream and white perch.

You can enter the rodeo at Payne's Boat Dock or Oliver's Boat Dock on Black Bayou.

It started yesterday and continues today.

Everybody can compete.

Legislation On Catfish

A bill is being drafted for introduction Sunday night in the Louisiana House by Rep. S. S. DeWitt of Newellton regarding the taking of catfish during the spawning season.

According to available information, catfish in our territory are becoming harder and harder to catch because Louisiana does not have a season on taking them.

Other states do.

For instance, at Lake Bruin in Tensas Parish, out-of-state fishermen are coming there to catch catfish during the spawning season. And they catch them by hooking them in stumps when the fish are on their nests.

It's as easy as pie, but the trouble is it's hurting our catfish population.

So DeWitt has turned to the wildlife commission for assistance in drafting a bill to eliminate this problem.

There are other bills in the Legislature regarding wildlife, but we'll have more on them as the current session continues.

Little Man's Corner

The fishing was good in the Monroe area and the little men made news afield.

At Bayou DeSiard, Charlie Smart caught the limit of specs two days running at the Midway Dam. Mrs. Bennie Craighead landed 30 specs. Moon Lake and White's Lake have been good too.

From Monroe, L. E. Clark landed 90 bream at Black Bayou. J. C. Zagone caught 6½-pound bass — proudest for him. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hicks Jr. caught 54 bream, a catfish and a spec, while Johnny Danna landed 45 bream.

Still in the bream category, Tony Trainer of Monroe caught 96 in Black Bayou. Jesse Lapoole Jr. got 95. Leland Carpenter of Monroe took time out from politics to catch 30 bream.

In the Ferriday area, Johnny and Jimmy Atkins of Vidalia caught bream and the limit of white perch at Deer Park. Tom Griffin of Vidalia got the limit of white perch there.

Also in the same area, Richard and Patsy Logan got the limit of bass on Workman's Bayou. Jack and Jerry Webber got the limit of bass in Lake Concordia.

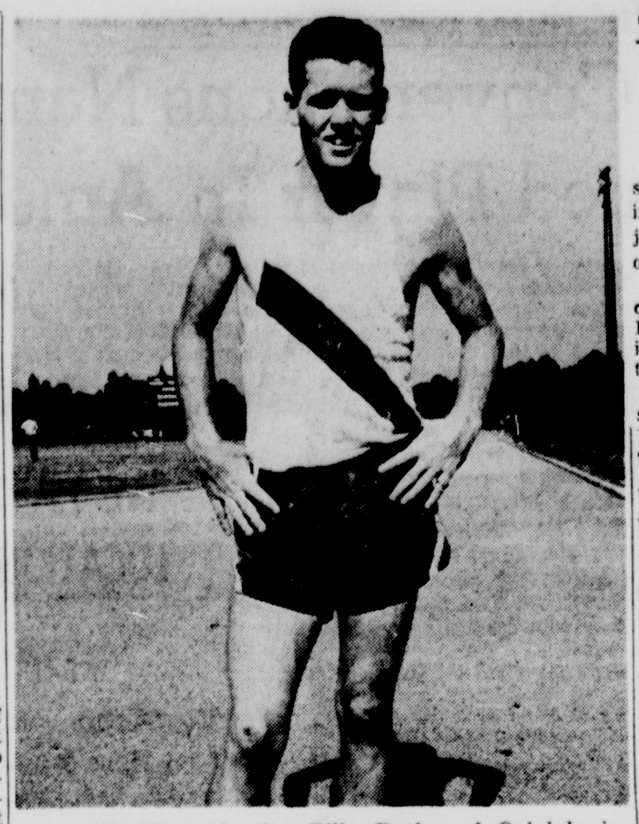
Vernon and Ethyl Stevens of Ferriday reported good catches of bass in Lake Concordia. Herbert and Freddy Bailey, Dempsey and Freddie McMullen of Ferriday, Earl Wentworth and Bill and Al Strickland all got the limit of bass.

Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Perry of Ferriday had a good string of white perch.

In the Lake Providence area, J. C. Butler got the limit of white perch at Hollybrook. Mrs. Sam Foutz landed 20 white perch while Van Hicks caught 12 bass in Lake Providence.

At Lake St. John, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Robertson of Winnsboro got the limit of bream and catfish. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Boyd and family of Ferriday landed the limit of catfish and bream.

Hollis Wallace Jr. caught the limit of bass in Lake St. John and Mike Browning got the limit of bream there.



ALL-STATE half-miler Billy Butler of Oakdale is the latest star high school trackman to sign with Northeast State. Butler ran one of the state's fastest 880's this year, 1:58.1, to make the all-state team after making the honor club last year with a 4:33.0 mile. He was the Louisiana class AA 880 champ in both 1963 and 1964.

LARGEST FIELD YET

Racing Today At Speedway

Stock car racing fans are promised an outstanding performance this afternoon at West Monroe Speedway where one of the largest array of entries yet will hit the oval at 1:30 p.m. when time trials will open.

The events begin at 2 p.m.

Roy Smith, president of the West Monroe Speedway said that this afternoon's contests would feature some of the outstanding drivers on the stock car circuit. "We expect a top show, with more action and touch competition than ever before," Smith declared.

"We have a new track," Smith said, "and it's just now getting right. The soft spots have shown up and we have been working constantly to put it in shape.

"Barring bad weather, we expect an outstanding crowd and a big slate of top racers," Smith said.

The track official said that he was hoping for rain last night and this morning. "Just so it doesn't rain at race time," he said.

He said that watering facilities were adequate to take care of any dust problems that might exist, "but a good rain this morning would be fine and help us control the dust and might even make the track a little tricky for the contestants. But they don't mind that too much."

The track is located on Browder road, just off the Jonesboro road near Cheniere creek.

OAKDALE DISTANCE ACE

Billy Butler Inks Pact With Indians

Billy Butler of Oakdale —all-state in the mile last year and in the half-mile this spring—has joined Northeast State's stable of track recruits.

Northeast Coach Bob Groseclose announced the signing of Butler, who recorded one of Louisiana's fastest prep 880 times this year, 1:58.1.

Last year Butler made the all-state team with one of the state's fastest miles, a 4:33.0.

In both 1963 and 1964 Butler won the 880 in the state class AA meet. In addition to the mile and half, he has run the 440 and on the mile relay team.

Butler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Butler, also played football at Oakdale High, earning all-district mention as a halfback.

The new Indian recruit will be the second Oakdale product to perform on the Northeast track team. Charles McDonald, a sprinter and honorary captain of the 1964 team, completed four years on the team this season.

Other members of the all-state team signed by Northeast this year are quarter-miler Willis Delhomme of Northside of Lafayette, miler Robert Harvison of Acadia Baptist and high jumper Jack McDougall of Reserve.

Mighty Mets Do It Again, Spill San Francisco

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Christopher drove in three runs and Charlie Smith two as the New York Mets whipped San Francisco 6-2 for the second straight time Saturday behind Jack Fisher's six-hit pitching.

Christopher knocked across Jesse Gonder, who had singled, and Frank Thomas, who was walked, with two out in the first inning. He brough in Rod Kanehl with a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

KOUFAX SAYS NOTHING WRONG WITH ARM

Dugout Conversations Name Maris Most Underrated Player In American League

By Milton Richman

NEW YORK (UPI) —Heard in the dugouts:

Funny thing how Roger Maris still draws most of the boos at Yankee Stadium and also repeated raves from rivals as the most underrated player in the American League . . .

For the umpteenth time, Sandy Koufax points out "there's absolutely nothing wrong with my arm." . . .

Rookie second baseman Bobby Knoop of the Angels is said to have the best pair of hands since Bill Mazeroski . . .

Birdie Tebbetts is progressing nicely at his home in Florida. He's answering as many of those get - well messages as possible and even taking light exercise . . .

Minnesota fans are getting the dope on the Twins right from the horse's mouth. Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jimmie Hall each has his own television or radio show, in addition to which ex - Giant pitcher Paul Giel also has a show of his own . . .

Kansas City's Jim Gentile says all it took for him to lose 20 pounds were no potatoes, no dessert and skimmed milk in his coffee . . .

Little Bobby Richardson of the Yankees reputedly owns the best "eye" at the plate. He has struck out only once so far this year. Baltimore's Russ Snyder is tabbed as the No. 1 bunter in the circuit by opposing players . . .

Dick Simpson, the rookie outfielder recently sent down to Hawaii by the Los Angeles Angels, now is regarded the fastest man in baseball. Any challengers? Pedro Ramos of the Indians thought he could beat Simpson and raced him. Ramos wound up a strong second . . .

Which brings to mind the long - time frustration of Ramos, who always clamored for a match race against Mickey Mantle. The race never came off because the Yankees vetoed the idea.

Someone asked the Cleveland pitcher whether he wished to race Mantle merely for the fun of it or for hard, cold cash.

"For money," replied the amiable right - hander. "I'll put up one week of my salary if he puts up one week of his."

That Ramos is no dope . . . Baltimore's Wes Stock takes a lot of ribbing from his teammates over the fact that he has never gotten a single hit during all his time in the majors . . .

Who should know dept: Richie Allen, the Phillies' phenom, was among the availables on the National League's original expansion list but both the Mets and Colts passed him up.

20th Century Fashion Is Endless Rehash

As pointed out recently, Twentieth Century fashion has about had it as far as major silhouettes go. We've already run through the major periods that every century seems to have had, and are now embarked on reworkings of those eras.

In further proof, "Women's Wear Daily" recently ran a sketch of a body dress with bias ruffling, wide V neck and side bow, which looked like something coming up for this fall until one read the caption: Chanel did it in 1927!

"Very much today" the paper called it, and of course it is. We can't go back to the early part of this century, as our lives forbid elaborate Edwardian fashions except for evening.

Fabulous Fabric On Display At World's Fair

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Home sewers going to the New York World's Fair may make a beeline for the Singer Sewing Machine exhibit. There they can see fabrics worth literally hundreds of dollars a yard, a kind of millionaire's home sewing dream.

For instance, how about an obi cloth from Hongkong of colorful flowers and leaves, at $200 a yard? Or perhaps you'd fancy an evening gown made from Tibetan lamasery altar cloth of cerise silk and gold bullion, worth a mere $112 a yard?

But many equally fabulous fabrics are made much closer to home. American artist—designer Gwenyth Waugh Clymer has contributed a handblocked and embroidered crewel linen valued at $250 a yard.

Eileen Auvil, designer for American House, has hand woven an evening gown of blue wool with a border of semiprecious stones and pearls which would cost $600 a yard to duplicate.

Yes, there will be clothes made up from the fabrics, shown on mannequins. A pink satin sheath with pink and gold stole is from a design created for Queen Sirikit of Thailand. An Indian sari of pale pink gauze with multicolor pattern and gold panels, includes six yards of material, costs $450.

Many of the fabrics come right from a New York shop, the crowded emporium of Jerry Brown, known to all the American couture designers as headquarters for priceless fabrics. And those at the Fair aren't just exhibit specials. all can be custom ordered at the Singer exhibit!

Kitchen Out For Eating Area

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — More and more people are seeking places at home to eat in a relaxed atmosphere says Helen Bell, extension home-management specialist at Penn State University.

If your home is an open plan and you want more private dining space, try changing your eating area, Miss Bell suggested. A sheer curtain or a screen on a ceiling track will give privacy while eating.

When separation isn't possible, consider moving your meal service to a table in the living room or another room. Very few people like to eat in a room cluttered with dirty dishes.

Tea Honors Mrs. White, Federated Clubs Officer

Julia Wossman Recreation Center was the setting for a tea honoring Mrs. A. T. White, second vice-president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs. The tea, on Saturday, May 23 was hosted by the Magnolia Study Club of Monroe, of which Mrs. White is a member.

Guests calling between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. were greeted by Mrs. C. F. Albright, vice-president of Magnolia Study club. The table near the entrance featured a potted African violet and the guest book, which was presided over by Miss Athline Connell.

For the occasion Mrs. White wore a gown of soft blue silk with short overblouse of Chantilly lace, complemented by a white glamellia corsage.

A pink and white theme predominated in floral arrangements on the two serving tables. A silver epergne filled with roses in shades of pink centered the table which was overlaid with a white cutwork linen cloth. The table where punch was poured by Mrs. Henry Poulan was beautifully appointed with a symetrical design of gladioli on a white lace cloth. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Ed Hislop and Mrs. C. C. Lucky Another table held a display of violets grown by Mrs. Tyler.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Damaged Bicycle Not Fault Of Neighbor

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our next door neighbors have done so many mean and petty things that we are seriously considering selling our home to get away from them. Here is the latest incident and we want your advice.

Our 11-year-old son left his bicycle in their driveway. Yes, we know he should not have been so careless, but kids will be kids. The neighbor woman pretended not to see the bike and backed her car over it just for spite. The bike is so badly smashed that no shop will attempt to repair it.

Now get this: After the woman wrecked our son's bike she banged on our front door, enraged, because she had been scared out of her wits. She thought at first that she had hit the boy, too.

When my husband told her husband that they owe us a new bike he replied, "You people are crazy."

We know you don't give legal advice, but what we want is common sense advice. Does this woman owe us a new bike? - - NEXT DOOR TO TROUBLE

Dear Trouble: The bike was in her driveway, wasn't it? Well, the answer should be fairly obvious.

To put it another way, let the boy earn at least half the price of a new bike and you can supply the other half. Perhaps he will take better care of a second bike if he has to do something to earn it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I had a terrific argument. We both said some pretty harsh things to each other which we regretted later. I was so angry with him because he made a remark about my being lazy that I refused to cook his dinner. We have no children and I had eaten several hours earlier.

A close friend of mine told me that no matter how mad a woman gets she has no right to refuse to cook her husband's dinner. According to her, it is the same as if the man refused to go to work. I do not agree with her. May we have your opinion? — STILL FUMING

Dear Fuming: Since when is dinner a special favor — Bestowed on a husband only when he is pleasant and agreeable?

Preparing meals is as much a woman's responsibility as bringing home the paycheck is a man's. These basic responsibilities are unconditional, so think up another punishment, Toots.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mainbocher Goes Back To Bias Cut

Even when fashions were at their starkest point, Mainbocher, the only American who ever became a top Paris designer, managed to give his perfect couture designs a certain air of prettiness.

Now that fashion is turning away from straight lines to curves, Mainbocher is in his element again. For it was he who in the Paris of the early Thirties became famous for his fluid bias cuts, soft draping and charming air of gentle prettiness.

For spring Mainbocher, who for some years has had his salon in New York, does a white crepe bias-cut evening gown with lightly blouse bodice that brought back the feeling of his early collections. It looks quite simple, but it's a masterpiece of sinuous cutting and neckline draping.

Suits are always a strong Mainbocher point. This spring they have a schoolgirl air of purity, plus a bias skirt with a ripple that replaces those tired old straight skirts we've had so long. Dresses beneath jackets often had bloused bodices. Under suit jackets the blouses were delicate, sexy little sheers.

Mainbocher's secret is perfect tailoring combined with a sweet touch, such as his suit-type jackets for evening dresses. His jackets are often longer this season, over those flared skirts. One, in dark plaid chiffon, buttons to the knee, from where the dress swings out.

YOUNG-AT-HEART

The young-at-heart story for summer is told in terms of cotton pinafores, shifts and tiny bikinis — all for the just out of cradle set, it seems. The cotton loungewear for grown - ups uses eyelet, ruffles, bows, rickrack and beading as accents. It's guaranteed, says the National Cotton Council, to keep grown girls looking like sugar 'n spice.

'Who's Who' Party Is Novel Entertainment

An interesting evening can develop from a "Who's Who" party. Secretly collect baby pictures of all invited guests and use them as place cards. Guessing just who is who will bring about a lot of good-natured laughter.

Set the theme for the party, with an appropriate centerpiece. It could comprise carnations, daisies, snapdragons, and Baker fern, arranged to flow though and mass at the bottom of a pretty picture frame with the glass removed.

BRIDE'S CUSTOM

In ancient Israel the bride's wedding robe had a blue border signifying purity, fidelity and love.

Knickers Due For Comeback

Knickers are those knee-length breeches that daddy nostalgically recalls from his childhood. They may very well be recalled again in about 20 years by the current crop of small fry, for knickers are regaining fashion ground.

Once novelties in high style, and high priced childrens wear lines, they are now popularly priced.

Today's knickers don't bag at the knees like Dad's did. They are trim with elasticized leg bands, (no nasty buckles) and keep the knee socks up.

Pink Favored Accent Color In Jewelry

There is a flattering blush over the jewelry picture this season as pink emerges as the favorite accent color in beads, baubles and bangles. And pink, the one color guaranteed to flatter every complexion, underscores the whole pretty, feminine theme of the new jewelry, according to the Fashion Coordination Institute.

Shades of pink, from the palest blush to deep mauve, are being shown in pins, earrings, necklaces and bracelets. The new pink jewel notes have a cosmetic as well as a fashion value and can accept virtually any dress color in the fashion spectrum.

Stark white runs second in the jewelry color sweepstakes. Women have known for years, of course, what white can do for a summer tan — now it is equally effective for summer clothing.

This season's plunging necklines demand the addition of necklaces — for accessorizing, if not for modesty! Jewelry has met the challenge with a wide variety of pendants and with special pins designed to accent or veil the low decolletages.

Shiny Nose In Shiny Legs Out

A shiny nose used to be a social sin which was quickly remedied with a dab of powder. Now a shiny nose is acceptable, but shiny legs will not be if one hosiery manufacturer puts his style idea across.

His nylon sheers have a matte finish-absolutely no silken sheen whatsoever. It is the closest to a bare-legged look since bare legs.

Brimmed Hats Provide Face Flattery To All

It's always good news when a season of brimmed hats comes back. Brims can vary so in size, shape and treatment that every women can find a brimmed hat that will do more than suit her. It will flatter her.

Thin faces thrive on round, flat sailor brims. Large faces look smaller, more feminine beneath dashing upturned pirate brims. The young look adorable in upturned Breton brims.

Perhaps brims are back because the last few seasons have been so thoroughly dominated by the turban, also a beautiful and versatile hat shape, but how many kinds of turban can you make?

Emme features a sugar scoop brim, the scoop turned upside down to shade the face in a forward jut. The sides and back are turned up. Rather like a Robin Hood with a different shape in front. This appears untrimmed in deep pink straw, trimmed with Shasta daisies in white straw, in confetti dot silk with a lovely blouse to go with it — wonderful suit accent.

Emme's young brimmed shape is a London bobby's helmet, exactly duplicated, but in flame - color stippled straw. Her sailor hat is called the Grandee, from its deep crown, looks especially beautiful in white silk faced with brown shiny braided straw.

Emme also brings back the real portrait hat, once called a garden party hat. A cotton candy pink organdie makes a huge brim on which roses are piled, or a pink organza kerchief is sown with flowers in wild pink shades.

Sally Victor has based her spring brims on the glamorous hats worn by movie stars of the Thirties. This means that crowns are often close to the head, cap-style, while brims sweep up, fold to one side, ripple dashingly.

Entirely her own is Sally's new bumper brim, sometimes round on a cloche, sometimes shovel shape on a pale blue straw, and a triumph of technique in white kid on a padre hat.

Many brimmed hats of the Thirties turned up off the face. Sally does them on caps, cloches and on a Jean Harlow beauty of white straw with white organza band and big side bow. In little brims she does a Chaplin bowler in pale felts, black and white straw, and violet straw with polka dot silk brim and scarf. As a final triumph. Mrs. Victor has revived the true Panama straw hat from Ecuador, doing it in proper South American shapes such as the Redonda, the Cholo, the Gaucho and the Otavalo, all beautiful tailored hats.

Spring hat colors in these two collections, and in others, follow fashion shades of pink, turquoise, yellow, green and white. Hattie Carnegie has a lovely blue and white brimmed beehive hat. Lilly Dache does a yellow cushion brim hat with a chevron cut in front to peak above the face.

Tierney-Morphew Vows Are Read In Philadelphia

St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Winchester Park, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, was the setting Saturday, May 30 at 1 p.m. for the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Patricia Jean Morphew and Lt. (j.g.) Thomas Cobb Tierney.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Patrick Morphew of Philadelphia and Lt. Tierney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Granville Tierney of Denver, Colorado. The bridegroom, whose mother is the former Mildred Cobb of this city, is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mansfield Cobb, also of Monroe.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length silk organza gown in the A-line princess style with an empire bodice of Chantilly lace falling into a back cape accented by tiny buttons. The train was designed of double pleating in Watteau fashion, trimmed with Chantilly lace. Her bouffant veil fell shoulder length from a pillbox formed by an organza rose, surrounded by organza petals and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of phaelanopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Kathleen Ann Cahill of Collingswood, New Jersey and bridesmaids were Mrs. James Granville Tierney of Wichita, Kans., sister-in-law of the groom and Miss Margaret Marcel Clisham of Haddonsfield, N. J. Their gowns were also in the floor length A-line design with empire bodice, fashioned of light blue linen trimmed in deeper blue satin, featuring a long shoulder drop train accented by blue satin bows. Circlets of blue satin with bows and short circular veils formed their head pieces. The honor attendant carried a bouquet of white and blue roses with a white bow and cascade of white orchids. Bridesmaids carried white orchids and white roses tied with a blue bow.

James Granville Tierney of Wichita, Kans., attended his brother as best man and ushers were Konrad G. Goldau, cousin of the bride, Washington D. C., William Allen Cobb, Monroe, cousin of the bridegroom; Robert Radcliffe of Lawrence, Kans. Lieut. (j. g.) Neal C. Tully, U. S. N., San Jose, Calif.

The bride's mother wore a willow green dress, appliqued in bone lace with beige accessories, a willow green hat and white orchid. Mrs. Tierney, mother of the groom, chose a yellow gown with accessories to match and a yellow-throated white orchid.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morphew were hosts at a champagne reception in the Pennsbury Room of the Marriott Hotel, which was followed by a seated luncheon and music for dancing.

Lt. and Mrs. Tierney, after an Eastern trip will visit the James Tierneys in Wichita, Kans., and the Granville Tierneys in Denver, before leaving for Honolulu where Lt. Tierney is stationed aboard the Destroyer U. S. S. Philip based at Pearl Harbor.

On Friday evening preceding the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Tierney entertained at a rehearsal dinner for members of the bridal party and out of town guests. MEN URGED TO ADOPT MORE COLOR

Delta Rho Delta Chapter Celebrates 20th Birthday

Sigma Chapter, Delta Rho Delta National sorority, celebrated its 20th birthday wth an Oriental banquet, Saturday night, May 23, at The Embers Restaurant.

Ming trees decorated with dried flowers, miniature umbrellas and white lovebirds decorated the T-shaped tables. Each place was marked with a small Chinese plate, miniature fan and umbrella.

To commemorate the birthday, "Twentieth," was inscribed in large red letters on gold fans, umbrellas and lanterns.

The invocation was given by Mrs. J. R. White, honorary member after which Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Archon, introduced guests and welcomed the members.

Following dinner, Howard Lance, worthy patron, spoke on the timely subject "Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman," which is the 1964-65 lecture theme for Sigma chapter.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The United States National Academy of Sciences - National Research Council, recently published an interesting report. The Food and Nutrition Board of that organization suggests that most Americans should cut their daily food intake.

We have long known that a person requires less food as he grows older, mainly because most are much less physically active from middle age on. Now the board feels that the daily calorie intake should be cut even more to compensate for the ease of current living. It believes that the typical American of today is much less active physically than the typical American of even 1958.

The Food and Nutrition Board gives the following guide to help you find out how much you should eat. Remember that you are not supposed to gain weight after the age 25. The following table is based on this concept.

WOMEN

Women 18 to 35 years old should multiply their weight at age 25 by 12.3 and add 525. This figure is the amount of calories you should have daily.

Women 35 to 55 years old should multiply their weight at age 25 by 11 and add 475.

Women between the ages of 55 and 75 should multiply their weight age 25 by 8.9 and add 400.

MEN

If you are a man between the ages of 18 and 35, and want to figure the number of calories you should have daily, multiply your weight at the age of 25 by 14 and add 725.

If your age is between 25 and 55, multiply your weight at the age of 25 by 12.5 and add 650.

Men 55 to 75 years old should multiply their weight at the age 25 by 10.7 and add 550 calories.

It is a sad commentary on our physical fitness that we are increasingly less active. As more and more push - button conveniences arrive on the modern scene we must make up for them by deliberately adding exercise to our daily routine. Less food and more exercise are the watchwords for a long vital life.

If you would like to have my calorie chart, send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

Motorola's exciting Color/65 picture is rectangular, full, bigger, with a natural shape similar to color movies. New Slim Cabinets
The new tube is more compact. This makes the cabinets trim and slim enough to blend beautifully with other room furnishings. They fit closer to the wall than ever before possible with Color TV sets.
Compare this with the way round tube sets stick out into the room.
The new Motorola Color/65 sets are available in many fine cabinet designs . . . including decorator sets designed by Drexel exclusively for Motorola.

Formal Raincoat Designed For Evening Wear

When a woman is going to a really formal affair, long gown, satin slippers and all, what does she do when the night turns out to be rainy?

Balenciaga's answer, in his spring collection, was a long, shiny black, evening raincoat, sweepingly full of skirt and sleeves, with patch pockets and an ample hood.

It was a stunner and was picked up by New York socialite Mrs. Searle Whitney, who has been getting good use out of it during this rainy spring.

Three hostesses entertained with a charming morning party honoring MAXINE GUELZOW, soon to move away to Terre Haute, Indiana. They were VIRGINIA HIGH, MILDRED HEARD, and JEAN HAMILTON, in whose home the Friday party was held. Magnolia branches decorated the entrance, where Maxine stood with the hostesses to greet guests. The honoree was wearing a spring print silk with yellow orchid corsage.

Large arrangements of magnolias used with their own foliage were used in the dining room and on the family room hearth. Coffee was served in the den from a table holding a silver basket filled with roses. FRANCES HOCHSTETLER and MARIANNE RAY alternated at the coffee service.

Blue hydrangeas decorated the low table where BETTY FRYE and ELISE MAPP served sherry. Goodies passed included bell pepper sandwiches, ripe olive and pecan sandwiches, cheese straws, chocolate squares, fresh cantaloupe balls and fresh strawberries, lemon squares. SALLY GAINNIE assisted with serving. About fifty guests called between ten and twelve.

Milred and Virginia were hostesses again on Tuesday evening, honoring visitors from South America. YOLANDO and AUGUSTO CORREDOR were here this week as guests of ISABEL and CAREY THOMPSON JR. Yolando wore for Tuesday's party a dress of pink silk ribbon knit. About fifty guests, invited to meet the Corredors, alternated between the patios of the neighboring High and Heard homes.

A popular visitor in town has been SYLVIA WILKINS, here as guest of her parents, the HERSCHEL GENTRYS. Sylvia, who planned to be here two months, is cutting her visit short to return home to Fort Hood, Texas, this coming Wednesday. Hostesses who have entertained Sylvia have included: AUDIE COLVIN, patio party; FRANCES WRIGHT, luncheon; MAGGIE ANDERS, afternoon tea; VIRGINIA GUERRIERO, luncheon; MARY ELLEN WALKER, bridge luncheon; JEANNE DOWNING, dessert bridge; MARY ANN WHIPKEY, luncheon; and CLARA DENNIS, afternoon tea. Final courtesies to Sylvia planned for the next two days are a dessert bridge tomorrow, planned by BARBARA GENTRY; and luncheon on Tuesday with CAMILLE DENNIS as hostess.

Returning Monroyans have been coming in this week from San Francisco and what must have been one of the more fabulous parties of the year. There was a round of festivities attendant on the christening of a barge in the Bay City: a trip by boat around the bay, luncheon on the barge, etc. Those who went from Monroe were BERNICE and HAROLD WOODS, LOUISE and G. L. MORGAN, JEWEL RIVERS, DIT CUTLER, JANE and JOHN SHERROUSE JR., BETTY and BERNARD BIEDENHARN, HAROLD WOODS JR. All left San Francisco last Sunday, returning by various routes which included stopovers for different members of the group at Los Angeles, Dallas, or Florida.

Parties for seniors reached their climax this week, with graduation ceremonies scheduled at each of the city's high schools. On Monday evening, Neville senior EASTLAND GRAY, entertained at a stag dinner at home. Yellow roses centered the table where guests were seated. The menu included chicken spaghetti with Italian salad, and strawberries with ice cream for dessert. Cards decorated with mortarboards marked places for eight senior boys.

Luncheon at home was the compliment planned by PEGGY FOLDS on Tuesday for DIANE HALLEY. The honoree wore a yellow corsage on her yellow summer frock. Daisies and gardenias centered the table where twelve girls were seated.

Peggy was hostess again on Wednesay, at a conversational hour honoring DIANE MOORE of Sterlington. BETTY DRENNAN was co-hostess for this party. A doll dressed in cap and gown was focal point of the bouquet of daisies which ornamented the table. Guests for this affair were all senior girls at Sterlington high school.

Eighteen guests attended a supper party at the home of JOHNNIE BEASLEY Wednesday evening. Greenery and magnolias decorated the reception area for the party. The supper menu included shrimp, sliced turkey, ham, potato salad, and lemon tea. There was dancing later, with bottled drinks, cakes and cookies served as refreshment.

Ledoux's camp was scene of outdoor supper party honoring JIM LEDOUX with ANN and JOE LEDOUX as hosts. Individual tables were set up, each covered with a checked tablecloth and centered with a hurricane light. The buffet table was decorated with a large hurricane light encircled with gardenias. Twenty-six guests were served a supper of chicken spaghetti, green salad, French bread, and brownies.

Beginning at three Wednesday afternoon, AMANDA COBB was honored by JANE and BOBBY OLIVER at a swimming and supper party. Fifty seniors were invited to the affair, which included swimming and boating on the afternoon agenda. Gay pennants decorated the gardens of the Oliver home for the party. Later supper of barbecued pork loins, beans assorted salads, and a choice of cakes was served.

Seven Neville senior girls were honored when BETTY STONE and ANN STONE entertained at a morning party on Friday. The honorees, all of whom received gardenia corsages and mortarboard charms as gifts from their hostesses, were ARDEN ANDERS, JUDY SEARCY, CAROL CULPEPPER, MILANN GANNAWAY, DIANE HALLEY, and MICKEY VARNADO. A green and white theme was carried out in decorations. A pyramid of gardenias centered the dining room table. On a second refreshment table in the den, gladioli were used with magnolias. All Neville senior girls were invited to call between ten and twelve.

An old-fashioned outdoor supper was planed when ART SMITH invited twenty senior boys to his home on Thursday evening. Long bare tables were decorated with a row of kerosene lamps. Red plaid plates and napkins created a festive note. The menu included barbecued chicken, baked beans, Cole slaw and Brownies.

Three Neville senior boys were hosts Saturday afternoon for swimming and supper. PAUL EASON, GARY HART, and MALCOLM SMITH entertained at the Eason home. The bayou bank as decorated with clusters of balloons and luau torches which were lit as the evening darkened. Barbecued supper was served to thirty-two boys and girls.

For Memorial Day weekend, our poem is "In Flanders Fields" by Lt. Col. John McCrae:

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Coffee Perks Up Writers

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Coffee Brewing Institute reports coffee perks up writers.

The Institute's historians have found that the great French writer Honore de Balzac sipped coffee as he worked. "He once said that his books had been completed only with the help of streams of coffee," they said. "Coffee . . . sets everything in motion," Balzac once wrote.

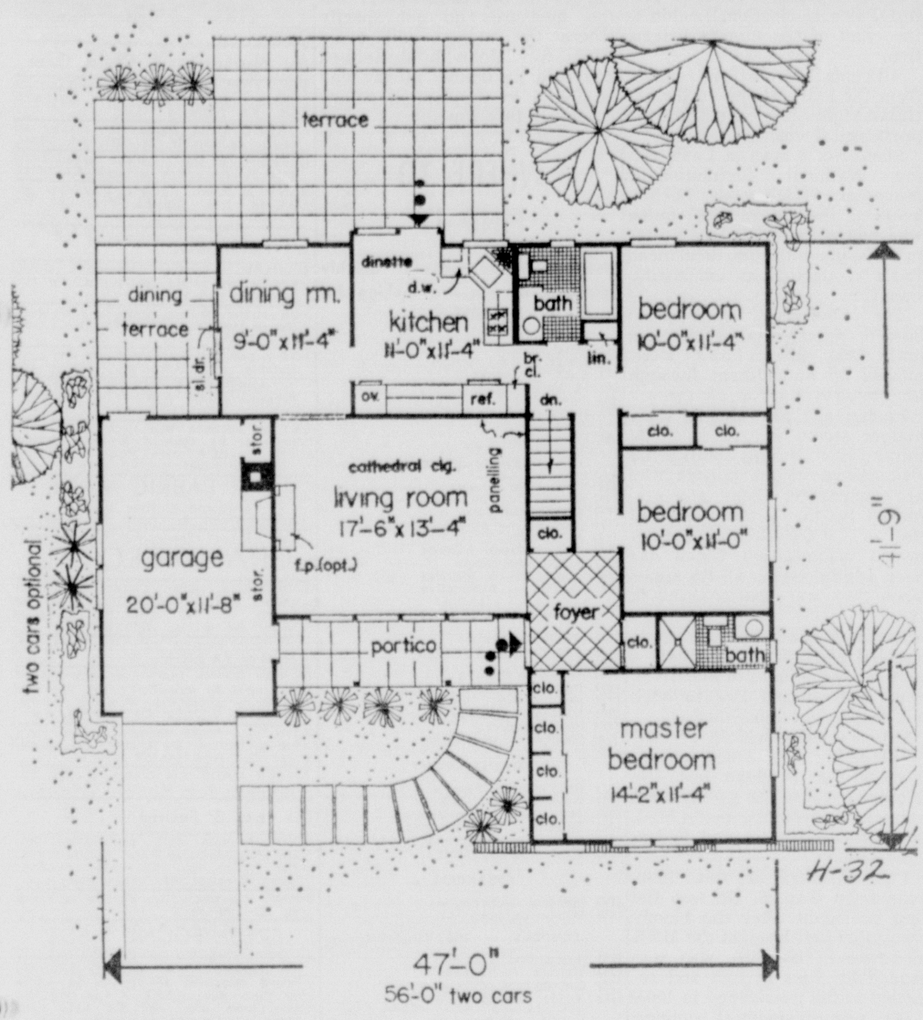
Where The Unusual Is Usual

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Efficient Floor Plan Can Give Home Spacious Air

DIGNIFIED AND ECONOMICAL: This tasteful one-story home contains six rooms, including three bedrooms. The roof has a slightly sharper pitch than most ranch type homes, allowing for a dramatic cathedral ceiling in the living room. The architect is Samuel Paul.



FLOOR PLAN: This remarkably efficient layout uses the least amount of space for traffic flow while still providing for a roomy entrance foyer and center hall plan. Note the abundance of closets—including three in the foyer.

If a small house feels small to the family living in it, the reason isn't always the obvious one of too many people. As often as not the house was just poorly designed.

The fact is, many families actually need a house smaller than the one they're in — and can have it without sacrificing an iota of comfort or livability.

"You don't design a small house merely by cutting down the size of a nice large one," insists architect Samuel Paul. "A good small house must be precisely that, a small house."

In today's House of the Week, H-32 in the series, architect Paul packaged three bedrooms, two full baths, living room, dining room, kitchen with dinette, and an entrance foyer into a tidy 1,216 square feet and dimensions of 47' wide by 41'9" deep. If a two-car garage is built instead of the single garage, the width would increase to 56'.

In short, there are more than the bare essentials here. The rooms are nicely proportioned; there is plenty of closet space throughout and traffic flows naturally and easily from one room to another.

The secret is a remarkably efficient floor plan. It is laid out to use the least amount of area for hallways while still providing for a roomy entrance foyer. Disposition of closets, baths and stairs also is cleverly done to afford natural sound buffers for the sleeping zone.

The exterior is in quiet good taste, a traditional facade featuring a covered front portico and deft use of vertical boards and shingles. It's a facade with built-in resale value; an appearance of pleasant dignity which is ageless in appeal.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

What this house saves in size it makes up in dramatic touches. The most unusual of these is a living room wall, though architect Paul includes the treatment as an optional feature.

To begin with, the living room has too wood panelled walls and a soaring cathedral ceiling which adds an extra dimension of space to the moderately large (17'6" by 13'4") room. At one end of the room Paul has designed a brick fireplace with a panelled wood hood stretching all the way up to the peak of the ceiling. On both sides of the fireplace, full mirrors reach from floor to ceiling and out to each side wall. The effect is one of exhilarating spaciousness.

Another interesting layout is that of the kitchen. It is attractive and roomy and features a corner style sink with a window right above and a dishwasher alongside. Counter and storage space are abundant, and there is plenty of room for a large dinette overlooking the rear terrace.

The dining room adjoins, and a pair of sliding glass doors leads from this room to the sheltered dining terrace. This outdoor nook can be fenced for added privacy.

Special attention is due the unusual amount of closet space for this size house. In the entrance foyer, for instance, there are no less than three closets — and none of them takes up space so important to a gracious entry. All three bedrooms also have roomy closets, and there is a linen closet right outside the bathroom door.

The family bathroom is nicely located so that it is convenient both to the bedrooms and to the daily living area. The master bedroom, of course, has its own private bath.

The house has a full basement which can be developed as the owner sees fit. With 1,216 square feet to work with, there is plenty of space available for laundry, recreation room, hobby room and the like.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-32.

Navy To Study Ocean Depths For Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP)—A step-up in the Navy's deep-ocean studies, which incidentally may produce more information about the lost atomic submarine Thresher, will get under way in the next few weeks.

New equipment for plumbing the depths with manned vehicles and a centralized organization to direct the research program will be ready.

A rebuilt Trieste, brought from the West Coast, was put into the water last week and after some preliminary tests of equipment, will head out for more exploration of the 8,000-foot depths off Cape Cod where the Thresher went down a year ago.

Another, entirely new deep-diving vessel is expected to join the research project in the near future.

Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze has approved the recommendations of a special panel set up to review "deep-submergence systems," including recommendation for eventual development of manned rescue and object-recovery vehicles which would penetrate thousands of feet into the ocean.

Nitze said he is confident that these recommendations will produce military benefits as well as pave the way for useful exploitation of the ocean's resources.

Nitze's action included transferring the work of the special deep-submergence systems study group to the Navy Special Projects Office, the agency which directed development of the Polaris missile submarine system. Capt. John H. Doland, chairman of the group, will move with the project into the Special Project Office.

At the weekend, the White House announced appointment of Dr. Robert W. Morse of Brown University to be assistant secretary of the Navy for research and development. Morse is a specialist in the field of underwater sound and anti-submarine warfare and has served as consultant to the Navy on these subjects.

1. Russia's long lead in general oceanographic exploration and research, although not in deep-submergence studies.

2. The necessity for better data on the moderately deep ocean environment in which the growing U.S. fleet of atomic attack and missile submarines operate.

3. The desire to glean additional information on the sinking of the Thresher on April 10, 1963.

Red German, Soviet Chiefs 'Agree Fully'

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev talked at the Kremlin on Saturday with Walter Ulbricht, the East German Communist party chief. A communique said they agreed fully "on all questions under discussion."

And what were those questions? The communique offered little light, presenting these generalizations:

"There was a comprehensive exchange of opinion on the further development and strengthening of the fraternal relations between the Soviet Union and the German Democratic Republic and also on a wide range of international problems of mutual interest."

Ulbricht is being given the biggest welcome ever accorded him in this Soviet capital and Western diplomats are asking themselves why.

Some wonder if a new Communist move on the Berlin question is in the offing. But they feel the Russians—for the moment at least—are more interested in friendly relations with the West than another Berlin crisis.

Pravda supplied indications the goateed German may have come to Moscow for talks about new efforts to boost both the East German and Soviet economies.

The Soviet Communist party paper supplied possible clues by printing the text of a speech Ulbricht made at a welcoming dinner in the Kremlin on Friday night.

Responding to a speech by Khrushchev, Ulbricht said an intense effort must be made not only to boost living standards, but also to produce goods which can be sold to Western markets.

"We know," he said, "just as you do, that tremendous effort is necessary to attain world leadership in various branches of science and engineering and to hold this leadership. We are standing face to face (in Berlin) with West German monopoly capital and have to deal with it every day, as well as with the imperialists of France and Britain.

"If we do not attain a world level, we shall not be able to sell our goods. And then we shall not be able to raise our living standards."

Khrushchev, in his welcoming speech, also stressed economic questions and cooperation between countries of the East bloc. That has become something of a major concern for Moscow, especially since Romania seems determined to go off in the oppsite direction.

Negroes Held As Suspects In Shooting

JENA (Special)—Two Negroes are being held at Lake Charles in connection with the Tuesday morning shooting of a Jena service station attendant.

Floyd Pritchard, 58, of Jena, was found unconscious behind the station about 4 a.m. Tuesday by a truck driver and is in an Alexandria hospital. He had not regained consciousnes later Saturday night, reports said.

The attendant was first believed to have been hit with a blunt instrument, possibly a tire tool, but examination at the hospital showed he had been shot twice in the head with a .22 caliber pistol.

The Negroes identified as John Walker (alias John Miller) and Bobby Celestone, were picked up by the Calcasieu Parish sheriff's department for questioning Friday morning. Questioning led Calcasieu authorities to believe the suspects were connected with the Jena incident.

Two LaSalle Parish sheriff's deputies, who went to Lake Charles, said the Negroes had admitted to the shooting.

The service station was robbed of $75-80 dollars in coins and bills, authorities said. The shooting was thought to have occured about 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Addresses of the suspects were not known but both were thought to be from the Lake Charles area or southeast Texas. Authorities said they were driving a car with a Texas license plate.

LaSalle Parish officers had been working on the case since the shooting was discovered and alarms were sent out to Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi as well as over Louisiana.

Election Eve Strike Starts In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The leftist Bolivian Miners Federation called a general strike Saturday, the eve of an uncontested election in which President Victor Paz Estenssoro is assured of victory.

The general strike came on the heels of a hunger strike, started Friday, by Vice President Juan Lechin and former President Hernan Siles to protest Paz's re-election. Lechin is the chief of the miners federation.

All opposition parties—ranging from the extreme left to the extreme right—are boycotting the presidential election.

Siles, No. 2 man in Paz's ruling National Revolutionary Movement—MNR—and Lechin, head of the tin miners' union who bolted the MNR last winter in a dispute with Paz, denounced Paz's re-election as unconstitutional.

The Bolivian constitution barred presidential re-election until 1960 when Paz's MNR pushed an amendment through Congress to allow it.

Lechin and Siles began their hunger strike at Oruro, a tin-mining city 50 miles south of La Paz. About 25,000 miners who are supporting them are employed by the Mining Corp. of Bolivia — COMIBOL — a state-owned organization which has been administering all tin mines since they were nationalized in 1952.

Army strength at Oruro was doubled after Siles broadcast a plea for the miners to avoid violence but warned Paz to back out to prevent bloodshed.

Oruro miners held 19 persons — including four Americans — hostage for 10 days last December because the government arrested Communist union leaders Irineo Pimentel and Federico Escobar.

Paz, 56, starts his third four-year term Aug. 6. He was the first president after the bloody revolution that brought the MNR to power in 1952. He was succeeded by Siles in 1956 and returned to the presidency in 1960.

His vice-presidential running mate is Gen. Rene Barrientos Ortuno, an MNR member. Bolivia's million registered voters also will elect 10 senators and 36 deputies. The Senate has 27 members and the Chamber of Deputies 73.

Police Activity Reported Quiet Here Saturday

Several minor law violations were investigated Saturday by Twin City law enforcement agencies but no major crimes were reported.

Willie Knox, 66, 1603 Washington St., was booked by Monroe police on charges of gambling, simple assault and disturbing the peace after his arrest at 2 a. m. in the 1600 block of Washington St.

O. W. Johnson, 25, of 71C Texas Ave., was booked on charges of simple assault and simple battery after his arrest at the parish court house at 10:57 a. m. Saturday.

JUMPING DENTIST

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Japie Joubert is South Africa's first para-dentist, winning his wings recently on eight qualifying jumps.

"For the average man parachuting is worse than going to the dentist," he said. "But the seasoned paratroopers I jump with would rather jump than visit me."

Teachers Favor Closing Schools If Pay Unraised

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A group of Jefferson Parish, La. teachers say they favor closing schools this fall if they do not get pay raises.

The statement was made in a resolution approved by 165 of the Louisiana Teacher Association unit of 1,000 members in the parish. The New Orleans States-Item said Saturday the teachers also voted to keep the resolution from the public.

Bills to raise teacher pay have been introduced into both houses of the Legislature, but the measures do not specify where the money will come from. Gov. John J. McKeithen has said he doubts money can be found to supplement salary raises at this time.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ads Locate D-Day Veterans In 5 Countries

To get truly authentic information for the movie, "The Longest Day", survivors of the D-Day invasion were needed from 5 countries . . . The United States, Canada, France, England and Germany.
Since there were virtually no records of the addresses of D-Day veterans in any of these countries, it seemed a hopeless task until Want Ads were put to use. Ads were run in service magazines and daily newspapers in every country over a 2 year period. The result: over 5,000 D-Day veterans were located.
89 to first order of each true newspaper Classified Advertising result story we accept. Howard Parish Associates, 1345 East 10th Ave., Hialeah, Fla.

WE SAW JUNIOR'S AND MOON MAID'S SPACE COUPE—BUT THOSE AERIAL COPS WOULDN'T LET US STOP.

JUNIOR DOESN'T KNOW WE'RE HERE AND IT'S IMPOSSIBLE TO COMMUNICATE WITH THE GENDARMES.

IMAGINE AN ELECTRONIC PRISON—NO BARS—JUST A WALL OF RAYS THAT LITERALLY KNOCK YOU DOWN!

THEY ISSUE FROM THIS TROUGH THAT ENCIRCLES THE FLOOR—

OW!

IT'S GOT THE WALLOP OF TEN MULES, BUT THESE COPS SEEM TO BE FRIENDLY ENOUGH FELLOWS.

AT LAST, WE'RE ON THE MOON, DIET SMITH, THANKS TO YOUR GREAT GENIUS! TO THINK I HAVE LIVED TO SEE THIS DAY!

HAVE YOU NOTICED THEY HAVE NO ROADS? EVERYONE USES THOSE ONE-MAN AIR CARS.

LOOK! THEY'RE A STEP-IN AFFAIR.

AND ABSOLUTELY NOISELESS.

UNDOUBTEDLY A MAGNETIC CAR, SIMILAR TO MY SPACE COUPE.

AND THEY DIRECT IT BY LEANING.

SIMILAR MAGNETIC POLES REPEL EACH OTHER. THAT UNDOUBTEDLY IS THE PRINCIPLE OF THEIR LIFTING POWERS.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I know you suggested washing a baby's high chair under the shower, and you have no idea how many hours of scrubbing that one hint alone has saved me.

Now before I clean out our shower stall I put my high chairs under the shower, turn on the warm water and "let 'er roar" . . . The strong spray of the shower removes all the dried food and fingerprints with little effort on my part.

Now I can go you one better: I turn off the shower after about five minutes, sponge off the tray, and leave the high chairs in the shower to dry right where they are. I don't even use my valuable time to dry them with a towel, as you suggested.

Mother of Twins

Hip hip hooray! Thank goodness I'm not a mother of twins! "Twin" Heloise

TOOTH AND NAIL

DEAR HELOISE:

One of the best fingernail brushes I have ever had was made from an old toothbrush.

I cut off the bristles to one-fourth-inch length with a razor blade. This makes a fabulous fingernail brush. It can be kept in your toothbrush holder and eliminates having an extra fingernail brush on your wash basin or in your soap tray. Costs nothing.

Alfred

MUSTY LUGGAGE

DEAR HELOISE:

We use our luggage just once a year and our suitcases always have a musty odor. Is there any way to prevent this?

Traveler

* * *

DEAR TRAVELER:

Just unwrap a bar of soap, put it in the suitcase and leave it there until your next trip. You're not wasting money . . . you can use the soap on your next trip.

Another thing—did you know that if you remove the wrapper from your soap before storing it, it will harden and last longer?

Heloise

NEEDLE POINTS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a tip for seamstresses:

If you like to save a few pennies, don't throw the sewing machine needle away once it gets a wee bit blunted. Remove it from the machine and file it smooth again with the fine side of an emery board.

Marie Odom

DEAR HELOISE:

If any men are bothered by perspiration stains on their hats . . . try tearing a piece of foil or waxed paper and inserting it inside the leather band in the hat! Sure saves my hats.

Bald-Headed Reader

TURKISH TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

For years I felt guilty about buying new bath towels when I had so many which were worn but still usable . . . until I found I could use the old ones in place of shelf paper.

These towels are marvelous when placed under dishes, canned goods, pots and pans and in silverware drawers. They cushion the noise, especially in metal cabinets.

They are also nice when used in linen closets and drawers where nail polish, face cream and lotion bottles are kept. I fold or cut the towels to fit the shelf or drawer.

Colleen Layman

TEA TIME

DEAR HELOISE:

I brew tea the way some people make coffee.

For our family, I put six cups of water in the bottom of the vacuum coffee maker and four tablespoons of tea in the top. I let this brew from three to five minutes after the water rises to the top half of the coffee maker. I then remove the pot from the heat and let the tea drain to the bottom. For iced tea I immediately pour the tea into a pitcher containing a tray of ice cubes.

GRATE NEWS

DEAR HELOISE:

To clean a grater easily after grating soft things such as cheese, try rubbing a raw potato across the grater a few times.

All the soft residue will be removed and the grater will be clean.

GIFT COINS

DEAR HELOISE:

When children's parties come up (and there seem to be so many) I go to the bank and purchase a silver dollar. I shine the dollar up and put it in a fancy box. This makes quite a hit.

Older children really appreciate this more than small ones. I usually keep several silver dollars on hand to be prepared for last-minute invitations.

Betty Bee

DEAR HELOISE:

Place a rubber fruit jar ring under your ice tray, and the tray will not stick to the bottom of the freezer compartment.

FLY SPRAY PAINT

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently I had to paint an old lawn chair which had so many intricate surfaces that brushing would have been a long and tedious task.

Since I have no spraying equipment, I simply filled my fly sprayer with paint and sprayed the chair in a matter of minutes with only a dime's worth of paint!

The sprayer was easily cleaned with turpentine later. It really works and is fine for a quickie job.

HANDY LITTLE COVER

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found a perfect cover for my "sleeve" ironing board.

I use my husband's old white cotton socks!

I slit the sock from the top down to the heel and slip it over the sleeve board. The toe of the sock is a perfect fit for the pointed end of the board. The slit part is put on the underneath part of the board, naturally.

The sock may either be sewn on or pinned with a safety pin.
